BORAH BEATEN BY REPUBLICANS IN N. Y. PRIMARY

O. K. Solid Slate of Free Delegates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 3 [Friday].—[Special.]—The old guard of the Republican party triumphed in the primary election yesterday, spiked the presidential boom of Senator William E. Borah so far as New York state is concerned, and will have a unanimously unpledged and uncommitted delegation at the Republican national convention next June.

The victory of the conservative wing of the Republican party was overwhelming. Not only were the Borah candidates defeated in nine congressional districts in which they made contests, but the organization candidates for delegates defeated independent candidates not pledged to Borah in three other districts.

Triumph Over Macy.

In repelling the attack upon the party organization by the supporters of Senator Borah the party organization, headed by National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles and State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton, won a victory which should have an important bearing on the national convention, both as regards the candidates for President and the platform.

This victory included triumphs over W. Kingsland Macy, former state chairman; Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., and William Ziegler Jr., leaders of the Borah forces.

Mr. Macy, who ran for alternate instead of delegate, was defeated decisively in his attempt to elect C. Walter Randall of Nassau county and County Clerk Jenkin R. Hockert of Queens, Borah pledged candidates, over J. Russel Sprague, Nassau county leader, and George Grau of Queens, the organization designees.

Loses 3 Towns in Home County.

Nearly complete returns indicated the election of Sprague and Grau by pluralities of more than 20,000, the greater part of which was contributed by the heavy vote in Nassau county for the organization candidates.

Mr. Macy, who was defeated for his candidates for delegates, lost three towns in his home county of Suffolk, where he is the party leader. These were the towns of Shelter Island, Southold, and Riverhead. Randall and Hockert, however, each carried Suffolk county by pluralities which exceeded 2,500 and may reach 4,000 on the complete tabulation of the returns.

Borah supporters had entered no delegates in 34 districts, choosing instead to center their fight in handpicked districts where it was believed the chances of electing delegates pledged to the Idaho senator would be the best. In this they were wrong, as the late returns increased the margin by which regular organization candidates beat their opponents. The old guard had delegates in all the 34 districts in which there were no Borah contests, and these unpledged delegates were elected unopposed.

Democratic Boss Wins.

In the contests for members of state and county committees Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader, repelled an attack on his organization, the only contest remaining in doubt being that of former Park Commissioner Thomas J. Dolan against Harry W. Cook, present leader of the Fourth Bronx assembly district.

The renomination of President Roosevelt was not involved in any of the few contests for delegates to the Democratic national convention. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who is opposed to the President's policies and has indicated that he will "take a walk" from the convention if it approves these policies, was elected a delegate to the national convention from the Eleventh congressional district without opposition.

URGES SUICIDE FOR PACIFISTS IF WAR BREAKS OUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—Suicide in event of another war is recommended by Dr. C. D. Broad, professor of moral philosophy at Cambridge university, for pacifists not willing to live by the efforts of nonpacifists who fight. He believes, too, that any conscription law should impose a death penalty for refusal to undertake war service. Really conscientious objectors, he adds, should welcome it.

BARE RECORDS OF HORNER PAY ROLL PADDING

Photostatic records were found last night showing that two editorial employés of a downstate newspaper were put on the pay rolls of Gov. Horner's administration two weeks before they were asked whether they wanted to be there.

The records were found in the files of the office of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett at Springfield. When State Treasurer John Stelle was informed of the discovery he declared that it supported his charges that the managers of Gov. Horner's campaign for renomination at the April 14 primary have padded the state pay rolls with hundreds of persons who are not working for Illinois but only for Horner votes.

Treasurer Stelle and Auditor Barrett have refused to approve the pay vouchers of state employés in a number of departments on the ground that 3,000 of them are merely political pay rollers.

Employés of Alton Paper.

The two editorial employés who, according to the records, were hired by the state administration without their knowledge are Thomas Butler and Joseph J. Dromgoole of the Alton Evening Telegraph, a newspaper of Alton, Ill.

Photostatic copies of letters written by Butler on March 27 and by Dromgoole on March 28 were found. The letters were addressed to Hiram McCullough, an official of the state department of insurance. In the letters Butler and Dromgoole refused offers of jobs in the department. Dromgoole's letter showed that McCullough had offered him a job on March 25.

Then there came to light a photostatic copy of an "extra help" pay roll voucher submitted to Auditor Barrett by the insurance department on March 20. This showed that the auditor had been requested to make out pay checks for Butler and Dromgoole for the period from March 12 to 31.

Checks Are Held Up.

These checks were stopped by the action of the treasurer and auditor, but it was pointed out that if the checks had reached Butler and Dromgoole the two men would have been paid at the rate of $75 a month for a period of two weeks before they were offered the jobs.

Investigators said these discoveries gave color to reports that the Horner campaign managers have been trying to influence newspapers in favor of the governor's candidacy. They said it strengthened their suspicions of what has been happening in many downstate counties.

Butler's letter to McCullough was pungent in its comment on the job offer. He expressed the opinion that the offer was ill advised and added: "This is not that kind of a newspaper, and I am sure that its respect for Gov. Horner would be adversely affected by the employment proposed in your letter."

Other Developments in Probe.

Other developments yesterday in the investigation that became public on Wednesday when Stelle and Barrett withheld pay checks from approximately 10,000 employés were:

1. Stelle replied to Horner's charge that his action was "cheap politics" by producing an affidavit from a state employé who was carried on two pay rolls.

2. W. Emory Lancaster, chairman of the state civil service commission, made a formal demand for payment of civil service employés. Horner lieutenants and Stelle and Barrett were awaiting a ruling from Attorney General Kerner on the legality of holding up the pay checks. Threats of court action to compel payment of salaries were made.

3. Barrett charged that Horner's employment of extra help has dissipated savings of an earlier economy drive in which state employés' wages were slashed 10 per cent.

4. Chicago investigators, working independently, turned up evidence showing that at least some of those reputed to be on Horner padded pay rolls apparently were not on the job yesterday and didn't intend to do any work for the state today.

The Chicago investigators began their inquiry in the afternoon among

LILLIAN RUSSELL RING WORTH $50,000 GIVEN BY COURT TO RECEIVER

New York, April 2.—(AP)—The odyssey of the $50,000 diamond and emerald ring once owned by Lillian Russell, the actress, was ended today when it was ordered turned over to Edgar M. Le Pard, receiver for the property of the actress' daughter, Dorothy Russell.

Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer upheld the claim of Le Pard for the ring to satisfy a $1,150 judgment against the daughter.

The ring had been successively owned by the actress, her husband, the late Alexander Moore, one-time ambassador to Spain; Dorothy Caruso Ingraham, widow of Enrico Caruso; Dorothy Russell, and her attorney, Samuel Kornbluth.

DOUR TERRIER WINS IN SUIT TO END BARKS

Cleveland, O., April 2.—(AP)—Megs, pudgy and be-whiskered Scottish terrier, "conducted herself as a perfect lady" in the eyes of Common Pleas Judge Samuel Silbert today, and escaped an injunction against a few "yips" in her own back yard.

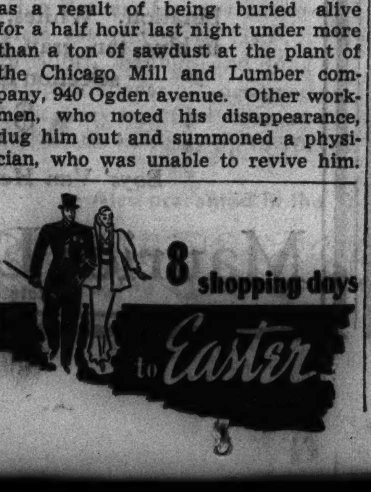
A neighbor in the fashionable Edgewater drive neighborhood, Mrs. Florence Abel, asked an injunction against the dog's "disturbing the peace in the night," pleading aggravation of a serious nervous heart ailment.

The Scottie came into court on a leash. She sat quietly in the lap of her mistress, Miss Betty Stinchcomb, 18, during the hearing.

Judge Silbert, in denying the injunction, said "the dog conducted herself as a perfect lady in court. She seems inclined to be dull. She is inoffensive and quiet. In fact, she doesn't amount to much."

Mill Worker Loses Life; Buried Under Sawdust

William Metcalfe, 43 years old, 2019 Wellington avenue, died early today as a result of being buried alive for a half hour last night under more than a ton of sawdust at the plant of the Chicago Mill and Lumber company, 940 Ogden avenue. Other workmen, who noted his disappearance, dug him out and summoned a physician, who was unable to revive him.



Mrs. Berger's Nazi Slap Stirs Up Milwaukee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2.—[Special.]—Following a meeting at the Republican hotel today a group of leading German-Americans announced they had made preliminary plans for an organized protest against remarks about Germany made by Mrs. Meta Berger, school board director. There was talk of a move to recall her as a member of the board. This action followed dropping of Mrs. Berger from Mayor Hoan's campaign committee, although she still is a member of the Socialist party.

Mrs. Berger is the widow of Victor Berger, noted Socialist leader and congressman. She attracted attention last year during the investigation of Red activities at the University of Wisconsin.

The remarks the group objected to were made Monday night when Mrs. Berger opposed granting permission for attendance of public school directors at the Olympic games in Berlin. She advocated having them get their culture in soviet Russia rather than Nazi Germany.

The 12 men who attended the meeting said they had been approached by hundreds of German-Americans who had demanded that an answer be made by Mrs. Berger on behalf of the German people.

Speaker for German Hour.

The group arranged for broadcasts to give the protests wide circulation. The members present also constituted themselves a special committee to bring the subject before all German-American societies of the city.

"The starting of a recall action to remove Mrs. Berger as a member of the school board was discussed, and undoubtedly will be another outcome of committee action," said Bernard Hofmann, 2500 North 21st street, one of those at today's meeting. Hofmann was active for seven years in organizing the German-American federation, which comprises 85 German-American societies, and at one time was its president.

Receives Anonymous Calls.

Hofmann said he had also received four anonymous phone calls, two of them today, threatening him with "the worst beating of his life" if he did not desist from formulating a protest.

Expressing his personal opinion on Mrs. Berger's speech at the board of education meeting, Hofmann said: "The remarks were an outrage and an insult to every German-American, not only in Milwaukee, but elsewhere. I feel it was a personal attack on our parents of German blood, and we are not willing to let the remarks go without a challenge."

TEMPLE-FORT, OLDER BY 300 YEARS THAN ANY KNOWN, IS FOUND

Philadelphia, Pa., April 2.—[Special.]—A prehistoric architect's conception of a combined citadel and temple of worship, antedating by nearly three centuries the earliest biblical reference to temple fortresses, has been uncovered by archaeologists at Tepe Gawra, in northern Mesopotamia, it was announced today at the University of Pennsylvania.

The discovery and excavation of the massive walled "round house," a circular building of sun brick unique among all prehistoric finds, climaxed the seventh season of work at the "Great Mound" fifteen miles northeast of Mosul by a joint expedition of the University museum and the American Schools of Oriental Research.

SNOWFALL OVER, CITY STARTS TO DIG ITSELF OUT

Below freezing temperatures, which spread over the entire midwest yesterday, accompanied by snowfall that reached nearly 4 inches in Chicago, are to remain today, according to the official forecast. Tomorrow the temperature may begin to rise, it was predicted, and no more snow is expected.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said he did not expect a temperature above freezing during the day. The range yesterday was from 27 to 29.

The snow was general over the plains states and in Chicagoland. Milwaukee had 7.8 inches, and parts of Michigan were buried under four inches. The white blanket extended south of Springfield. Roads, however, were open almost everywhere and no trafic troubles were anticipated.

More than 1,800 men were put to work in the loop clearing the slushy snow from the streets yesterday. Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt said all except 235 were WPA workers. He estimated the cost at $5,000.

Record Baltimore Throng Says Farewell to Bori

Baltimore, Md., April 2.—[Special.]—Before the most brilliant assemblage of its kind ever witnessed here in the historic Lyric theater, Lucrezia Bori tonight bade farewell to the American operatic stage. Miss Bori sang the rôle of Mimi in Puccini's "La Boheme." It was the opening of the Baltimore opera season by the Metropolitan Opera company, during which three performances will be given. The audience was the largest in history.

33 Lose Lives as Tornadoes Whip 5 States

Greensboro, N. C., April 2.—(AP)—Spring storms, ravaging through five southern states, left at least 33 dead and millions of dollars of property damage in their wake tonight.

Tornadic winds which lashed north Florida, Alabama, and Georgia, killing sixteen in Cordele, Ga., moved on up the seaboard tonight, striking the Greensboro business district.

The tornado ripped through Greensboro late in the day, causing seven known deaths, injuring scores and doing between one and one and a half million dollars of property damage.

Hospitals Are Overtaxed.

Every available ambulance in the city was worked overtime taking the injured to hospitals, which were taxed to their capacity.

The city was thrown into confusion as the twister cut through the edge of the business district, in a narrow path almost parallel with the main lines of the Southern railway. Power was cut off as a protective measure.

National Guardsmen were called to duty.

The storm cut a narrow swath for a distance of two and a half miles, leveling numerous residences, damaging others and battering industrial plants.

Thousand Homeless in Town.

In Cordele, south Georgian city of approximately 6,000 population, it was estimated that more than one thousand were homeless.

Georgia's known dead were totaled at twenty-three, with single fatalities in Alabama, South Carolina, and Florida.

The new deaths brought to fifty the season's storm toll. Seventeen were killed in tornadoes in the Georgia section several weeks ago.

R. H. Riner of Atlanta, state director of commodity distribution for the Federal Emergency Relief administration, said in addition to the homeless in Cordele between 400 and 500 were injured.

Five companies of National Guardsmen patrolled the area and directed rescue work. Physicians and nurses who poured in from nearby communities ministered to the injured. The lone hospital, two hotels and a baseball stadium, dedicated only yesterday, were filled to overflowing.

Storm Hops to Carolinas.

The tornadic winds roared out of the southwest corner of Georgia, hedge-hopped crazily to the northeast, turned north after generating the most destructive force at Cordele.

Among the harder hit in the Carolinas were Concord, N. C., and Hampton, S. C. More than ,000 houses at Concord were damaged and a number of mills in that big textile center were idle because of power failure. Allendale, Hampton, and Barnwell counties were raked by destructive winds.

The winds leveled many rural homes near Gordo, Ala., one death and six injuries were recorded in that vicinity. The sick room of W. T. Porter was all that remained of his house in the Hannah community. The rest was blown away, but Porter, confined to his bed with serious illness, was unhurt.

GRAND JURORS REJECT WENDEL KIDNAP CHARGE

Bruno's Only Hope Is Governor.

BULLETIN.

Trenton, N. J., April 3 (Friday).—(AP)—A high state official close to the prosecution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann predicted early today that Gov. Harold G. Hoffman would grant another reprieve to the condemned Lindbergh kidnap-slayer, despite legal opinions that he has no power to do so. The governor several times recently has said he would not grant another reprieve.

BULLETIN.

Trenton, N. J., April 3 (Friday).—(Special.)—The Mercer county grand jury was reliably reported at 2 a. m. to have voted a "no bill" in regard to the charges against Paul H. Wendel that he murdered the Lindbergh baby.

Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall is expected to appear before a Common Pleas or Supreme court jurist today with a formal motion for dismissal of the charges.

Attorney General Wilentz will be asked by Warden Mark O. Kimberling this morning to issue a legal opinion concerning the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

(Picture on Back Page.)

Trenton, N. J., April 3 [Friday].—[Special.]—After fifteen hours of hectic deliberations the Mercer county grand jury shortly before last midnight voted to abandon its investigation of the Lindbergh baby slaying.

Only a second reprieve from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman—which the Hauptmann prosecution charges would be illegal now—can interfere with the fulfilment of the execution.

The jury will not meet again until next Tuesday afternoon. Their decision left Warden Mark O. Kimberling in a quandary regarding the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, scheduled to take place at 8 o'clock tonight.

After some hesitation Prosecutor Erwin Marshall declared definitly that the jury had concluded its investigation of the charge of killing the Lindbergh child which has been placed against Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton lawyer. The jurors had failed to find sufficient evidence against Wendel, including his "confession," to indict him.

Questioned Four Hours.

Wendel was grilled for nearly four hours by the grand jury before it decided not to indict him. He told a lengthy story of being shanghaied in New York last Feb. 14 and imprisoned for ten days in a Brooklyn rooming house, where four unidentified men seared his face with hot electric light bulbs, burned his eyelashes, and clubbed him. On the ninth day he capitulated, he said, and signed a statement that he had kidnaped the child and that it had died a natural death thirty days later in a fall from its crib.

Wendel repudiated this statement as soon as he was turned over to Trenton authorities last Saturday night by Detective Ellis H. Parker.

Despite the grand jury's refusal to act against Wendel the belief persisted here that Gov. Hoffman has not given up his fight to delay the execution of Hauptmann and will issue a reprieve to the German carpenter.

"Couldn't Have Written Notes."

Two handwriting experts who testified against Hauptmann at the trial a year ago in Flemington, N. J., appeared before the grand jury. They were Elbridge Stein and Albert D. Osborn and both stated positively that Wendel could not have written the ransom notes sent to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after the kidnaping.

The jurors emerged from their hearing room shortly before midnight after a session that had begun at 9 a. m. They pressed through a large crowd, refusing to comment. The foreman, Allyne Freeman, announced only that the jury had quit until next Tuesday.

Next Move Up to Jury.

Ten minutes later Prosecutor Marshall made a similar announcement.

"The jurors have voted to discontinue the Wendel investigation," he said. "They will meet again next Tuesday."

"Will they take up the investiga"...tion again at that time?" he was asked.

"That is up to them," was the reply. But unofficially the prosecutor indicated that the jury was convinced that there was insufficient evidence to indict Wendel.

Reached at the state prison early this morning, Col. Kimberling said:

"The grand jury proceedings were the only legal proceedings pending which could have prevented the execution.

Wanted to Be Sure.

"I did not want to electrocute one man so long as there was possibility that the grand jury might indict another for the same crime. Now there is nothing to stand in the way of execution of Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard's order that Hauptmann be put to death this present week."

Asked what he would do if Gov. Hoffman, who delayed the execution by granting a thirty day reprieve in January, should grant another reprieve or if some other legal proceeding were started during the day, the colonel replied he would seek legal advice. He said he did not know whether he would consult Justice Trenchard or Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who has had charge of the Hauptmann prosecution.

Gov. Hoffman in an appearance before the grand jury yesterday was said to have insisted that the jury seriously consider the Wendel "confession" which was branded as absurd by all the state's prosecuting officials. Attorney General Wilentz followed Hoffman into the grand jury room and told the jurors that the "confession," taken at its face value, did not justify a murder indictment.

Four to Be Arrested.

As soon as the jury has issued its final report four persons will be arrested on orders of the attorney general's office, it was learned. They are Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives, who obtained the statement from Wendel and who insists that the ex-lawyer is the baby's kidnaper; Parker's son, Ellis Jr.; his secretary, Anna Baeding, and James S. Kirkham, chief of Mercer county detectives, who made the murder charge against Wendel.

Gov. Hoffman made it clear that he had changed his attitude about a second reprieve. Whereas, on Monday, after the state court of pardons had turned down Hauptmann's appeal for clemency, he had stated definitly that he was washing his hands of the case, the governor again obviously was in a fighting mood. He made public a telegram he had received from Samuel Small, a New York handwriting expert, which read in part:

"Bruno Hauptmann to this day is incapable of imitating the ransom notes. I can prove conclusively the physical impossibility backed by all experts that a person cannot disguise their writing from one known method to another known method without conflicting the known systems."

Such statements have been made before, but the governor in giving publicity to this wire revealed that he has not retreated from his stand that Hauptmann is not guilty of the murder.

Next Move Unpredictable.

The case was in an unpredictable stage today. Anything might happen, all officials agreed. Warden Kimberling, who postponed Hauptmann's execution from Tuesday to Friday night, qualified every announcement about preparations for the electrocution with the phrase "If something doesn't happen."

The warden disclosed Hauptmann's confidence that the execution will not take place tonight.

"He had a good night's sleep, but seemed a little downcast in the morning," Kimberling said. "For breakfast he had only coffee and a roll. About 1 p. m. he seemed to cheer up and smoked his pipe. His wife visited him at 1:30 p. m. and he was in very good spirits thereafter."

WENDEL CHARGES CROSS TORTURE BY HIS CAPTORS

Matches Held to Face, Suspect Asserts.

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Torture with lighted matches and a sort of crucifixion, with ropes supplanting nails, was visited on Paul H. Wendel in forcing his repudiated confession to the Lindbergh kidnaping, according to the story he told to Brooklyn authorities, William F. X. Geoghan, district attorney of Brooklyn, said today.

Wendel detailed what he declares happened while he was kept prisoner for ten days in Brooklyn in a two and one-half hour talk last night with Assistant District Attorney William F. McGuinness, who went to Trenton to determine whether any crime had been committed in his territory.

Geoghan announced today that whether he would ask the Kings county grand jury to indict depended on what the Mercer county grand jury, now investigating Wendel's confession, decides to do.

Turns Over New Clew.

He revealed, however, that he was turning over to New York City police a dry cleaner's tag which may help verify Wendel's story and may help identify the house in which he alleges he was kept prisoner.

Wendel asserted that he obtained the tag by asking his captors if he could send out his suit to be cleaned and pressed, knowing that the tag put on it might later locate the neighborhood in which he was held.

Wendel told McGuinness that his captors warned him: "If you don't confess we'll get rid of you the way we got rid of Judge Crater. We'll put you in a barrel filled with cement and dump you in the ocean.

"That's the way we got rid of Jole Amberg [missing New York gangster], too."

Kept in Dark, He Says.

The prisoner was kept in the cellar, according to his story, and for ten days saw only a thin ray of light from a crack. He was manacled hand and foot, he said, except when they removed the chains and strung him up by his thumbs, arms outstretched, against a sort of wooden cross.

At other times, he told McGuinness, the four men would hold lighted matches within a fraction of an inch of his eyelids. It was the truss torture which finally wrung the confession from him, he said.

His captors took the confession to Ellis H. Parker, chief detective of Burlington county and special investigator in the Lindbergh case for Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, according to the story. They brought back the handwritten sheets and said there would have to be some changes. After these changes were made he was taken to Detective Parker's home in New Jersey, where he stayed one night, Wendel said.

Gives Names and Aliases.

Wendel was able to give names and aliases for two of his captors, which, he said, he had learned by listening sharply. One apparently lived at the St. George hotel in Brooklyn. He was able to give only the first names of the other two men.

Describing this part of Wendel's statement, Geoghan said today:

"Wendel said he went up to the Parker stoop, rang the bell and Ellis Parker's son answered the door. He said Parker's son said to him, 'we didn't expect you until the middle of next week.' He said that when he got into the house he asked those there to get the two fellows who were out in the automobile, but that they paid no attention to him.

"He said," Geoghan continued, "he asked for a doctor and that none was called. He said he then sat down and made a statement to Parker which covered seven pages, in the presence of Parker's son and Parker's secretary, Ann Bading."

Geoghan then displayed a document, with the remark:

"Here is the seven page statement that he made."

"He said," Geoghan continued, "that they took him upstairs to a nice room, where he stayed over night, and that the next day he was taken to a sanatorium at New Lisbon, N. J. He said that while he was in the house on Emmons avenue, Brooklyn, he asked to have his suit dry cleaned and pressed. He said he did that because he believed that on the returned suit there would be a little tag from the concern that did the job, and that by this tag he might locate positively the house."

"Wendel said the suit did come back with a tag on—a green tag and a small one, bearing the numbers 907-3XV," Geoghan went on, adding that this was the tag he was turning over to the police for a checkup to locate the cleaner.

Description of Captors.

Wendel, according to Geoghan, gave the following description of his captors. The man who pushed the gun against his back and forced him into the automobile in front of the Hotel Sanford in West 32d street was known, he said, as Jack.

"Wendel said that Jack had light hair and sideburns and was about 5 feet 5 inches in height and weighed 125 pounds. He said there was another fellow referred to as Tony. He was about the same height and weighed about 155 pounds and had scars on his face as if it had been 'lifted.' He said there was another fellow there who seemed to be the leader of the gang and who was referred to as Hank, and he heard him called Harry Spidella by some of the gang. Spidella, to him, identified himself as George White, according to Wendel.

"Wendel said Spidella told him he lived in the Hotel St. George, Brooklyn. This same fellow said he had been a pal of the Shapiro mob in the Tombs in Manhattan and had been a pal with Al Capone in Atlanta.

"He said that Spidella was about 5 feet 10, dark complexion, with a deep scar on his left hand and was heavily built, weighing about 200 pounds. He said the fourth man was a fellow he heard referred to as William Maier, nick named Freud. He said he had a high forehead and seemed to be a Frenchman. He said he was about 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighed about 135 pounds, and was a very neat dresser.

"Wendel said Freud wore mocha gloves," Geoghan continued. "He said Freud told him he had just bought a new Cadillac car. Wendel said they came to Brooklyn in the automobile and that he was not blindfolded at any time."

His Story of Torture.

Wendel's description of his torture was detailed by the district attorney as follows:

"He said they told him the way they did it was to kill a fellow, put his body in a barrel of cement and, after it hardened, take barrel and body and cement and dump them in the river. He said they took the manacles off from time to time and strung him up by the thumbs on a board leaning against the wall, with his arms outstretched and chains on his ankles.

"Wendel said that while he was in that position they punched and kicked him and took lighted cigarets and placed them close to the corner of his eyes. He said that from time to time they would hold a large lighted electric bulb close to his eyes. He said that after one week of the torture, at their dictation, he drew up a confession in longhand which he signed.

"He said that Spidella took that confession and said he would be back. He said that on the next day Spidella came back and said the confession was not satisfactory. He said they then wanted to make certain changes, but that he didn't make all the changes they wanted, but rewrote it, making some changes. He said that Spidella took the second confession away and that he [Wendel] understood it was being taken to Ellis Parker's house in New Jersey. He said Spidella came back and said the confession was now O. K."

FOURTH 'LAST VISIT' MADE TO DEATH CELL BY MRS. HAUPTMANN

Trenton, N. J., April 2.—(AP)—"I'll see you again," Bruno Richard Hauptmann cheerfully told his wife, Anna, when she left his death cell today on the eve of his scheduled execution.

"I'll see you again, Richard," Mrs. Hauptmann replied confidently, and walked through the steel prison doors smiling after a 45 minute visit.

There were no farewells exchanged between the condemned Lindbergh baby slayer and the wife who declared today he will not die.

"Do you feel confident this is not your last visit?" Mrs. Hauptmann was asked as she emerged from the prison after the last call she is permitted under prison rules, unless something intervenes to bring another delay.

"Yes, I do," she said firmly, and smiled again.

Mrs. Hauptmann has made four trips with a nurse to the deathhouse.

ASK ASSEMBLY TO INVESTIGATE HAUPTMANN CASE

Princeton, N. J., April 2.—[Special.]—Aroused by recent developments in the Hauptmann case, a group of Princeton university professors and graduates, including Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of the university, petitioned the New Jersey legislature today to determine whether or not any public officials connected with the case are open to impeachment or removal from office.

The petition, bearing thirty-four signatures, specifically requested the legislature "to investigate whether attempts have been made by public officials or by any other persons to annul orderly processes of law and if so whether grounds exist for the removal or impeachment of such officials."

Detective Parker Convicts 288 Criminals in 44 Years

Mount Holly, N. J., April 2.—(AP)—Ellis H. Parker, Burlington county's detective chief, whose investigations have brought convictions in all except 12 of the 300 crimes he has studied, stood firmly on his record tonight in his sensational activities in the Lindbergh case. He has had 44 years' experience as a criminal investigator.

Regarding the "confession" of Paul H. Wendel, now before the Mercer county grand jury, the 64 year old detective would say only that when the facts were known he would be vindicated.

Parker, tired and ill from his long session with the grand jury, held that the case was out of his hands—that he had done nothing except deliver to "proper" authorities a man wanted for various crimes.

Listens to Any Story.

His ways as a detective are not always mysterious. He does favors when he can, and listens patiently to any one's story, fantastic or not. Of this habit Parker says:

"That fellow will remember me. If he sees anything happen, some time, he'll remember me and tell me about it."

Parker talks a salty dialect, indigenous to rural Burlington county. He smokes incessantly either a pipe or a cigar.

Horse Thief Chaser.

His first real contact with crime chasing came as a member of the Monmouth, Ocean and Burlington Pursuing society, a group of burghers who organized to chase horse thieves much as the volunteer fire companies chased blazes.

He is married and the father of 15 children, eight of whom are living.

Seventeen years ago he employed as stenographer Anna Yoos, now Mrs. Herman Bading, who is credited with doing much of Parker's sleuthing.

Parker's son, Ellis Jr., also has aided his father in investigations and with Mrs. Bading witnessed the "confession" taken from Wendel.

Most of the cases Parker has handled have drama. Many of them are famous, but all are characterized by his reluctance to disclose to any one what he suspects until the man is arrested and the case against him complete.

Solves Killing Quickly.

An illustration was the murder of William Giberson, a wealthy lumberman of Lakehurst, whose home life appeared to be without incident. Early one morning his wife ran screaming from the house in her nightgown, calling for help.

She told police that, being unable to sleep, she had gone to the front door, where two men suddenly appeared and seized her. One held her while the other entered the bedroom, a shot was fired and the men fled, she said.

Parker listened to her story. When she had gone he remarked to his assistants: "She killed Giberson."

Parker finally confronted the woman with the charge she murdered her husband.

"How can you say such a thing?" she demanded.

"Then why," asked Parker, "did you hide those new widow's weeds in the attic just before your husband was shot?"

She was convicted.

DEATH DECLARED SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict, stating that William Norman, 33 years old, 1240 North Paulina street, killed himself by plunging down an elevator shaft in the plant of the Export Lamp company, 1718 Division street. Testimony showed he had threatened to commit suicide.

DON'T PUNISH ME! FARGO LETTERS BEG OF LUCILE

Court Hears Missives in Estate Battle.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The progress of the romance between Livingston Wells Fargo, member of the family which founded the old Wells-Fargo Express company, and Lucile Camden, which began 30 years ago, was delineated through the first six months of their association in additional letters read in Probate court yesterday.

In passionate terms Livingston, then a man in his middle forties, continued to declare his love for Lucile in these months, but began to reproach her for doubting him and charging that he neglected her, the letters showed.

Letters Bring Tears.

Meanwhile Miss Camden, who is claiming a widow's share in the estate of Fargo—who died here in 1934 at the age of 74—sat at the counsel table with her sister, Mrs. Mary J. Camp, 59 years old, who lives with her at 5054 Winthrop avenue. Miss Camden's claim is based on her statement that she was united with Fargo through a common law marriage in Philadelphia on May 5, 1906.

Her gray hair tucked under a black hat brim, her plump, clear skinned face calm, Miss Camden silently wiped a few tears from her dark eyes with a dainty white handkerchief as Attorney Paul A. Neuffer, her counsel, read letters which revealed the lovers' first misunderstandings. As court adjourned until 2 p. m. today, she drew on spotless white gloves, took the arm of her sister, who with her does seamstress work under WPA, and walked away a little stiffly.

Reproaches for "Impatience."

One letter indicating that he had received reproaches from her was dated Nov. 15, 1906. In it, as read by Attorney Neuffer, Fargo wrote:

"Dearest, . . . I have been so unhappy and blue. And I needed your patience and help so much. . . When your telegram came saying your life depended on seeing me Sunday it meant either you were ill or that you have lost all your patience for me. You did not mean what you said, but everything you said goes straight to my heart, as you know.

"If your telegram was intended to stir me up, it was cruel. Don't be cruel, but help me at these times. I sent you two drafts Tuesday. Did you get them? Love me; don't punish me. You have all my love and life and heart and future. Take good care of it."

A Jubilant Reply.

After an answer to this, apparently, he wrote more jubilantly on Nov. 20:

"Dearest. Yes, dearest and my dearest, now I know that nothing shall ever separate our love and never shall come an hour or day that shall make our love less, only greater.

"Darling, my Lucile, I want more of your life. I want you to take me with you in all your thoughts and actions and to make them mine. When you are happy, be so with me. When you are sad and lonely, let me be closed safely behind quiet doors with you. When you are angry, it shall be mine, too, and when your passion hungers, shut out all the world with me.

"When your mind and body, rebellious at restraint, and teaching, and words of what to do and what not to do, crave a free hour without restraint, an hour or a night, when your eyes, and ears, and whole body wants and wants hard, strong acts and a free rein to your feelings; let me be with you, and share all your ways, and let me be your only satisfaction and companion in it all. Let me be everything to you at all times.

Love—No Matter the Mood.

"I love all your moods and ways, all your passions and cravings. I do not want a part of your life, any more than I want a part of your love. If you keep me away from a part of your life, then you go to others for companionship. You want the man who loves you and whom you love, love all of you and be all to you; be everything that you love and crave and desire, no matter what it is."

In other letters he spoke of getting mining stock for them, and alludes to "our" marine stock, and describes a luncheon with an attorney who was a relative of the Vice President, explaining that politics played a big part in the value of their stock. If congress granted steamships a subsidy, the stock would go up and they would make about $30,000. "Won't it be fun?" he asked, and added that it was all for her that he made such ventures.

A letter written Dec. 4, 1906, said: "My very own, this is my night—our night. Before me on the table are two photographs. And I am loving them as I love you, and when the letter is finished I shall slip into bed and go to sleep, full of you and carry you away with me and keep you close to me and in my arms all the dark live-long night.

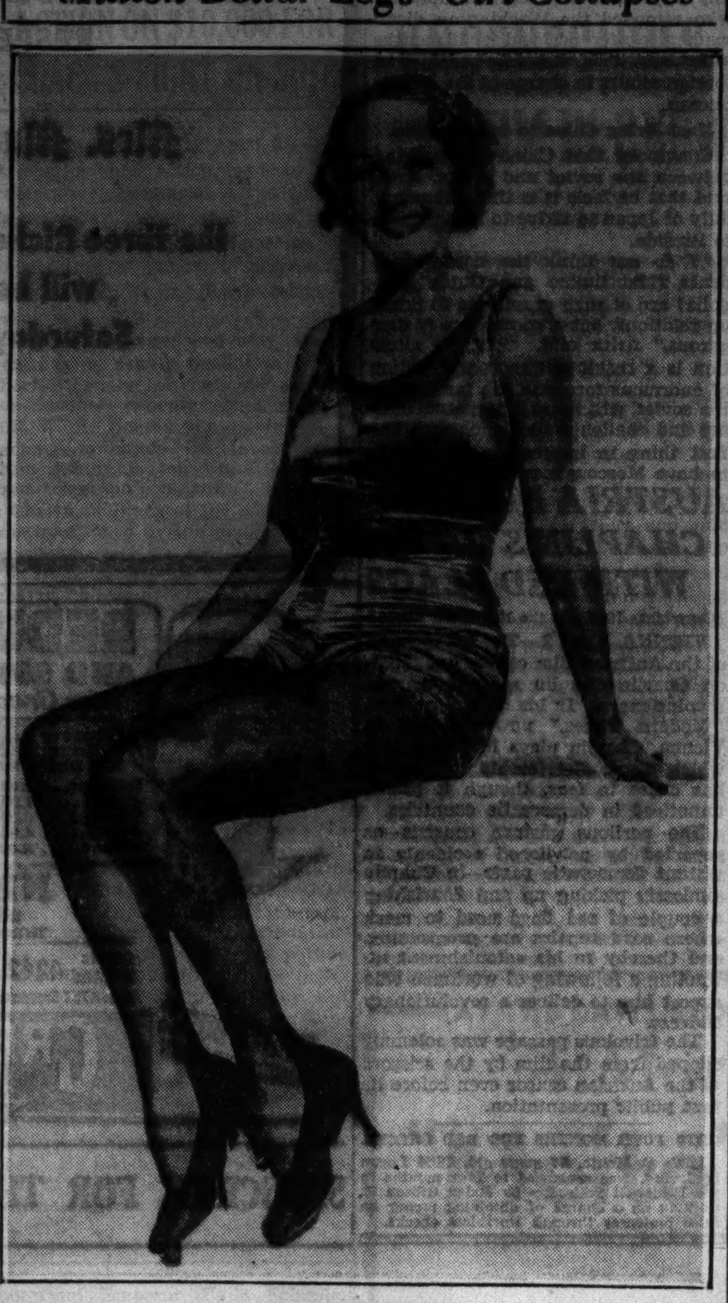
"I always prefer to write you at night and then be alone for the night and not go out with the lights and among people."

Her Fears Revealed.

In a letter sent June 3, Fargo urged her to spend Sunday with him in Niagara Falls, adding that "no one need know." He declared he realized her fears, her uncertainty, the possibility that she might lose her friends, adding: "But a woman never lost anything by defending her right to love and be loved." He declared that "I love you seriously for yourself always, and in a postscript adds:

"I have no ill feelings against W. C. and J. F. [his cousins, both Fargos] for their efforts to take you from me. How strange, though, that they should be unwilling for you to have a friendship with me. Get them used to it in your own sweet way. . . . I have ordered a surrey and bicycles for the home at Buchanan. . . . Your Livingston." [A house was being built for them at Buchanan, Va., but they never lived in it.]

"Million Dollar Legs" Girl Collapses



TONI LANIER.

Goes Under Knife

Hollywood, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—Toni Lanier, "the girl with the million dollar legs," collapsed while dancing in a night club this morning and was taken to Cedars of Lebanon hospital for an emergency appendicitis operation. She had just completed a movie part in "The Great Ziegfeld," during which she was stricken with influenza. Dr. Louis Selger announced the operation was turning out well and Miss Lanier's condition was "gratifying."

Michigan Brief Backs Eastern Time for Rails

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes received from the state of Michigan yesterday a copy of its brief supporting Chicago's petition to put railroads entering the city on eastern standard time. The city presented its petition to the interstate commerce commission at a public hearing here in February.

Michigan's brief, which has been filed in Washington, sums up its arguments at that hearing, including evidence in support of the change from Grand Rapids and other cities.

CHARGE $1,700 FUND POCKETED BY TOWNSEND

Refused to Hand Donation Over, Says Ex-Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Sensational charges that Dr. Francis E. Townsend, president of the "Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd.," had pocketed $1,700 collected from a massmeeting of his faithful followers and refused to turn it over were brought out late today at a meeting of the house committee investigating the pension movement.

An assertion that Townsend had refused to relinquish the collections was made by Robert E. Clements, former national secretary who resigned recently in a split with the California doctor over policies.

12,000 Persons at Meeting.

The massmeeting was held Feb. 20, 1936, at the Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles. There were 12,000 Townsendites on hand to hear Townsend and other leaders of the movement, James R. Sullivan, attorney for the house committee, brought out during an examination of Clements.

"It is true that Townsend took $1,700 from these aged people and pocketed it?" asked Sullivan.

"All I know," replied Clements, "is that the money was not turned in to the office at Los Angeles."

Clements admitted under questioning that to the best of his knowledge up to his resignation effective April 1, the money had never been paid in.

Sheridan Downey, Townsend's personal attorney, leaped to his feet with an objection and shouted that he wanted to make a statement. Chairman C. Jasper Bell [Dem., Mo.] ruled him out of order.

After the hearing Downey said the massmeeting was held for the organization of a third party and the funds had been impounded. He did not disclose where.

Idea Subsequently Dropped.

Subsequently the third party idea had been dropped, Downey said. Clements had previously testified that there had been some talk of running Dr. Townsend for President.

Clements said after Downey's interruption that he had heard that the money had been turned over to Ed Gordon, state area manager at Los Angeles, who handed it to Edward J. Margett, organizer in northern California. Attorney Sullivan claimed that Margett paid it over to Townsend.

The testimony of Clements was interrupted while the committee heard John Bloodsworth, Detroit accountant who has been examining the Townsend movement records.

Testifies to Irregularities.

Bloodsworth testified there had been irregularities in the accounts of the organization prior to July 1, 1935.

"Wonder how much they would pay us if we put into the ad," wrote Clements, "'Dr. Townsend is never without Currier tablets—taking them daily—attributes his ability to speak daily.'"

State Brands Blonde Slayer 'Bold Tigress' as Trial Ends

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Describing her as a "tigress," the state tonight charged that Vera Stretz killed Dr. Fritz Gebhardt because he refused to divorce his wife and marry her.

Assistant District Attorney Miles O'Brien closed his summation without asking the death penalty for the blonde stenographer who admitted killing Gebhardt, her lover, in his tower apartment last November. "I leave the case with you," he told the jury, which is to begin deliberations tomorrow. "Do as your conscience says."

Leibowitz Asks Acquittal.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, defense attorney, earlier had asked the jury to acquit Miss Stretz, asserting she was an "easy mark" for a man like Gebhardt.

The 32 year old blonde sobbed as O'Brien defended Gebhardt's character. He charged she had invented the story that Gebhardt had tricked her into coming to his room and then had attacked her.

"She's no shrinking violet," he said. "She is more the type of poison ivy. She loved this man and wanted him. She is a kitten when scratched and a tigress when provoked.

"When he wouldn't give up his wife for her that was her moment. The result came in his room on the morning of Nov. 12."

Defense Scores Gebhardt.

With mincing steps and sugary, sarcastic words Leibowitz endeavored to simulate the manners of Dr. Gebhardt as he pictured them. Dr. Gebhardt "had a way with the women," the defense attorney told the jury.

"O, yes, we Americans are just bores, compared with those foreigners, when it comes to the women," Leibowitz said, his voice barbed with sarcasm. "They know just how to hold a woman's coat; how to pull her chair out for her at just the right angle."

Even Judge Cornelius Collins smiled when Leibowitz swayed before the jury as if dancing in the moonlight as he described the development of the romance between Miss Stretz and Dr. Gebhardt while they were on a cruise to the West Indies.

Tells of "Sweet Nothings."

He told how they danced together, how they celebrated New Year's eve in Havana, and how they danced on a moonlight night [a romantic night, Mr. Leibowitz called it], and how Dr. Gebhardt began "getting in his licks right away" by whispering "sweet nothings" into the woman's ear.

"O, yes, this Gebhardt knew his way around," he said. "He began by telling this girl that 'love makes a man creative and gives a woman children.'

"Yes, she was educated. She has a bachelor of arts degree; she has studied, read the philosophies—out of the books—but you know and I know that despite all that she was just a sucker for a man like Gebhardt.

Gebhardt False, Jury Told.

"Yes, Gebhardt saw marvelous capabilities in Vera Stretz," he continued, referring to the defendant's testimony. "No matter how old that chestnut is, women always fall for it.

"Gebhardt was false and a wretch. He had not lived with his wife and children for ten years. He was a roamer. Now, what are you going to do? Send this woman to the chair or to prison for most of her life?"

At the outset of today's session Judge Collins denied the defense motion to dismiss the charge of murder in the first degree. Leibowitz made the motion yesterday on the ground the state had failed to show premeditation in the slaying.

FRENCH ACT TO PROPOSE THEIR OWN PEACE PLAN

Seek to Counteract Nazi Program for Europe.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 2.—Indications that France is preparing to drop its purely negative attitude with regard to the Rhineland crisis and answer Reichsfuehrer Hitler's peace propositions with a French plan for some kind of a new deal in Europe were forthcoming today.

Though the line France will take has not been definitly chosen yet and the government obviously is not yet willing to commit itself, it is probable that France will take the following stand:

The German note leaves doubt as to the sincerity of Hitler's pacific intentions because it ignores Russia and seeks to substitute for collective security a series of nonaggression pacts with her neighbors which would leave her hands free in case of war with other nations, notably Russia. Her refusal to take a commitment not to fortify the Rhineland, even during a four month truce period, likewise seems suspicious.

Seek Showdown.

To the German program of limited good neighborship France will oppose the French theory of collective security assured by mutual assistance against an aggressor. What new mechanisms of collective security will be proposed still are secret, and this is relatively unimportant.

What the French are seeking is a showdown on the principle of collective security. The method of forcing this showdown most favored seems to be to enlarge the conference of Locarno powers which the French still are insisting on calling next week at Brussels or Paris into a conference of all European powers who are worried about their security. In the course of this conference the French would seek to obtain from each participant a clear statement of what engagements he is prepared to take or renew to maintain peace in Europe.

Seek to Pin British Down.

In case the results of this diplomatic roll call are negative the French would proclaim the failure of the league of nations and fall back on a straight system of military alliances. The ultimate goal of this procedure evidently is to pin the British down to precise guaranties for Austria, Czechoslovakia, and even Russia.

The Austrian action in instituting compulsory military service in a disguised form has played the big rôle in shaking the French loose from their purely negative and defensive attitude. Members of the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania] are furious at this violation of the treaty of Saint Germain and it is even rumored that they are determined to mobilize if Hungary, as is expected, follows Austria's lead.

Rumanian Rushes to Paris.

Nicholas Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, rushed to Paris from London tonight to call Foreign Minister Flandin's attention to the Hungarian menace and demand that France do something to uphold treaties in central Europe. It is difficult in this case for the French to do anything because they know that Italy is backing Austria and Hungary in their rearmament, and recapturing Italian friendship is one of the big goals of French diplomacy at the moment.

The old order in Europe is seen to be crumbling on every side and there is a growing realization that something must be done to build a new order. In many influential circles the government is being urged to take the initiative instead of just saying no all the time and to reply to Hitler's diplomatic offensive with a counter offensive.

Britain Pledges Aid to Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—Great Britain tonight gave France and Belgium written promises of assistance in the event of aggression by Germany or should the Rhineland negotiations break down in the maneuvering for a general peace settlement.

The promises were contained in two letters which Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden handed to the Belgian and French ambassadors.

The first letter concerns the immediate general staf consultations provided for in the memorandum drawn up here by the four Locarno powers —Britain, France, Italy, Belgium—March 19 to arrange technical conditions for carrying out the Locarno treaty obligations.

Staf Talks Next Week.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin announced in the house of commons tonight that there will be no postponement of these staf talks. They are likely to take place next week as "the government regards them as an essential element in the restoration of confidence."

The second letter originally was intended to be sent by both Italy and England as guarantors of the Locarno treaty to France and Belgium. Premier Mussolini, however, refused to act until league of nations sanctions against Italy have been lifted.

This letter outlines the steps to be taken should conciliation with Germany fail. The texts of both letters will be published tomorrow.

Generals to Be Controled.

Questioned in the house of commons, Baldwin would not divulge further facts about the staf talks except to emphasize that the generals would be strictly controled by the cabinet.

From Baldwin's declaration that the staf conference is "necessary for the success of the negotiations," it is indicated that the Germans are to be confronted with the fact that these military contacts already have been made when negotiations actually begin on the Hitler peace proposals.

Though an invitation has not yet been received the British plan to stall off the expected French demand for a meeting next week in Brussels of the Locarno powers. They hold that regular diplomatic channels are best for discussions of the German question.

GERMANY HALTS COAL SHIPMENTS TO ITALY TO PLEASE BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 2.—Germany today stopped delivering coal to Italy in order to please Great Britain, which is anxious to curb Italy's war on Ethiopia through the application of sanctions. At the same time German business men requested Italy to pay her bills. The debts are eight months overdue. It is felt this action will help to increase the financial pressure on Premier Mussolini.

Hitler Aid Reaches Rome.

ROME, April 2.—(AP)—Hans Frank, minister of justice of Germany, came here by airplane from Berlin today to deliver a series of lectures. He will be received by both King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini.

Observers regarded his presence as indicating an improvement in relations between Germany and Italy, since he had been scheduled to deliver his lectures previous to the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria, the action which precipitated bad feelings between the two nations.

Driver Burned by Trolley Wire Falling Across Auto

Ben Nathan, 43 years old, 4251 Grenshaw street, suffered a severe electrical shock and burns yesterday when a street car trolley wire snapped in front of 3811 Roosevelt road and fell upon his automobile. He was taken to the Frances Willard hospital. Three policemen who were riding in an automobile behind Nathan's also were shocked, but their injuries were slight. They are Florian Smuczynski, John Trecher, and William DeRoy, all of the detective bureau.

Vehicle License Fees Gain in First Quarter

City Collector Louis Rixmann reported yesterday that his office had collected $3,873,167 in city vehicle license fees during the first three months this year. This compares with $3,767,841 received during the same period last year. During 1935 a total of $4,991,732 was collected. Rixmann ointed out there has been a reduction of 20 per cent in 1936 license fees.

ULTIMATUM SENT OUTER MONGOLIA BY MANCHUKUO

Jap Ally Orders Frontier Acts Stopped.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Manchukuo, backed by Japan, today delivered an ultimatum to soviet-sponsored Outer Mongolia to "halt all kinds of provocations against Manchukuo's frontiers." or suffer "grave consequences."

The note, sent to Ulan Bator, Mongolian capital, by Chang Yen-ching, foreign minister of the Hsinking [Manchukuan] government, closed with this warning:

"The serious situation precipitated by repeated Outer Mongolian attacks on the border oblige Japanese and Manchukuo authorities to proceed with protective measures to safeguard Manchukuo's frontiers."

The ultimatum followed conflicting reports from Russian and Japanese sources of serious border battles this week.

The Conflicting Reports.

Japanese army officials claim that an Outer Mongolian force, augmented by a squadron of bombing planes, invaded Manchukuo near Lake Bor, but was driven back across the frontier. Soviet dispatches from Ulan Bator claim that a combined Japanese-Manchukuan force with tanks, armored cars, artillery, and planes was repulsed yesterday after a 24 hour battle 28 miles inside Outer Mongolia.

Chinese officials at Nanking and Shanghai were deeply impressed by the Manchukuan ultimatum today. They expressed the opinion that actual war is being waged even now.

Japanese continental army headquarters at Hsinking are said to be astonished at the strength of the Mongolian air force and are convinced that the Mongols have the fullest soviet backing.

China Denies Red Alliance.

The Nanking government today again denied it has entered into a secret Chinese-soviet alliance, and reserved comment on the recently announced soviet-Outer Mongolian mutual assistance pact pending further advice from the Chinese ambassador at Moscow. It was pointed out that Outer Mongolia is still considered Chinese territory.

The Russo-Japanese crisis is a complication for China domestically and externally. Japanese at Peiping are demanding a "joint Sino-Japanese defense against communism," while prosoviet elements at Nanking and in central and south China are pressing for an alliance with Moscow against the Japanese. Last week a so-called "Chinese-Soviet Cultural association" was inaugurated by Soviet Ambassador D. V. Bogomolov at Nanking.

Japanese are convinced that the communist invasion of Shansi province, threatening the Japanese sphere in North China and Inner Mongolia, is Russian-inspired, but the Japanese military opposes Nanking's dispatch of seven divisions against the Chinese Reds, fearing ulterior motives.

New Jap Foreign Minister.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 2.—Within an hour after returning to Tokio from his post as ambassador to China, Hachiro Arita was installed as Japan's foreign minister by Emperor Hirohito today. Arita immediately conferred with Premier Koki Hirota, former foreign minister.

Facing a new crisis with soviet Russia and Outer Mongolia, Arita is expected to lose no time to set peace machinery to work to adjust relations with Moscow through diplomatic channels.

Arita, whose appointment is generally approved, is a career diplomat who attended the Washington disarmament conference, and for 18 months after May, 1932, was vice minister of foreign affairs in charge of the Asiatic bureau.

Must Bring China to Japan's Side.

Convinced that China is wavering between the soviet and Japan, Arita said that he feels it is the paramount duty of Japan to strive to bring China to its side.

"I do not think the border incidents [Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia] are of such gravity as to break up relations, but a recurrence is dangerous," Arita said. "As the situation is a result of the concentration of enormous forces in the far east by the soviet, which are a perpetual menace and challenge to Manchukuo, the first thing in improving relations is to have Moscow move the troops."

HITLER TO RECRUIT ALL BOYS AND GIRLS BETWEEN 10 AND 18

BERLIN, April 2.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler took the first step tonight in a vast scheme to recruit all youth between 10 and 18 in organizations where they will be taught Nazi ideals. He called the first two classes of boys and girls, aged from 10 to 11, to the swastika banner. Recruiting will continue until April 20 on a voluntary basis.

Youth leaders will scour the country until then in efforts to persuade children born in 1925 and 1926 to join the Young Folk or the Hitler Girls organization.

The recruiting notice emphasizes that parents need not fear to permit children to enter the Nazi organization, for the rights of the home will be respected. The duties of these small children, says the notice, will not tax their strength. The training is designed to build them "physically as well as morally."

AUSTRIA DELETES CHAPLIN'S JOKE WITH RED FLAGS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, April 2.—The heavy hand of the Austrian film censor has fallen on Charlie Chaplin as a dangerous revolutionary. In his motion picture, "Modern Times," now showing in Vienna, Chaplin plays in jest a rôle which every dictatorship apparently has cause to fear, though it passes unnoticed in democratic countries.

The perilous gesture consists—as reported by privileged residents in distant democratic parts—in Chaplin aimlessly picking up and flourishing a couple of red flags used to mark where road repairs are progressing, and thereby to his astonishment attracting a following of workmen who expect him to deliver a revolutionary address.

The frivolous passage was solemnly clipped from the film by the scissors of the Austrian censor even before its first public presentation.

ITALIAN ARMIES PUSH DEEPER INTO ETHIOPIA

Fascist Leader Reports "Enemy on Run."

ROME, April 2.—(AP)—The Italian armies in Ethiopia pressed deeper into new territory today as Emperor Haile Selassie was reported to have made peace overtures to Fascist officials.

Informed sources asserted the Emperor completed first contacts for peace negotiations outside the league of nations, their declarations based on reports from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander in East Africa.

The first contacts, these sources declared, were communicated to Alessandro Lessona, under-secretary of state for colonies, who recently returned from a tour of inspection in Eritrea.

The second of the peace attempts—sponsored by the league under the supervision of Salvador de Madariaga, Spanish delegate—rested in a preliminary stage involving details of procedure.

Columns Move on Gondar.

From the northern front, Marshal Badoglio telegraphed the military campaign "is being concluded with complete success," with his columns converging on Gondar, near Lake Tsana. The city already has been occupied.

Counter attacks by the personal troops of the emperor were reported to have been repulsed as the Black Shirts moved toward the Lake Tsana region, scene of British power interests. Officials repeated emphatically the guarantee previously given by Premier Mussolini that the British holdings would not be harmed.

[An Ethiopian official communique denied the defeat of Selassie's bodyguard in a dawn to dusk battle at Mai Ceu, end of Lake Ashangi, Tuesday. The Italians claimed 7,000 Ethiopians were slain in the fighting. The Ethiopians claimed four Italian forts were captured by the emperor's trained warriors. The Ethiopians also denied peace negotiations had been opened with Badoglio.]

Tension Mounts in Rome.

Tension increased in the Italian capital as students attempted to stage a demonstration before the British consulate. The officially controled press asserted: "From today on, Ethiopia ceases to exist."

Dispatches from East Africa by the Stefani [Italian] News agency reported the death of one of Selassie's nephews and the domination by Italian forces of the Falasha, a tribe of exiled Jews in Gondar. The emperor's relative, Dedjazmatch Mangasha Ilma, who formerly commanded troops on the Kenya [southern] frontier, was said to have been killed in the fighting at Mai Ceu.

Demands Stronger Sanctions.

GENEVA, April 2.—(AP)—Ethiopia, asserting that Italy "has redoubled its barbarity in waging a war of aggression upon a small people," demanded tonight that the league of nations invoke stronger sanctions against the fascist kingdom.

"Being unable to crush the vigor and courage of the Ethiopian warriors," said the note, "the Roman government is systematically killing women, old men and children, and bombing and destroying towns, villages, churches, convents and hospitals."

The demand was contained in a note from Emperor Haile Selassie, who asked the league to give Ethiopia financial aid to enable it to resist aggression.

Although the league formally indicted Italy for aggression and applied financial and economic sanctions against her, a committee some months ago rejected a proposal to aid Ethiopia financially.

Points to Peace Appeal.

Emperor Haile Selassie charged Italy accepted in principle a recent league peace appeal solely for the purpose of avoiding the imposition of an oil embargo against Italy, a proposal before the league at that time.

He asserted Italy does not intend to end the war and make peace within the framework of the league and asked that sanctions be reinforced and completed under article XVI. of the league covenant.

[This article provides that sanctions may range from financial and economic ones to military action.]

HOUSE GROUP DELAYS ACTION ON $10,000 FOR BLACK'S FIGHT ON SUIT

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—A plea for quick action, made by Representative Bankhead of Alabama, failed today to win the house rules committee's immediate approval for expenditure of $10,000 to defend the senate lobby committee's telegram seizures.

Action was postponed until tomorrow on the senate resolution to authorize the sum for the lobby committees' counsel expense. In a pending suit W. R. Hearst, the publisher, is seeking to enjoin the investigators from using his telegrams, obtained from telegraph companies.

Chairman Black of the lobby group was questioned by the house committee members.

If the injunction is granted to Mr. Hearst, he said, it would "necessarily restrain members of the senate committee or a house committee, if it were involved, from making any statements on the floor." He went on:

"In other words, are members of congress so supine that they will concede that the courts and not they have the right to determine their own evidence. The mere fact that power is capable of abuse is no excuse for withholding power granted for the broad public interest."

In response to questions by Representative Smith [Dem., Va.], Clark [Dem., N. C.], Chairman O'Connor, and others, he said the individual always had recourse in habeas corpus proceedings. Some committee members said, however, they felt this did not protect the citizen before the damage was done in publication.

Senator Black said that communications commission representatives had been present, "as they had a perfect right to be," when committee agents were obtaining subpenaed messages. He insisted that "as a matter of fact letters and telegrams of a personal nature have not been revealed."

Set U. S. Trial for Prison Grad Who Won Own Case

Gilbert F. O'Brien, 36 years old, alumnus of the Joliet penitentiary law course prepared by Nathan Leopold and the late Richard Loeb, surprised himself when he won acquittal from a Criminal court jury recently in an automobile theft trial in which he acted as his own attorney. He will have a second opportunity to play at being a lawyer next Thursday, the time set yesterday by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward for his trial in United States court on a charge of transporting a stolen car across a state line.

DRIVER LEAVES UNCONSCIOUS VICTIM IN SNOW

Freed from Bumper After Being Dragged 50 Feet.

George Sommers, 38 years old, 8735 South Honore street, was found lying in 87th street near Racine avenue last night, critically injured by a hit and run automobile. The Gresham police traced marks in the snow and said Sommers had been dragged almost 50 feet by the front bumper of the car. Then the driver stopped and dislodged the victim, leaving him unconscious in the snow and freezing temperature.

Sommers is a stationary fireman at the Agar Packing and Provision company, 4057 South Union avenue. Physicians at the Auburn Park hospital said his skull may have been fractured and that he was badly bruised.

Driver Burned to Death.

One driver was burned to death and another was seriously injured when three trucks crashed and the gasoline tank of one of them exploded yesterday on the Dunes highway, midway between Gary and Michigan City. The man killed was Steve Lynch, 41 years old, of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Frank Rizzo, 32 years old, 546 North St. Louis avenue, was pulled from the crushed cab of his truck by the occupants of the third vehicle, Walter Kirsten, 2440 North Campbell avenue, and George Hunt, 2648 North Western avenue, a few seconds before the bursting gasoline tank of Lynch's truck turned all three vehicles into a blazing pyre.

Accident Puzzles Police.

State police of the Michigan City barracks, who investigated the crash, said they were not able to get a clear explanation of the accident, but that Lynch apparently had attempted to pass the truck driven by Kirsten and had collided with Rizzo's truck, approaching from the opposite direction.

Rizzo was taken to Mercy hospital at Gary, where it was said both his legs were broken and his condition serious.

Dr. John Henry Johnston, 35 years old, 7100 Jeffery avenue, a chiropractor, was killed yesterday when his automobile collided with a truck near Elkhart, Ind.

23 Girls Bruised and Shaken.

Twenty-three girl students of the National College of Education, Evanston, were bruised and shaken when the chartered bus in which they were riding was struck at Michigan avenue and White Oak street, Gary, by a truck driven by Don Patterson, 7145 Tuxedo avenue, Detroit. The driver of the bus, W. Glaum, 3418 Cottage Grove avenue, told the police the truck skidded into the path of the coach.

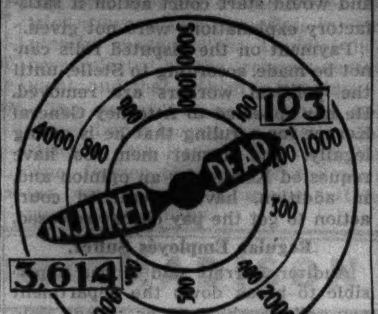
Five of the girls were treated for minor injuries at St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. They are: Miss Marion Elmore, 653 North Central avenue; Miss Mary Houzha, 2104 Forest View road, Evanston, and Miss Louise Martin, Miss Mary Childs, and Miss Marcella Pennington, all of 2532 Ashbury avenue, Evanston.

The coroner's office reported 193 persons killed and 3,614 injured in auto accidents in the city from Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday. In the same period there were 232 killed in Cook county.

George Terjung, 25 years old, 10321 Lowe avenue, a student at the Norther Baptist Theological seminary, 3040 West Washington boulevard, was charged with passing a street car on the left after he struck and injured Charles Brongiel, 50 years old, 5200 Honore street, at South Western avenue and West 50th street. Terjung was released on a $25 bond.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1936 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

MARY, IT SEEMS, DOESN'T LIKE THE POLICE—OR JAIL

Policeman Howard Hanson of Hyde Park station saw an automobile stuck in the snow at 50th street and the outer drive yesterday. He stopped to assist the woman driver. She appeared to be intoxicated, Hanson said, and when she became abusive he called a patrol wagon.

At Hyde Park station the woman gave her name as Mrs. Mary Williamson, 30 years old, 6147 Kenwood avenue. She was booked on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Sergt. Emil Breitzman refused her permission to use a telephone. In a rage she knocked all the telephones off his desk. Policeman Jude Sprague attempted to restrain her, and she bit him on the left arm.

Then the woman was taken to the central police building at 11th and State streets, where she was locked up. Another charge, disorderly conduct, was placed against her.

FLEISCHMANN uses this time-honored method because it allows constant control over every step from grain to bottle . . .

IN 1870, Fleischmann began distilling gin directly from grain . . . starting with the selection and fermentation of the grain and finishing with the delivery of the bottle itself.

Today, Fleischmann is using this same method of distilling gin for the American taste.

It is more costly to produce gin directly from the grain because it requires actually hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of additional equipment.

But Fleischmann goes to all this expense because direct distillation from grain allows constant control over every step in the production of Fleischmann's Gin. No spirits are bought on the open market for use in Fleischmann's Gin.

Fleischmann believes this is the only way a consistently uniform, well-balanced gin can be made.

The next time you purchase gin, try a bottle of Fleischmann's. You will realize the importance of distilling from grain.

ECKENER TO LOSE JOB AS AIRSHIP CHIEF, NAZIS HEAR

Hitlerites Aim to Drive Out 68 Year Old Expert.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 2.—The German capital buzzed with rumors today that Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran commander of the Graf Zeppelin, who saved the airship factory and plans of Count Zeppelin after the world war, will resign, or has been requested to resign as chairman of the board of directors of the German Zeppelin Lines, Ltd. The rumors persisted despite denials at Friedrichshafen, the headquarters of the Zeppelin lines.

The German press on Tuesday was instructed to refrain from mentioning Eckener's name prominently in reports of the initial flight of the giant new Zeppelin, the Hindenburg, to South America. Eckener is aboard the airship as supervisor on its present flight to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

It is understood considerable friction exists between Nazi authorities and the 68 year old airship commander. He frequently has said his sole ambition is to further the cause of airships and that he does not wish to be drawn into political demonstrations.

Opposed Propaganda Flights.

Nazi sources charged that Eckener placed the Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin into propaganda service during the four days preceding last Sunday's reichstag election "only under pressure and with great misgiving."

"He failed to show the enthusiasm which the party chiefs desire," a Nazi leader exclaimed.

Party leaders began to suggest pointedly that Dr. Eckener is "beyond the retiring age of 65 years." They also referred to his political past in which he "always championed the cause of democracy."

The campaign against the airship commander is similar to that waged several years ago against Prof. Hugo Junkers, who designed and perfected Germany's first all metal airplane. The campaign against Junkers led to his retirement shortly before his death Feb. 3, 1935.

Airship Passes Cape Verde.

HAMBURG, Germany, April 2.—(AP)—The Zeppelin Hindenburg, making its first flight to South America, reported her position at 7 p. m. tonight [1 p. m. Chicago time] as 580 miles southwest of the Cape Verde Islands. The islands are situated off the coast of West Africa.

EX-PROFESSOR SEIZED IN ROW OVER AN ALLEY

Edward W. Maechtle, 49 years old, 2808 Sheridan road, Evanston, a retired professor of the Northwestern university medical school, was arrested yesterday on a charge of assault and battery. Maechtle posted bond, then signed a cross-complaint against John J. Mahar, 46 years old, 606 Dempster street, Evanston, a cab driver. Mahar charged that Maechtle dented the fenders of his cab with an iron bar Wednesday as he was driving in an alley behind Maechtle's home. Maechtle said the cab driver menaced him with a jack handle. Their dispute arose over a long standing grievance which Maechtle holds against cab drivers and other motorists who run over his property in turning around in the "blind" alley, which leads to one entrance of the National College of Education.

BARE RECORDS OF HORNER PAY ROLL PADDING

persons listed on the state highway pay rolls as engineer assistants, a dignified title, the investigators said, for trafic checkers. Some of the persons they found on the pay rolls under this classification were the following:

Joseph Corr, 4957 North Kilbourn avenue, Horner supported candidate for Democratic committeeman in the 39th ward against the regular organization committeeman, Ald. H. L. Brody. It was said at Corr's home in the afternoon that he is a business agent for the iron workers' union and that he was "out on the road for the iron workers." State pay $5 a day.

Michael Iarussi, undertaker at 726 Taylor street. Investigators were told that he works for the highway department and could be reached at a certain telephone number. Inquiries elicited the information that the telephone was in "Horner headquarters." State pay $8 per day.

Thomas Oliver, automobile salesman, 5753 South Artesian avenue, Horner candidate for committeeman in 15th ward against organization committeeman, Richard Frohlich. State pay $6 a day.

Alex Jasinski, photographer, 3018 West Cermak road. Investigators were told he would be at the Cermak road address for consultation about his own vocation at 10 a. m. today. State pay $8 a day.

Julius Jaffe, attorney, 1260 North Dearborn street. He, too, could be consulted in his law office today. State pay $8 a day.

Bartly Furg, former county commissioner now in the real estate business, 4011 Fillmore street. Office force reported that he had been there all day. State pay $7 a day.

George C. Hilton, restaurant operator. In shop all day, investigators told. State pay $8 a day.

William F. Gillmeister, former state senator, 2229 Thomas street. Investigators were told at his home that he was campaigning and was seldom at home. State pay $8 a day.

New Evidence of Padding.

In his Springfield office Stelle produced pay roll vouchers and an affidavit in further support of his charges. The vouchers called for checks to be issued to Walter Groves of Macoupin county for $100 and $80 for work, respectively, in the state department of agriculture and the department of mines and minerals. The affidavit, signed by Groves, declared he did no work for the latter office.

Stelle further charged that E. J. Snyder, Horner campaign manager in Champaign county, drew $20 monthly during January and February from the highway department and $600 back pay. He said Dixie Mason, a clerk at Champaign, was placed on the waterway pay roll as an inspector of polluted waters.

Stelle Answers Horner.

Replying to Gov. Horner's statement that holding up of the pay rolls was a "cheap political trick," Stelle said:

"Am I to ignore the plain and obvious and thereby become a party to this wrongdoing by aiding and abetting the governor in disgorging state money to finance his padded pay rolls?

"Am I playing 'cheap politics' when I expose over sixty men who have been placed on a mine investigation pay roll although they do not have the qualifications required of them by statute and when our investigation shows they have never been inside a mine?

Lawyers on Pay Roll.

"Am I playing politics when I expose the fact that many lawyers in Chicago are to be found on the pay roll of F. Lynden Smith, business manager of the highway department, who also is Horner's downstate campaign manager, doing day labor at the rate of $7 and $8 a day?"

A formal demand on Stelle that he issue salary checks of civil service employés who have not been paid was made by Chairman Lancaster of the civil service commission. He said he was ready to subpena members of Stelle's office before the commission and would start court action if satisfactory explanations were not given.

Payment on the disputed rolls cannot be made, according to Stelle, until the political workers are removed. He has appealed to Attorney General Kerner for a ruling that he is acting legally. The Horner men, too, have requested Kerner for an opinion and, in addition, have threatened court action to get the pay checks released.

Regular Employés Suffer.

Auditor Barrett said it was impossible to break down the department pay roll vouchers so as to pay only the legitimate workers. He pointed out also that many of the vouchers did not carry addresses of the employés and cited a state law requiring him to compile lists of employés by counties.

"When Horner first took office," said Barrett, "he began on a régime of economy in state expenditures by slashing the salaries of state employés 10 per cent. It is my opinion that through loading the pay rolls with new employés during the campaign he would dissipate that entire savings, if the payments are made."

MAINE REPUBLICANS RATIFY UNPLEDGED SLATE OF DELEGATES

Bangor, Me., April 2.—(AP)—The Maine Republican convention tonight ratified a slate of thirteen national delegates unpledged but "disposed," party leaders said, to support Frank Knox for the presidential nomination "as long as he has a chance."

State Chairman A. Eugene Sewall said that with one possible exception the delegation now was favorable to the candidacy of the Chicago and Manchester, N. H., publisher, and he believed the entire group would be in accord at the Cleveland convention.

The convention, largest in Maine's history, adopted a platform which includes planks advocating freedom of the press and the radio, a sound currency based on gold, old age pension "commensurate with need," and a balanced national budget.

Ninety-five girls were graduated last night from the National Youth Administration's Residential School for Girls, 5120 South Park way, after three months' training in "community leadership" at the expense of the federal government. Principal feature of the commencement exercises was a pageant in which the pupils represented music, art, crafts, dancing, and the drama in symbolic pantomime. The girls will go back to their homes in 57 Illinois counties to serve as instructors for other groups.

AWAIT BORAH'S DRIVE FOR STATE VOTE NEXT WEEK

Battle for Indorsement Holds Interest.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The race in Illinois between Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, candidates for the Republican nomination for President, is to assume national interest next week with arrival of the Idahoan for a platform campaign that will take him downstate.

The two men are contenders in the Presidential preference primary April 14, which is for advisory purposes. So far the campaigning has been one-sided. Borah's Chicago speech some two weeks ago has been his single Illinois utterance to date while Knox has spent weeks on the platform throughout the state.

Reports from TRIBUNE correspondents indicate that interest is rather languid at this juncture, but is expected to become lively enough, once Borah takes to the stump. They also indicate that until Borah's platform campaign gets under way, it is difficult to predict how the districts will go on the popular vote.

Landon Shows Strength.

Scouts have returned with word that Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas is showing strength in Illinois, especially in the northern counties. Landon, however, is not entered in the primaries, but is reported to be second choice among some of the candidates for national delegates to the Cleveland convention in June.

Borah headquarters surmises that Borah will advance his fight on the Republican bosses whom he blames for the party's collapse in 1932. In his Chicago speech he said one million voters in Illinois and 10 million in the United States had been driven out of the Republican party by the leadership. He added:

"If you'll look at the leadership in Illinois you'll recognize faces of some of those who drove them out."

How far Borah will attempt to elaborate this theme is still to be seen.

Small Out for Knox.

Len Small is marking his sample ballots for Knox for President and Small for governor, and for Thomas V. Sullivan for attorney general, backed by a former Republican mayor of Chicago. Small's managers report that almost a million of the marked ballots will be sent out.

The group of Chicago ward committeemen which clustered around Fred Lundin is listed among the Knox supporters. The former Republican mayor himself in a recent speech urged his audience to vote for Knox as a local candidate.

As affairs stand, the Knox managers say almost all the old factional Republican groups in Cook county are backing Knox. Last fall the Cook county Republican central committee indorsed Knox and no ward committeemen voted no. Later the state central committee at Peoria voted a Knox indorsement.

Claim United Party Support.

Downstate the Knox forces got together with county chairmen and precinct committeemen. They report close knit support among these party units. In a number of congressional districts, the committees after picking candidates to support for national delegates at the primaries also voted Knox indorsements.

Neither the Borah nor the Knox camp has a set slate of delegates to be voted on at the primaries. The position of the various candidates for delegates as to presidential nominee, however, is known in most instances, and the great bulk of them are reported for Knox.

What influence the popular vote in the preference presidential primary will have on the delegates is subject of much discourse. In general the idea is expressed that the district delegates will mostly follow the preference vote.

Would Heed Preference Vote.

Some of the leading Chicago politicians, seeking seats at Cleveland and committed to Knox, declare that if Borah should carry their districts they would follow the vote as advisory for a few ballots. Similar views have been expressed downstate. Borah is said to have the strongest chance of carrying downstate congressional districts. If a large primary vote is cast his supporters hold he would improve his chances in Cook county.

As to delegates at large, the statewide vote is advisory, as contemplated by the primary law.

Making Comeback

TRIAL OF DOWDLE INCOME TAX CASE SET FOR JUNE 22

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward set trial dates yesterday for nearly fifty cases in an effort to clear the criminal docket of pending actions.

Among the cases is that of the Dowdle brothers, Thomas P., Raymond R., and John J., contractors and nephews of Pat Nash, Democratic county chairman, who were indicted in 1930 on charges of evading $203,654 of income taxes. Judge Woodward set June 22 for trial of this case. Warren Canaday, first assistant United States district attorney, said two offers in compromise made by the Dowdles had been rejected by the treasury department, and that a third is pending.

The case of William H. Malone, also charged with income tax evasion, was stricken with leave to reinstate. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, is a fugitive, last reported in Germany.

PEACOCK KILLERS INDICTED; HEAR CHARGES TODAY

Murder indictments against the four young hoodlums who confessed the murder of Dr. Silber C. Peacock were returned yesterday before Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court.

The four are Robert Goethe, Durland Nash, and Emil Reck, all 19 years old, and Michael Livingston, 17 years old. They were held without bond. All except Livingston were also indicted for four of the more than fifty robberies they confessed.

They will be arraigned today. Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney said he would ask an immediate trial. The state will ask the death penalty for all four. The boys lured Dr. Peacock from his home with a telephone appeal for medical aid and beat and shot him when he resisted being robbed.

Governor of Washington Here on Way to Capital

Gov. Clarence D. Martin of the state of Washington and his director of highways, Lacey Murrow, stopped at the Stevens hotel yesterday on their way to Washington, D. C. They arrived in Chicago by plane and planned to leave this morning. Gov. Martin said the purpose of his trip to the national capital is to discuss federal works allotments in his state.

BORAH TO WAGE WAR IN ILLINOIS ON 'MONOPOLY'

See Sugar Case Decision as Proof.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Fortified by the Supreme court decision in the sugar institute case last Monday, Senator William E. Borah, in a series of speeches in Illinois next week in support of his candidacy for President, will return to his onslaught on monopoly as the chief cause of the depression.

In that part of the decision enjoining price fixing practices by the sugar refiners the senator found what he regards as incontrovertible evidence that the price of sugar has been fixed for years.

Deems Prices Too High.

By the means adopted by the sugar refiners and by innumerable other methods, Mr. Borah contends, the prices of the necessities of life have been maintained and are being maintained at higher levels than is justified by decreasing cost of production. The result, according to the Borah argument, has been an exploitation of consumers and a decline of the purchasing power of the people to an extent that curtailed demand, increased unemployment, and precipitated the depression.

For monopoly prices and the economic distress flowing therefrom the senator blames the Republican administrations of the twenties and for the continuance of the evil he blames the Roosevelt administration, which opened encouraged the monopolists by suspending the anti-trust laws in the late National Recovery act.

Blames Old Guard.

His case against the old guard leaders of the Republican party is based on the contention that they shared responsibility with the Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover administrations for the destruction of the purchasing power of the masses by the monopolists. If purchasing power is to be restored, the senator asserts, it will be by an administration free of such influences. Hence he has undertaken to read the old line leaders out of the party and has offered himself as a candidate for President dedicated to an attack on the cause of the depression at its source.

The Borah thesis on monopoly is drawn from the voluminous findings of the three year study of the distribution of income in relation to economic progress made by the Brookings institution. The report of the inquiry stated that purchasing power had declined to such a degree before the depression that 6 million families were receiving incomes of less than $1,000, 16 million less than $2,000 and 19 million less than $2,500.

Little Reduction in Prices.

"Whereas the period of great technological advance between 1870 and 1890," said Dr. Howard G. Moulton, president of the Brookings institution, "brought notable price reductions, contributing much to raising living standards, there was little reduction of prices in the similar period of 1922-'29. Productive efficiency in manufacturing in the latter era, as measured by output per worker, increased about 25 per cent. But forces of price maintenance had become so strong that retail prices in the aggregate remained practically stationary.

"Of course, there was competition in many lines, and prices declined accordingly. But this was not true of all producers. Artificial devices to maintain prices dammed up the stream of progress. Producers neglected to face the fact that in the long run they could prosper only as the masses could buy an expanding volume of their goods.

Would Remove Obstacles.

"This fact must be faced. We must remove the obstacles to price reductions which now exist, wherever they are. It is the only way that people who live in small towns or on farms, or otherwise do not work for wages, can fully participate in our economic progress. And unless these do participate we can have no broad, continued progress.

"The failure of industrial prices to decline is primarily responsible for the movement in recent years to attempt an improvement in the farm situation by artificial methods of restricting production, with a view to restoring 'price parity' with industry. However helpful such policies may be temporarily, agriculture and industry combined obviously cannot expect to increase the total production of goods and services for the American people as a whole by restricting output and raising prices. National coöperation in the expansion of output, giving to all the people the largest possible consumption, is the paramount necessity."

Absorbed by Wage Boosts.

Potential price reductions made possible by technological progress, according to the Brookings institution, were largely absorbed by wage increases at the expense of consumers who were nonwage earners.

"Organized labor for many years," said Dr. Moulton, "has tried to obtain the benefits of increased efficiency by pressure for higher wages. When improvements in production methods in a given plant made it possible to turn out two articles at what one had previously cost, organized labor sought to direct the savings into higher wages.

"This gave certain groups of workers more purchasing power, but the effect on farmers has not been favorable. It has forced them to pay higher prices for manufactured goods or has prevented them from obtaining lower ones. The same was true in large degree of the city dwellers mentioned above who do not work for wages, numbering 20,000,000. An economic disparity was created between two great segments of our population, raising a serious barrier to economic progress.

All Classes Benefit.

"But if we permit the fruits of man's inventive genius and technological advance to reach the people in the form of price reductions, no such barriers are raised. All classes benefit alike to the extent that they are consumers; the chief gain is in the low income groups, where it is most needed.

"Price reductions, of course, must not come from wage cuts, if they are to increase purchasing power. But we must reduce prices as we learn to make things more cheaply. This is the way we can expand consumption solidly, year after year, which in turn will call forth larger production. It is the way forward envisaged in the theory of our profit and loss system. Increased efficiency makes price reductions possible; competition insures that they actually take place.

Efficiency Increasing.

"Our productive efficiency is increasing year by year in normal times. That is, we are learning how to make things more cheaply. But if the people are to buy the added products thus made possible, their purchasing power must grow with production.

"Expanding purchasing power cannot be created simply by printing more money. That would just raise prices. And we cannot accomplish much by 'sharing wealth or income.' Such a program would entail taking income from skilled workers, many farmers, small shopkeepers, government clerks, etc. It would not merely 'soak the rich.'

"Purchasing power can be increased only as we learn how to produce goods and services more efficiently and pass the benefits of that efficiency on to the masses."

SLEEPS FOR YEAR

Open Safety Pin Removed from Throat of Child, 3

An open safety pin lodged in the throat of Gerald Painter, 3 years old, 1526 Washington street, Evanston, was removed yesterday by Dr. Thomas C. Galloway in the Evanston hospital. The child had taken the pin from his pajamas earlier in the day and was holding it above his head when it dropped into his mouth.

NEW DEAL AIMS AT FASCIST U. S., STRAWN WARNS

Finds Roosevelt Willing to Be Dictator.

In a speech before the Paul Reveres yesterday Silas Strawn, Chicago attorney who recently won a court decision in Washington halting the inquisitorial methods of the Black committee, declared that the policies of the New Deal and its advisers have been attempts to push the country into Fascism. He spoke at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel.

"There is a gentleman sitting in the President's chair who is ready and willing to be a dictator if they push hard and long enough," Mr. Strawn asserted. "Apparently they want to Europeanize the United States."

Oath of Loyalty Forgotten.

Stating that President Roosevelt swore to uphold the laws of the nation when he was admitted to the bar, and again, even more solemnly, when he was inaugurated on March 4, 1933, Mr. Strawn added: "This doesn't seem to have meant much to him, or to his counselors."

Mr. Strawn discussed the gap between campaign promises and performances of President Roosevelt.

He contrasted the promise to reduce the public debt and cut expenses with the increase in public debt from 24 billion dollars to approximately 34 billion dollars in three years, and the doubled number of burocratic employés.

Less Wealthy Must Pay.

"Don't fool yourselves by the hooey that is coming out of Washington about where the bill for this spending is going to be paid," Mr. Strawn warned. "Three-quarters of all governmental income comes from the man who makes $10,000 a year or less.

"Only those working can pay, and may I add parenthetically that there is more unemployment now than ever before, including 1932. There are 11 millions listed as unemployed and 4 millions on federal pay rolls—thus giving a total of 15 millions of unemployed.

"Minor upswings in general prosperity are in spite of, not because of the New Deal."

HOOVER TO LEAVE CITY TODAY; WORKS HERE ON NEXT NEW DEAL BLAST

Former President Herbert Hoover, who has been visiting friends in Chicago since last Saturday, will leave this afternoon for Indianapolis. After a short stay there he will go to Fort Wayne, Ind., where he will address the Fourth district Republican organization tomorrow night.

Mr. Hoover remained in seclusion during most of his stay here. It was reported he was devoting himself to the preparation of his speech. His subject will be: "Has the New Deal Solved Our National Problems?" The talk, Mr. Hoover's seventh attacking Roosevelt administration policies, will be broadcast over W-G-N at 10:30 p. m. tomorrow.

From Fort Wayne Mr. Hoover will return directly to his home at Palo Alto, Cal.

Borah, Landon in South Dakota Delegate Contest

Pierre, S. D., April 2.—(AP)—A contest for the Republican presidential nomination in South Dakota's May 5 primary was assured today when nominating petitions for a slate of delegates instructed for Senator William Borah of Idaho were filed with the secretary of state. An opposition slate, officially uninstructed but favorable to Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, filed petitions previously.

OPEN HEARINGS ON CONTESTED VOTERS' NAMES

43,000 Affidavits Filed Against Suspects.

The board of election commissioners began hearings yesterday on affidavits filed against persons suspected of registering fraudulently for the April 14 primary. There were 43,446 such affidavits presented. About 500 of the "suspects" appeared yesterday and were restored to the poll lists after they convinced the commissioners that they had registered properly.

The affidavits—technically called suspect notices—were signed by precinct election clerks, members of civic organizations which are fighting vote frauds, and other individuals. The hearing will continue today and tomorrow and names of all suspects who fail to defend themselves before the board will be erased from the registration lists.

Small Percentage Appears.

The election commissioners said that it is not unusual for only a small percentage of the challenged voters to appear, the others not being at the addresses given in registering and realizing that their attempts to vote illegally have been detected. In cases where one person has challenged a large number of voters and these voters satisfy the commissioners that they are legally registered the challengers are being investigated by the state's attorney's office.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Christenson reported one instance in which Edward Rogers, 2500 Orchard street, had filed suspect notices against ten persons living in the 29th precinct of the 44th ward. The affidavits alleged that these people had not lived in the precinct long enough to be qualified to vote there. Investigation disclosed that all the suspects were bona fide residents of the precinct and Christenson announced Rogers would be called before the board.

"In this and other cases," Christenson declared, "there appears to have been promiscuous filing of suspect notices to deliberately disfranchise legally qualified voters."

Question Lodging House Owner.

Max Epstein, owner of a lodging house at 1230 Madison street, and Miss Anne Stein, manager of the place, were held for questioning last night in an investigation of registrations in the Forty-eighth precinct of the Twenty-seventh ward. Officials said proof of residence was lacking in the cases of thirty-four of thirty-nine persons registered from the address.

Samuel Greenstein, owner of a drug store near the lodging house, was released after being questioned. It was learned that his name appeared as notary on the lodging house affidavit. Greenstein said he was a notary, but did not recall administering the oath to the signer of the affidavit. Epstein said he did not give the affidavit to a notary.

Letters were sent out yesterday by the state's attorney's office to 57 keepers of lodging houses throughout the city, who failed to file affidavits listing the persons living in their establishments. The keepers were warned that warrants for their arrest will be issued today unless the affidavits are filed.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki announced that he had requested all judges and clerks of election to appear at the Coliseum on the night of April 9 for final instructions on their duties and responsibilities in the primary. State's Attorney Courtney will also be present. More than 16,000 judges and clerks are expected to attend.

Ask Lawyers for Watchers.

An appeal to all members of the Chicago Bar association to aid in the campaign against vote frauds by acting as watchers in polling places at the primary was made yesterday by Herbert M. Lautmann, president of the association.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, one of the civic organizations in the battle to stamp out vote frauds, announced that members at a meeting next Wednesday in the Palmer house will be addressed by State's Attorney Courtney, Judge Jarecki, Alexander J. McKay, chairman of the board of election commissioners; Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic council, and C. L. Rice, president of the association of commerce.

NEW DEAL MUST GO, WAR CRY OF HATZENBUHLER

Charges that President Roosevelt has not only trampled the constitution but forsaken the platform of his party were made last night by George Hatzenbuhler, Bloomington business man, in the opening speech of his Chicago campaign for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor.

Speaking to 1,500 Chicagoans of German descent in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman, Mr. Hatzenbuhler said:

"New Deal leadership must go. We must get back to fundamental American principles, as laid down in our constitution."

Mr. Hatzenbuhler declared himself in favor of immediate repeal of the state sales tax; a drastic reduction of state expenditures by eliminating leach-like burros; reduction in real estate and gasoline taxes, and the establishment of a permanent system of registration for an honest ballot.

The meeting was under the sponsorship of the German-American club.

Amelia Earhart, in Auto, Narrowly Escapes Mishap

La Salle, Ill., April 2.—[Special.]—Amelia Earhart Putnam, the woman flyer, en route to Jacksonville by auto to fill a speaking engagement, narrowly escaped an accident today when a tire went flat, swinging her car to the edge of the highway. She was alone.

THE PRIMARY BATTLE

Herewith are presented the second of a series of two political sketches and campaign estimates on the candidates for state and county offices in the Republican and Democratic primaries on April 14. The candidates discussed today are running for state's attorney of Cook county.

Republican

BY PARKE BROWN.

On the Republican ballot for the primary of April 14 there will be five candidates listed for the nomination for state's attorney, but the contest already has narrowed down to a two man affair, with indications that a third candidate will make a good showing.

HARRY S. DITCHBURNE.

Harry S. Ditchburne, brought out by the Brooks forces and later indorsed by the Deneen group, is considered far in the lead. His closest opponent, it is believed, is William F. Waugh, who is backed by the Caldwell group. The third candidate who may run a good race is Freeman Leroy Fairbank, but his only hope lies in his personal campaign.

The relative strength of the three is believed to be indicated with a fair degree of accuracy in the recent bar primary, the postal vote of members of the Chicago Bar association, in which Ditchburne received 963 votes; Waugh, 376, and Fairbank, 335.

Two Others in Field.

The other two starters are William J. Grace, who received 88 votes in the bar primary, and Charles J. Mueller, who received 80.

Ditchburne's selection on the Brooks ticket was one of the surprising events of this campaign. The Brooks camp and the Deneen group had been negotiating with a view to a harmony ticket. On some places they agreed, but they could not unite on a candidate for state's attorney.

The Deneenites selected Leonard C. Reid as their man. The Brooks people were unable to make a choice from a long list of names submitted to them.

At about the eleventh hour the name of Ditchburne, who had not even considered becoming a candidate, was brought up. He was unanimously agreed upon.

Approved by Deneen Camp.

Later it was disclosed that if he had been considered in the Brooks-Deneen conference an agreement upon him would have been reached there. When Ditchburne told the Brooks people he would run, Leonard Reid withdrew and the Deneen camp gave its O. K. to Ditchburne.

Both organizations are enthusiastic about him. They point to his seven years as an assistant state's attorney as a record of cases won by careful preparation and presentation, a record commended highly by the Chicago Bar association, the Chicago Crime commission, and other organizations which make a business of knowing what's going on in the courts.

Ditchburne is 49 years old and has been practicing law since 1910.

Waugh Called Qualified.

Waugh also was declared well qualified by the Chicago Bar association. His name was presented to the Brooks and Deneen forces. But it was turned down by each group for a reason to which the lawyers' association gave no weight in its report on candidates, a fact which the report of its committee did not mention.

Something that did not conflict with the lawyers' code of ethics was too much for the political leaders to overlook in spite of a remarkably excellent record as an assistant United States district attorney in the prosecution of narcotic and prohibition cases.

Waugh was on the staf of District Attorney Edwin A. Olson from February, 1923, to October, 1925. During that time he won convictions in 91 out of 94 narcotic cases, in 361 out of 370 prohibition cases and in about 15 cases arising out of postal law violations.

Some of His Victories.

Among the cases he won were those against "Butch" Crowley, Johnny Torrio, Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, Spencer Brown, Gustav C. Straus, P. David Pinkussohn, and Nick Juffra.

In March, 1929, more than three years after leaving the federal service, Waugh appeared in the federal court as one of counsel for Al Capone. It was not the criminal case against Capone, the income tax case. It was entirely a matter of law having no connection with the income tax prosecution, the question whether Capone was guilty of contempt of court because he failed to obey a subpena in a case in which he merely was a witness.

Legal ethics do not frown on the acceptance of a retainer in a case of this sort, but the politicians declared that it was impossible for Waugh to dodge a "Capone label."

Lawyer for Other Hoodlums.

In addition to that old Capone connection, Waugh's record shows that in 1930, 1931, and 1932 he appeared for four other hoodlums. They were Jack Guzik, convicted of income tax evasion; Ted Newberry, acquitted in a liquor conspiracy case; Terry Druggan, who pleaded guilty to income tax evasion; and Jack McGurn, whose case Waugh accepted after McGurn's conviction for white slavery, and carried to the United States Supreme court for a reversal.

Since 1932 Waugh has not had a gangster case. But it is charged that his chief backer when the Caldwell group decided to support his candidacy was State Senator Daniel Serritella, leader of the Republican Italian element on the county committee.

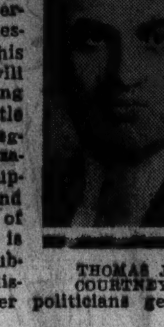
Fairbank a Former Judge.

Fairbank, who almost tied Waugh in the bar primary, has served as an assistant under three state's attorneys, the late John E. W. Wayman, Maclay Hoyne and Robert E. Crowe, much of the time as grand jury and indictment expert. He served as judge of the Municipal court from 1926 to 1932 and the Chicago Bar association said at the close of that period that he "was regarded by many as one of the outstanding judges of the court."

Democratic

BY PERCY WOOD.

State's Attorney Courtney has no opposition for renomination. So far as his own candidacy is concerned there is no reason for his taking any part in the primary campaign. Nevertheless, the question of what his participation will be in the closing days of the battle between the regular organization, which supports him, and the backers of Gov. Horner is one of the subjects most discussed wherever politicians get together.



THOMAS J. COURTNEY.

This subject became acute last Friday when the young state's attorney—who is now only 40 years old—posed for a photograph with Gov. Horner and United States Attorney Igoe at the executive mansion in Springfield. Courtney and Igoe were luncheon guests of Mr. Horner during the governor's crime conference.

Picture Widely Circulated.

A Springfield photographer took the picture and it was sent to papers in the state, apparently in the desire of the Horner campaign organization to create an impression that Courtney would soon announce support of the governor.

Part of the basis for this hope was said to lie in opposition to his renomination voiced prior to slate making in some quarters of the regular organization, but not shared by Mayor Kelly.

Those close to that situation declare that Mr. Kelly was actually in the rôle of attempting to stop this anti-Courtney sentiment, but the impression that his feelings were otherwise was spread by some of Courtney's newspaper friends.

Slated for Renomination.

In due time Courtney was slated for renomination, but it is understood that he had little say in selection of the ticket. That he felt he had won a battle over the leaders was evidenced when he appeared before the county committee the day the slate was approved and spoke bitterly of "efforts" to keep him off it.

To date he has taken no hand in the campaign.

Courtney has been given credit for a substantial reduction in auto theft insurance rates through breaking up gangs of thieves. In this he has been aided by the new certificate of title law which tied the hands of those who disposed of stolen cars.

Fixing Reported Stopped.

It is the common report that since he became state's attorney it has been impossible to "fix" a case in that office. It is also said that there has been less politics in his administration than under any prosecutor in years.

Courtney's rise to political importance was expedited by the death of his chief sponsor for the state's attorneyship, the late Mayor A. J. Cermak, less than six months after he had taken office as prosecutor.

Prior to that he held the relatively inconspicuous post of state senator, representing the Englewood district at Springfield for two terms. He fought Len Small during the former governor's last term and served as Democratic floor leader during the last session he attended.

Holder of Appointive Jobs.

Before Mr. Courtney went to the legislature he held several appointive political jobs, among them that of attorney for the sanitary district from July to December, 1927, and from January to April 15, 1928. From 1913 to 1927 he was variously a clerk in the city clerk's office and sergeant-at-arms of the city council.

From 1916 to 1927 he was secretary of the city council committee on building and zoning. He became attorney for the committee upon his admission to the bar. The Chicago Bar association investigated this multiplicity of jobs in 1932 and reported that Mr. Courtney "has had a commendable public career."

Since he has no opponents this year, the bar association did not report on Mr. Courtney's administration of the state's attorney's office.

WALLACE READY TODAY TO TURN INTO DEMOCRAT

Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will officially become a Democrat immediately after the state convention is held here tomorrow, Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa announced today.

Wallace, registered at the Polk county courthouse as a Republican, has been mentioned as a possible Iowa delegate to the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia, Pa., but Democrats of the state have disagreed as to whether he was eligible because of his being on record as a Republican.

Gov. Herring said that Wallace, who has voted Democratic since 1928, did not want to change his affiliation until after tomorrow's convention because such a move might look as if he sought to be named a delegate-at-large to the national convention. The governor indicated, however, that Wallace would accept the delegateship if offered.

Ex-Alderman Acquitted in $50,000 False Arrest Suit

A jury before Judge Joseph David in Superior court yesterday found David Sutton, former alderman of the Eighth ward, not guilty in a $50,000 damage suit charging assault and false arrest. The suit was brought by Isaac V. Yingst, 49 years old, 743 East 71st street, who charged he was pushed from the curb and arrested at the direction of Sutton during a street gathering four years ago.

BROOKS DECRIES TAXES PILED UP BY DEMOCRATS

Opens Drive in County with Three Speeches.

FOR GOVERNOR (Rep.)
X	C. Wayland Brooks

Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, opened his Cook county campaign last night with three smashing attacks in south suburban communities upon the national, state, and local Democratic administrations. He asserted that while these administrations have piled up a tax load that is bankrupting the country, they have failed utterly to relieve unemployment.

"Neither Illinois nor the nation can stand four more years of waste and socialistic experimentation such as they have undergone," the candidate declared. "Planned economy has proved to be nothing more than planned extravagance under Democratic rule.

Promises Low Tax Régime.

"If I am elected my first official act will be to call together the foremost leaders of labor and industry in Illinois for immediate action toward increasing employment. Industry will be given the assurance that as far as it is within the power of the governor, the tax burden imposed by local and state governments will be the absolute minimum and that plans for industrial expansion and increased production may be made on that assurance.

"Greater production and consumption of goods is the one thing that will produce permanent employment."

Cheered at Chicago Heights.

Mr. Brooks' first speech was delivered in the Eagles hall at Blue Island. He then went to Chicago Heights, where he was greeted enthusiastically by a crowd that filled the auditorium of the Washington school to capacity. The third address was given before a similar throng in Harvey.

Before setting out on his southern suburban tour the candidate was the guest at a dinner given by the John Swift post of the American Legion in the stockyards. There he avoided the issue of the state campaign and discussed the duties of citizenship as outlined in the program of the Legion.

The Brooks campaign will continue today with a meeting in Oak Park and three in the city. Mr. Brooks will deliver a radio address on station WLS at 7:30 a. m. and another on WMAQ at 1:30 p. m.

Bidwill Attacks Barrett.

Speaking on the same platform with Mr. Brooks last night was Arthur J. Bidwill of River Forest, seeking the nomination for state auditor.

Mr. Bidwill, who was elected to the state senate from the Seventh district and ousted from his place by Democratic votes in the senate, declared the present state auditor, Edward J. Barrett, through his blanket receivership plan for closed banks, had made William L. O'Connell the sole boss of 450 Illinois banks.

"This absentee landlordism is condoned on the ground that it saves money," he declared. "For whom is this money saved? I have been unable to convince myself that any is being saved for the depositors."

Divorces Alien Husband Who Went Back to Canada

Mrs. Jean Cathcart, 25 years old, 550 Arlington place, a hostess in the Hotel Sherman coffee shop, was granted a divorce on a charge of desertion yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court from Earl Reginald Cathcart, 32 years old, of Toronto. She testified that while they were living in Chicago in 1931 her husband returned to his home after she had asked him to take out citizenship papers here. They were married in 1928 at Toronto, she said.

Wife Wins Divorce; Gets Cash in Lieu of Alimony

Mrs. Clara Burnette Oel, 31 years old, 19 East Ohio street, was granted a divorce on a charge of infidelity from Guy W. Oel, advertising manager for the Bakers' Consulting bureau of New York, by Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court yesterday. Jacob Kosbie, Mrs. Oel's attorney, said a settlement of $1,500 in lieu of alimony had been arranged.

Here is a Drugless Way to Lose Ugly Fat!

A way that has astounded women everywhere . . . Weight losses of 7 pounds a month have been reported

HERE, at last, is a SAFE way to reduce. A way that does NOT call for strict dieting, exercising, or taking drugs. A way that actually increases your mental and physical energy as pounds of ugly fat seemingly melt away.

Please read carefully: In a recent test, held under the direction of the eminent Dr. Damrau of New York, 14 people who were gaining at the rate of 1⅔ pounds a month, followed this method. And the average loss registered was 7 pounds a person in a single month — WITHOUT STRICT DIETING OR EXERCISING.

What You Do

Now, all you have to do is this: Mix ¾ of a glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ of a glass of water—and drink before each meal, and at bedtime. Then eat sensibly—and this is what happens.

First, Welch's Grape Juice satisfies your normal craving for rich, sweet foods. You have less desire to overeat fattening foods—yet you do feel comfortably satisfied.

Second, the grape sugar in Welch's is quickly burned up—producing vital energy—and, most important, helps nature to burn up excess fat.

Irene Rich is over 40, but weighs the same as at 16. She says, "Eat sensibly—drink Welch's Grape Juice."

Thus, weight is lost naturally and safely. Often at the rate of 7 pounds a month, or more.

Only One Thing to Watch

In following this proved, SAFE way to lose ugly fat, eat sensibly—and then there is only one thing to watch. Use only the genuine Welch's Grape Juice. In order to get the finest, selected, premium grapes grown we pay more than anyone in the United States. That is why Welch's is always full strength. No adulterants; no artificial coloring—Certified Pure. Insist upon Welch's.

"Gives Quick Pep and Energy"

"Red" Woodworth, All-American Star and Coach at Morgan Park Military Academy, says: "Welch's Grape Juice gives my boys strength and energy without adding health-destroying fat. The minerals and vitamins are valuable in helping to build red blood, strong bones and teeth. I recommend it for all growing children and athletes. I have also found it excellent between meals as a quick energy pickup-drink for children and grown ups."

Hunt for Tavern Owner Missing Since March 25

Du Page county authorities were searching yesterday for Oscar Larson, 40 years old, owner of a tavern on U. S. highway 20 near Addison in Du Page county, who has been missing since March 25. Sherif Arthur Bennett said Larson's wife, Anna, reported that she had last seen her husband when he and a patron, Harold Hiedelman, started out for Hiedelman's home in Geneva. Both men made numerous stops at taverns, police learned, and eventually Hiedelman appeared at his home alone. He said he had no recollection of what happened to Larson.

Young Wife Found Dead; Pens Farewell in Lipstick

Mrs. Naomi Ramser, 29 years old, was found dead from automobile exhaust fumes yesterday at the wheel of her husband's car in a garage behind their home at 11110 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island. The ignition was turned on. Beside the body was a note, scrawled with lipstick, to her husband, Milton, who told police she had been despondent because they were childless.

DEMOCRAT FOES TRADE PUNCHES ALL OVER TOWN

Three Principals Loose Barrage of Oratory.

Personalities again pushed aside issues last night as the three principal figures in the bitter Democratic fight swept through ten Chicago wards and three suburbs in the battle for the governorship nomination.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, supported by the regular Democrats for governor, in five speeches loosed a double barreled attack on Gov. Horner and his chief Cook county supporter, Floyd E. Thompson. Mayor Kelly, who also made five speeches, kept up his fire on Horner and his plea for the nomination of Dr. Bundesen. Mr. Horner, in three speeches, turned briefly from personal attacks on the mayor to level a similar barrage at United States Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, who is supporting Dr. Bundesen.

All three speakers touched briefly on the records of the two men who are seeking the nomination, but generally kept their crowded halls in uproar with the slashing personal attacks.

Bundesen Hits Thompson.

Dr. Bundesen, who spoke to large audiences in the 30th, 37th, and 47th wards, and in Forest Park and Brookfield, alternated blasts at Horner with charges that Mr. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, is no longer a Democrat and that he is an enemy of the national administration.

"Thompson may have once been a member of the Democratic party, but today this gentleman, while still professing to be a Democrat, has clearly indicated that he has joined the forces of greed and special privilege who are doing all in their power to prevent the reëlection of Franklin D. Roosevelt," Bundesen said. "Thompson has publicly proved himself an enemy of the New Deal."

Dr. Bundesen quoted from a recent address of Mr. Thompson to show that the Horner leader is anti-New Deal.

Cites November Speech.

"On Nov. 26, 1935, before the Junior Association of Commerce in the Morrison hotel, Mr. Thompson sneered at the Roosevelt administration with the remark that the New Deal was a Raw Deal," Dr. Bundesen said.

"He added that the Democratic party 'has just about left me.' Of course, what Mr. Thompson really meant was that he had left the Democratic party. A question that many citizens will ask is whether or not Mr. Thompson was influenced to leave the Democratic party by the fact that he has now become an attorney, at a great fee, for Samuel Insull.

"Inasmuch as Mr. Thompson is trying to defeat President Roosevelt, it come as no surprise to anyone that he is supporting Horner for the same reason that Republican newspapers in Illinois are supporting Horner and urging the Democratic voters to nominate Horner.

Charges Plot Against Roosevelt.

"They know that Horner will be an easy man to defeat next November, but, more important, they realize that if Horner succeeds in getting on the state ticket he will cost hundreds of thousands of votes for President Roosevelt."

Dr. Bundesen also discussed the prison scandals under the Horner administration and urged the nomination of a candidate who would clean up the state institutions.

Turning to the sales tax, Dr. Bundesen said: "This Horner pet was foisted on the public against its will. Even then, the present governor did not use the tax for relief as intended, but instead hoarded $20,000,000 at Springfield. The tax is being used for purposes for which it was not intended.

Kelly Says Horner Is Weak.

Mayor Kelly swung through wards 13, 22, 25, 28, and 30 during the evening and renewed charges that Horner, weak politically, is attempting to undermine the party and the national administration for personal power.

"Horner is lending himself to a great Republican conspiracy to defeat Roosevelt," the mayor declared. "He once pledged his loyalty to the party, but now, when the decision of the chosen leaders is against him he is willing to wreck the party and menace our great leader Roosevelt for his own selfish ambition."

The mayor declared that the nomination of Dr. Bundesen is needed to strengthen the Democratic ticket in Illinois.

"Horner's misrule has ruined him politically and that is why the committeemen did not select him as the candidate," he said. "We want to present the strongest possible ticket, and that means we must nominate Bundesen.

"Horner four years ago talked about loyalty to the party, but now he has forgotten what loyalty means. He has been hostile to legislation needed for Chicago, and he turned a deaf ear to pleas of the party to reduce the state automobile tax 40 per cent. He claims to be a Chicagoan, but he is an enemy of Chicago. Bundesen has a record of constructive work in public life and he should be our candidate to continue such work as governor of Illinois."

Horner Attacks Dieterich.

Meanwhile Gov. Horner, who spoke in Oak Park and on the west and south sides, charged that Senator Dieterich "sold out to Boss Kelly and attacked me."

"The senator," the governor said, "holds a $7,500 a year position with the sanitary district, for which he does nothing at all. Boss Kelly gave him this job, and that is why the senator has taken the orders of the gang and is out against me. He is getting paid without doing any work, so of course he had to come out for the boss."

This charge brought Ross Woodhull, president of the sanitary district, into the fray.

"The sanitary district employs Senator Dieterich's law firm, Dieterich & Northcutt, to handle downstate litigation," Mr. Woodhull said. "The firm is paid only for the work it does. In fact, it is paid on a fee basis, which averages about $7,500 a year."

Recalls Handbook Bill.

Gov. Horner declared that his break with the regular organization occurred over the bill to legalize handbooks in Chicago. Mayor Kelly supported the measure, and Horner vetoed it.

"It was a graft bill," Horner charged. "When Kelly couldn't boss me, he sent stooge judges down to talk to me. Then he said he would oust me if I vetoed the bill. I couldn't get to it to veto it quickly enough.

"Kelly has ordered the judges to leave the bench for the first time in the history of the state to campaign against me," he said. "It shows to what lengths the boss will go. He says I defeated old age pensions. That is falsehood. He claims to be with Roosevelt, while actually he is an enemy of Roosevelt."

The Horner headquarters announced last night that today the Illinois State Federation of Labor and the Joint Labor Legislative Board of Illinois will officially indorse Gov. Horner's labor record and urge that he be renominated.

Cases of Scarlet Fever in City Far Under 1935

Despite the prevalence of scarlet fever throughout the state, there has been a marked reduction in the number of cases in Chicago for the first three months this year as compared with the same period last year, it was disclosed yesterday. Records of the Chicago board of health show that so far this year there have been only 3,237 cases in the city while in the same period last year there were 6,592.

CHIEF JUSTICE STONE LEADS FIFTH DISTRICT RACE FOR NOMINATION

Peoria, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone, Peoria, held the lead over his two opponents today in balloting by delegates from ten counties in the Republican Fifth district Supreme court nominating convention.

Justice Stone, who is seeking reëlection after completing his second term of nine years, received 88 votes on the 59th ballot. A total of 101 votes are necessary to nominate. Circuit Judge Joseph E. Daily, Peoria, received 58 and Attorney Ernest H. Pool of Ottawa, 53.

Republican and Democratic nominees, selected at district conventions, will oppose each other in the judicial election June 1.

Fifth district Democrats will hold their nominating convention here Saturday with State's Attorney Josef T. Skinner of Bureau county, mentioned as the party's possible choice.

Counties in the Fifth district are Peoria, Bureau, Grundy, Henry, Knox, La Salle, Marchall, Putnam, Stark, and Woodford.

Wife Pays Clerk So Hubby on Bench Can't Fine Her

Mrs. Beatrice V. Porter, 534 Forest avenue, Evanston, wife of Judge Harry H. Porter of the Evanston Municipal court, avoided appearing before her husband in court yesterday and paid a $2 fine for a trafic violation to Clerk Jesse D. Kindig. She was given a ticket Wednesday for parking her automobile in a space reserved for police cars. Her husband announced he would fine her if she appeared in his court. "But then," Mrs. Porter declared, "I paid the fine out of our joint bank account."

Woman Who Set 8 Fires to Take Mental Treatment

Mrs. Isabel Borrell, 38 years old, who confessed that because she disliked her neighbors she started eight fires in the building in which she lived at 4716 Sheridan road, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell and fined $1 yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief. The sentence and fine were suspended by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court when Mrs. Borrell said she would enter a state institutions for mental treatment.

U. S. COMMISSION APPROVES BUYING OF FOREST LAND

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—The national forest reservation commission today approved the purchase of 259,782 additional acres of forest lands for $893,476.

The commission also voted to expand the boundaries of the Superior national forest in Minnesota by 661,000 acres, although no purchases were made.

The largest portion of new lands, 123,196 acres, was purchased in the Great Lakes area at a cost of $321,465.

Units approved for purchase included:

	Acres.	Total cost.
Illini	733	$ 5,079
Shawnee	8,186	52,839
Oconto	4,831	17,794
Argonne	2,876	10,579
Flambeau	991	2,314
Mondeaux	6,188	14,208
Chequamegon	5,604	17,017
Moquah	3,120	5,183

Illini and Shawnee are in Illinois, the remainder in Wisconsin.

Spelling Winners to Get Week's Vacation Apiece

Mary Bottorff, 13 years old, 2925 Calwagner boulevard, Franklin Park, winner of the county schools' spelling contest last Saturday, and Raymond Miller, 13 years old, 8533 River Grove avenue, who placed third, the highest of the boy contestants, will be rewarded with a week's free vacation at Round Lake this summer. Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday. The offer was made by George P. Renehan, a resort owner.

SUPREME ISSUE IS CONSTITUTION, DECLARES GLENN

Warns Guarantees Are Being Violated.

The great issue of the coming elections is whether the constitution should be abandoned or weakened by those it has served, or whether it shall continue, impregnable, to be the guarantee of a free people, Otis F. Glenn declared last night in a radio address. Mr. Glenn, former United States senator from Illinois, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for that office in the April 14 primary.

"Study the constitution!" he said. "See from what it was born, what was its purpose, what it has undergone, what trials and crises it has encountered, what progress has been made under it."

News Gathering Must Be Free.

Discussing the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press, Mr. Glenn said that this includes not only the right to publish, but the right to gather news "without interference or domination or censorship by any official."

"The constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law," Mr. Glenn said, "has certainly been, in spirit, violated by the cancellation of contracts without hearing, by the confiscation of privately owned gold at a price less than its soon to be declared value, by the declaration in various states against the collection of moneys due upon mortgages.

"The wise guarantee of state' rights in the constitution is disregarded now. There is a constant, steady, persistent drive to take power, authority and prerogatives from the various states and concentrate them in the federal government.

Stands Best in Emergency.

"Let no one say the constitution has failed. Let no one say dire emergency requires its suspension.

"Say to those who advance such theories: Strife and turmoil, panic and emergency, brought to mankind its greatest charter of liberty. That charter has preserved the liberties of the people through every storm. It will preserve and strengthen us now and in the years to come."

Mr. Glenn also spoke last night at a meeting at 152d and Loomis streets in Harvey and at a gathering in the Eagle hall, 2427 West Grove street, Blue Island.

He announced yesterday that he has accepted the invitation of Senator Arthur Vandenberg and other Michigan officials to address the Republican state convention in Detroit on the morning of April 24.

William E. Hull of Peoria, former congressman, now a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, last night addressed five north side Republican ward organizations.

"We are not being governed by the historic Democratic party, which has always had definite American tenets under which it has governed before," Hull said. "We are being governed by a strange and foreign party which has none of the elements of Americanism. It is a Russian-Roosevelt party, a Russovelt party. Apparently it has copied and put into effect as much as possible the governmental plans of the Russian Reds."

PEOPLE WOULD BE HIS ONLY BOSS, HADLEY TELLS G. O. P. WOMEN

Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, asserted yesterday that if he is elected the office will be administered "without entangling alliances." Mr. Hadley spoke at a luncheon of the State Republican Women's Club of Illinois in the Hamilton club, where other G. O. P. candidates also introduced themselves.

"My nomination and election will mean only that Charles W. Hadley once more has the opportunity of doing work he loves," he said. "It will mean only that the people of Illinois have hired a lawyer to do your legal work and you haven't hired his boss to be the power behind the throne. There will be no throne if I am elected and no power but the people's power."

Mr. Hadley was state's attorney of Du Page county for 14 years. He also was an assistant attorney general under the late Edward J. Brundage and his successor, Oscar E. Carlstrom.

Contracts for Stickney Sewage Plant Awarded

The sanitary district board yesterday awarded the first two contracts for boiler and sludge disposal equipment for the southwest sewage treatment works in Stickney. According to Ross A. Woodhull, president of the board, the equipment will save nearly $7,000,000 in the first construction cost and $400,000 annually in operating costs. It will burn the sludge and utilize the heat to generate power. The Air Preheater corporation was awarded the contract for vapor heaters at $329,496. The steam generating units are to be furnished and installed by the Combustion Engineering Co., Inc., for $427,063.

BANKER INDICTED OVER SHORTAGE IN DETROIT CASH

Detroit, Mich., April 2.—(AP)—James J. O'Shea, banker, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on 18 counts charging misapplication of $241,950 of city trust funds and stood mute on arraignment.

The indictment alleged that O'Shea, former vice president of the National Bank of Detroit, misapplied all but $106,000 of the $340,000 shortage in the city's trust account.

A plea of innocent was entered for him at the arraignment. O'Shea's bond was continued at $40,000.

NERVOUS GIRLS Who Lie Awake All Night!

Go to your nearest drug store and obtain a package of Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea. Take 3 Kelpamalt Tablets with each meal for 1 week. At the end of that period, if you are not sleeping well, if your appetite has not improved, if you don't feel stronger, have more energy, more endurance, and if you don't gain at least 5 pounds of "stay-there" flesh the first week, return the unused Kelpamalt Tablets and your money will be refunded.

This amazing offer, which has been made all over the country, can produce these remarkable results because Kelpamalt works on an entirely new principle. It gets right down to the cause of most weaknesses. "It's GLANDS STARVING FOR IODINE," science now says, "that is the cause of rundown conditions, of paleness, nervousness, sleeplessness, skinniness." These tiny, hidden glands require a definite ration of iodine all the time. (Don't confuse this with ordinary chemical iodine, which is frequently toxic.) Without it, they fail to work, assimilation falters, metabolism becomes irregular and the food you eat, instead of nourishing you, tends simply to clog up the system and keep you awake all night. Start Kelpamalt today. Make the test suggested above. Even the first few days' treatment will give you the best night's sleep you've had in years. Kelpamalt costs but little to use and will be found on sale at all

A RECOGNITION OF EMPLOYES.

A plan has been worked out which will permit the employés of the Milwaukee Journal to acquire ownership of its shares from the estate of the late Lucius W. Nieman, founder and editor. By this highly desirable arrangement the paper will continue under the management that has successfully directed its affairs in recent years. So far as is humanly possible, the policies which in his lifetime had the earnest approval of the principal owner will be continued.

The Probate court in Milwaukee has been asked to authorize the sale of Mr. Nieman's controlling shares to Harry J. Grant, publisher and minority owner; to Miss Faye Macbeath, niece of Mr. Nieman, who had acquired a partial interest by bequest from the owner, and to the employés, who are to be offered attractive terms. The plan will give the stockholder employés a majority, with control vested in Mr. Grant.

Experience has shown that the twin problems of insuring wise and continuous management and preventing widespread changes in personnel are the major obstacles to the permanence of most great industries. Many businesses which seemed impregnable have diminished in influence and importance because loyal and capable employés have had no way to acquire a stake in the enterprise they helped build when, after the death of the founder, management had passed into hands unfamiliar and out of sympathy with his policies.

A great newspaper, which is a more living and sensitive thing than any other type of business, is particularly susceptible to these hazards. Mr. Nieman saw this danger when he specified in his will that the price offered was not to be the sole consideration when his interests in the Journal were sold.

It is regrettable that the new employé-owners will have to take over under the huge additional burden of great estate taxes, both state and national. Excessive inheritance taxes can strip going concerns of assets greatly needed in carrying over the period of transfer of ownership and succession of management.

The Journal in making it possible for its loyal and able men to gain the stimulation of ownership in the creative work they do is following the example of some outstanding American publications. It was the procedure followed in the Baltimore Sun, the Kansas City Star, and the New York Sun and the results have proved admirable.

WISCONSIN'S REPUBLICAN DELEGATES.

Wisconsin Republicans will vote April 7 whether the state's 24 delegates to the national convention shall be free to support the choice of the convention or whether they shall go pledged to vote for Senator Borah. There are two complete slates of candidates on the ballots. An uninstructed delegation will be picked by district caucuses and by a state conference. A Borah slate was selected by local leaders who had received permission from Senator Borah to promote his interests in Wisconsin.

The uninstructed candidates have explained that they are not anti-Borah. If the senator from Idaho should prove to be the favorite of the convention, an uninstructed delegation would be as free to fight for him as for any other.

Senator Borah does not lack for sincere admirers in Wisconsin, but, on the whole, the Borah ticket is bait set for the La Follette camp. The radicals having no national ticket of their own are expected to swarm into the Republican camp and Senator Borah is conceded to have more appeal to them than any others who have been named as Republican possibilities.

This does not mean that the La Follettes would support Borah in the November election, when their votes are as apt to go to the Democratic candidate who has thus far been lavish in his favors to them.

An uninstructed delegation will find itself in a much stronger position at the convention than one pledged in advance. The uninstructed candidates are unpledged except to vote for a man who is honest and who has common sense, who will not hold out false hopes to the people, who has no half baked ideas for legislating the country into prosperity, and who will not play one class against another.

If it is the conclusion of the convention that Senator Borah is that man Wisconsin will be free to support him. If the wisdom of the convention chooses another, a delegation unpledged will be free to get behind him and help the convention in reaching its conclusion.

The Republicans must choose a man of sound character, sound doctrin, and sound ability, a man who will reflect the simple homely virtues that represent the American people.

Wisconsin Republicans will serve their party and the nation best if they send delegates to the convention completely unhampered in helping to choose such a man.

THE NEW ARROGANCE.

The treatment accorded Mayor McNair of Pittsburgh by the house ways and means committee was characteristic. Mr. McNair appeared as spokesman for one of the great cities of the country. He wished to register a protest against a tax program which would take still more money from the people of his city who are already supplying a disproportionate share of the federal revenues. He hoped to explain to the members of the committee that the country would be benefited by calling a halt on wasteful expenditures and harmed by the imposition of new and crushing tax burdens, such as the President had recommended.

Mr. McNair was treated as if he were a scoundrel, as if those he represented were cheats, and as if his plea had no foundation in fact. He was bullied, interrupted, and threatened with forcible expulsion. The fact that he is a Democrat proved particularly irritating to his fellow Democrats of the committee. Here was a Democrat who did not accept the divine inspiration of every proposal emanating from the White House. In the eyes of the New Dealers on the committee that proved Mr. McNair to be of an inferior order of human being, deserving of nothing but contempt and abuse.

The New Deal has brought with it to Washington the New Arrogance. Officeholders no longer regard themselves as public servants. The citizen is an inferior. It is his privilege to pay. It is his duty to remain silent. He has no rights which need be respected. He can be insulted but must show no sign of resentment. If he objects to any official proposal, his personal integrity and his honesty of purpose are automatically assumed to be nonexistent. If he ventures to protest, his private papers are seized without warant and he is subjected to the annoyance and expense of defending tax returns which had not been questioned before.

The Black inquisitions have set the tone for all congressional relations with the citizen. Committee hearings on bills of enormous importance to the people of the United States are conducted as if the witnesses were traitors whose dearest ambition was to destroy their country. Any one familiar with human relations can readily explain this change of attitude in Washington. Manners and attitudes generally descend from above. The subordinate apes his superior.

BLAME IT ON THE WEATHER.

"Resolved, That the railroad has been outmoded by evolution."

A few months ago a number of newspapers and magazines were engaged in a heated debate of this resolution. For the affirmative it was alleged that through the invention of the automobile the public had recaptured the means of private carriage over roads that it had built. With such additional assistance as was afforded by the bus and truck, adequate transportation would soon be available without the private highways of the railroads. These new vehicles "ran down Main street" to make door to door deliveries. They offered service across the top of Virginia's Natural Bridge, up Pikes Peak, through Yellowstone park, and along the Redwood highway, all inaccessible to a railroad.

But Old Man Winter took the negative. During January and February he succeeded in effectually blocking highway transportation for weeks at a time. He also grounded the planes—but the railways still plowed through. He had succeeded fairly well in defeating the resolution when gentle Spring suddenly stepped out of character to release river torrents that swept away both highway and railway. For a period of four days Pittsburgh was rendered inaccessible to any form of transportation save the airplane.

Conclusion—no form of transportation is outmoded. All are necessary public servants in their own orbits. The railroads have not become obsolete, but many of their methods are antiquated. This may, in a measure, be attributed to the smug self-satisfaction of a monopoly, but it should be charged principally to the inability of congress to see that they cannot compete in the 1936 field when handicapped by laws framed to meet conditions that existed in 1887.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL.

[Cedar Rapids, Ia., Gazette.]

A month or so ago a committee of the American Bar association drew up a set of recommendations as to how the press and the radio people could be restrained from making three-ring circuses out of sensational criminal trials. As we recall, the recommendations were pigeonholed, as they should have been, and the matter of desensationalizing criminal trials seems to be in abeyance, as far as the bar association is concerned.

The zeal of some individual members of the bar for such needed reform has not waned, however. The other day opposing legal batteries were all set to begin the staging of another murder case that had distinct ballyhoo possibilities—pretty blonde defendant, fairly wealthy victim, illicit love angle, high powered attorneys, and everything. Nothing was lacking in the setup to manufacture spread-eagle headlines, melodramatic broadcasts, and exciting newsreels—except a coöperative judge.

The judge decided there would be no monkey business in his courtroom. He vetoed the courtroom broadcasting and closed the trial to all but accredited press representatives. Said the proceedings would be confined to straight legal work. And that was that.

So far the remedy has worked pretty well. The trial hasn't created much of a stir, and we suspect that the lawyers are going about their business in a reasonably dignified manner. All of which suggests that courtrooms will do the work if the men in charge know how to run it.

Restaurant Patron—Hi, waiter, I found a piece of wood in my sausage.

Waiter—Yes, sir; but I'm sure that—er—ah—

Patron—Don't try to stall me off. I don't mind eating a little dog, when pork is high—but I'll be hanged if I'm going to tackle the doghouse, too.—Pathfinder.

IT WAS THIS WAY.

In an Atlanta school a prize was offered for a story of the fewest words in rhyme. A colored boy won it.

A mule in the barnyard, lazy and slick,
A boy with a pin on the end of a stick
Slips in behind him as still as a mouse—
Crêpe on the door of the little boy's house.

MR. MUSSOLINI seems to have routed King Haile Selassie's army in Ethiopia. But that is not as important as the thought which we fear Mr. Mussolini is now pondering, "Where do I go from here?"

BUT AS THE CURTAIN goes down on the war drama in Ethiopia another theater of war raises its curtain and we behold the Japs and the soviet Mongolians fighting desperately. It certainly looks as though mankind loved nothing so much as blood and slaughter. I often wonder why the human race is so vain. My little Sealyham Tommy Atkins is very keen on a fight with anything from a terrier to an elephant. But Tommy is a dog. We humans are thinking, very often educated beings. I wish Tommy Atkins could talk; I would like to ask him what he thinks is the chief difference between humans and dogs. I rather think Tommy would say that the chief difference is that when dogs fight they just use their teeth and that when humans fight they use guns and bayonets and cannons and tanks and flame throwers and poison gas and explosive bullets.

QUERY FOR A REFORMER.

When men had hurt His heart beyond all bearing
The wise Christ took His burden to the hill.
Here was a better friend for sorrow-sharing;
Something in wind and starlight helped to fill
The place that man's love should have held. . . .
At morning
The weary Christ climbed yet another height.
Here He found whips and nails and shouts of scorning
Rabble. . . . I thought to set the world aright;
But when men hurt my heart I left them gladly,
Counting their love at last small gain—small loss.
Now halfway up my height I question madly,
"What am I climbing to . . . the stars? . . . the cross?"

She has no praise for others,
No smile for passers-by;
Her days are spent in bitterness;
But once. I saw her cry.

Her house is bleak and dusty;
The shades are ever drawn;
But once. I came upon her
Climbing hills at dawn.

They tell that she is meaner
Than any one they know—
Last night I saw her scatter
Crumbs upon the snow.

A BOONDOGGLER WOMAN'S COLLEGE in Chicago graduated its first class yesterday. I would like to see a boondoggle college graduation. In place of reading theses I suppose the graduates rush out on the stage and do their boondoggling stuff. One of them probably does soft shoe dances, another cuts out paper dolls, another graduate plays chess, checkers, and dominoes with one hand and paints upside down pictures on the wash boiler with the other hand. The valedictorian as likely as not sings "America" backward while she shows how much more attractive dishwashing can be made by juggling the dishes in the air while washing them, keeping at least four plates, three cups, and two saucers in the air all the time. Anyhow, I suppose that's what boondogglers do when they graduate. And they probably walk on their hands and turn three cartwheels at the close of the program instead of giving the old-fashioned college yell.

Willie Shakespeare wrote some plays
Which, 's truth, were best forgotten;
For some, the stars' fire will outlive
And some, in a vulgarism, were rotten.
A gent would be a hypocrite,
A reading sort of Janus,
To like such slush as "Timon," say—
Such tripe as "Coriolanus."
Good Willie liked his horses fast,
His gals—he liked them likewise;
He saw how big men eat the small—
In manner whale—or pikewise.
And Willie built his skyscraper
Of everlasting girders:
He tramped the jungle path called life;—
He knew most mergers are murders.
Willie is perihelion, sure,
In Fame's flame-orbited skies—
For Willie Shakespeare, over all,
Was plenty worldly-wise.

FOOD POISONING.

We cannot always determine from taste or odor whether food is wholesome, although the stomach is a rather keen detective and will reject in most instances unwanted or unfit food. Occasionally, however, infected food may pass the stomach barrier and enter the intestine before its true character is discovered.

How does food spoil? Harmful organisms can become mixed with perfectly clean food in the course of its preparation, from such sources as unclean hands and utensils. Vermin often bring about contamination before the food is served. With the coming of spring the natural temperature of the outdoors, which in many cases has been used for purposes of refrigeration, rises to a point where bacteria will reproduce readily. If the food originally contains putrefactive organisms which have not been killed by cooking, growth will begin and, as a result, the material will be deleterious when used for human consumption.

Is summer the only season in which food poisoning can develop? Obviously the answer is "no," although there is a greater tendency to food spoilage during the warm months of the year. In a recent epidemic in an Ohio city, 40 individuals were affected, 14 of whom were so ill that rather extensive hospital care was required. The source of the infection was traced to cream cake and cream pie.

The symptoms appeared within from 5 to 24 hours. Abdominal cramps were first noted, which increased gradually in intensity and the patients became exceedingly weak. Nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea followed in sequence. Some of the patients exhibited very high temperatures, particularly the children. Cultures of the intestinal contents disclosed organisms of the salmonella or paratyphoid groups. The most striking symptom was the marked loss of water, which was replaced as rapidly as possible by the injection of fluid under the skin or, in severe cases, directly into a vein. All food was stopped for the time being, although glucose was administered to a few of the victims.

With the disappearance of the symptom of vomiting, and as soon as the water balance had been restored, toast and thin gruel were fed in small amounts. The Moro-Heisler scraped apple diet was also used successfully. This consists in feeding all of the scraped apple that the patient desires.

Epidemics of this character are all too frequently miscalled ptomaine poisoning. While ptomaines do exist, they are rare as a cause of poisoning. Presumably, they are formed in food before it is eaten and our senses of smell and taste would reject ptomaine loaded food. It would be far too nasty to eat. Furthermore, it has been found that ptomaines taken into the intestinal tract are not really very noxious; if they should be injected directly into the circulation, however, they would bring on serious symptoms. We can virtually dismiss ptomaines as a source of food poisoning.

At this season of the year we must be particularly alert to poisonous toadstools [mushrooms], as it requires an expert to differentiate those varieties from the edible, nontoxic forms.

A study of 121 outbreaks of food poisoning shows that 21 originated in minced meats, that is, chopped or ground; 16 from meat pies; 12 from milk and milk products such as custards, cream fillings, ice cream, flour thickened creams, gravies, etc.; 8 from home canned goods; and the remainder from miscellaneous sources. Whenever an epidemic occurs, unless some definite chemical can be traced, we may assume not that spoiled ingredients were purchased but that lively bacteria of the salmonella group have found their way into the food during preparation. This emphasizes the importance of handling all food in a cleanly manner in sanitary surroundings. It is far wiser to recook leftovers even though adequate refrigeration has been provided.

DIET IS USELESS.

M. E. writes: My husband has bleeding piles and somebody told him he could be cured by the grape diet. How is this used?

REPLY.

Hemorrhoids generally follow long standing constipation and straining at stool. The grape diet is harmless but useless. Nonirritating foods should be used and condiments such as pepper, mustard, and spices avoided. Sometimes the blood lost brings on anemia. Why not consult a competent physician?

PAIN OVER EYE.

Mrs. M. writes: I get a pain over each eye when I cough, sneeze, or laugh real loud. What can I do to relieve this?

REPLY.

The pain you describe is probably a minor neuralgia. It may be a referred pain due to some local defect, such as poor sight or a disturbance in the sinuses. Increased pressure of venous blood is probably the cause, as during coughing the veins of the head are often congested [overfilled]. The pain is along the upper branch of the fifth nerve.

"KNEE-JERK."

B. S. writes: What causes a person's leg to jump up when tapped on the knee?

REPLY.

This phenomenon is known as "knee-jerk" and is a normal response. If your leg will not "jump," as you say, some disease of the spinal cord may be present.

WASSERMANN TEST.

D. B. writes: Does the Wassermann blood test reveal the presence of syphilis, of gonorrhea, or of both?

REPLY.

This test is used only to detect syphilis. Syphilis and gonorrhea are not caused by the same microörganism.

WILL NOT SUFFER.

F. L. A. writes: Is it harmful to wash the hair during menstruation? My hair is oily and I must wash it every week.

REPLY.

No. Your health will not suffer. This is an old superstition.

From Across the Sea

BY S. L. SHEPPARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland.—When one of John Cabot's crew of 18, peering through the mists at 5 a. m. on Saturday, June 24, 1497, joyfully shouted, "Land, ho," what land was he looking at? That the North American continent was at that moment being discovered historians generally agree. But there has been learned disagreement on whether Cabot's ship, the Mathew, was putting in at the northern tip of Cape Breton Island, or somewhere in Newfoundland or Labrador.

Prof. Leo E. F. English, recently inspector of the Roman Catholic schools here, has now placed arguments before the Newfoundland Historical society which he says indicate that Grates cove was the disputed landfall.

Prof. English claims to have found a large rock on the foreshore of this harbor on which are letters, undecipherable now with the naked eye. When a photograph of the letters was placed under a microscope, however, he said the letters were found to be:

IO COBOTO
RIC

Prof. English contends the Italian Cabot placed his Venetian name, Giovanni Caboto, on this rock. He explains that the RIC is no doubt part of the name Henricus, or Henry VII., the Tudor king of England under whose patronage Cabot put out from Bristol, England, May 2, 1497, "to seeke out, discover, and finde whatsoever isles, countries, regions, or provinces of the heathen and infidels, which before this time have been unknown to all Christians." The purpose, of course, was to find an ocean way to the rich Asiatic stores of spices, perfumes, silks, and precious stones.

English argues that "on this voyage Cabot first sailed around Ireland, then toward the north, and finally steered west and that the mouth of Trinity bay, therefore, would be the logical place near which to look for Cabot's landfall. Grates point, which forms the harbor of Grates cove, is at the mouth of Trinity bay, and lies between Trinity and Conception bays.

English sees further substantiation of his theory in a reference to Cabot in a letter written to the duke of Milan on Dec. 18, 1497, by the Milanese ambassador in London. It says: "He came to firm land, where he planted the royal banners, took possession for his highness, made certain marks, and returned."

In 1822 W. E. Coonick, a traveler who was the first man to traverse the interior of Newfoundland, mentioned in his notes that there was an inscribed rock or the beach at Grates cove.

Prof. English's discovery of the inscription is not expected to end the jousting of historians over Cabot's landing place, or to end delving into dusty records on the matter. But it is anticipated that the news will bring swarms of sightseers to Grates cove during the motoring season to view what is now referred to as the Grates cove rock.

[The Encyclopedia Britannica, 1910 edition, states categorically of Cabot and his crew: "They reached the northern extremity of Cape Breton Island." Other historical books indicate the scene of the landfall is disputed.]

INSURANCE BENEFICIARIES.

Glenwood, Ill., March 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Am married and have two small daughters. My life insurance names my wife beneficiary, if she is living; otherwise to be divided evenly among my surviving children. The names of the children are not shown, the clause "surviving children" being used. 1. Is the above legal or [2] will the children's names have to be shown? 3. Due to the ages of the children I assume that in case of death of both parents a guardian would have to be appointed. 4. Can I make a will appointing my brother guardian? My wife and I own a home in joint tenancy [not tenancy in common]. 5. If I die would she be free to sell this property, or [6] would she have to share with the children, making it necessary to hold same until they are of age? My father-in-law died in 1904 leaving a will giving the use of a farm in Indiana to his widow for her lifetime, the farm to go to his children, a boy and two girls, to be shared equally. The boy died at the age of 10. The widow is still living, but due to farming conditions the property, which is rented, has not brought sufficient to pay taxes and upkeep. During the last three years the daughters have spent $2,300 on it for taxes and repair. 7. Is there any way of recording these bills against the property as debts so that when it is turned over to the girls they will not have to pay inheritance tax on that amount? I understand this tax must be paid on all inheritances over $10,000 and the property would probably be valued at about $15,000. 8. If I am in error as to my understanding of the inheritance tax law, please correct me.

A. C. B.

1. Yes.
2. No, but presumably a guardian will have to be appointed if the children are minors at the time of your death.
3. Correct.
4. We suggest that you take up with the insurance company the matter of arranging the payment so that your brother will hold for the children.
5. Yes.
6. No.
7. You do not state facts to indicate whether the remainders are vested or contingent. In general the ordinary real estate taxes should be paid by the life tenant and we see no basis for deducting them from an inheritance tax.
8. We suggest that you go over these facts with the attonrey who handled the probate proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHERE TO PROBATE.

Chicago, March 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A resident of Chicago owns real estate in Texas, Minnesota, Michigan and Chicago. A will has been made disposing of all the above. Is there any possibility of this will being probated elsewhere than in Chicago? 2. In this will an employé for many years has been named as executrix with the provision that she have the income of the estate during her life as compensation for the work of looking after the real estate and mortgages of which the estate consists. Can an executrix of a will be a beneficiary in any way to that will?

C. A. S.

1. The principal probate should be where the deceased resides at the time of his death. Subordinate or ancillary proceedings could be held in the other states.
2. Yes.

A JUDGE IN POLITICS.

Chicago, March 31.—One evening last week I had the stimulating experience of attending a ward meeting which happened to be Democratic, but which could just as readily have been Republican.

One of the speakers on the program was a judge of the Municipal court who delivered an address that should have been recorded for oncoming humanity. A vote for Gov. Horner, he told the audience, is a vote for treason. For had not this ingrate kept some Republicans in office? And with the possible exception of hanging all the little children on relief, is there anything more repugnant to good conscience? The audience said of course not. His honor called the governor a few more names, sailed into President Hoover with the best of his washroom humor, and then sat down as the democracy of the Forty-ninth ward stamped its feet, and showed its appreciation of the judge's learning with prolonged applause.

As I left the meeting I tried to think of some institution of modern times that is more decadent than the average Municipal bench, but I made little progress. I have always believed, with a sort of childlike faith in things, that a judge to be called one must be in a position to reason, and that to be able to reason he must first know the law and, secondly, be free from those activities that boil his political passions and embroil him in petty demonstrations of party life. The thought struck me, as our aforementioned friend the judge damned the opposition the other evening, that some day conceivably he might be called upon to administer justice to some of these selfsame scoundrels in his own courtroom. That his decision would reflect judicial calmness and disinterestedness is at least open to debate.

I came near saying that if Justices Hughes and Cardozo and their colleagues find it necessary to stay home evenings to learn the law, it is possible, even though barely so, that our city jurists are fuzzy on a few points here and there. One can see at first glance, however, that this does not necessarily follow. Those old gentlemen in Washington have become so isolated they have lost all sight of what function a judiciary should perform in a democracy. In their archaic way they don't realize that a judiciary reaches its purest form on those various evenings during the week when the ward committeemen and their precinct captains gather above some restaurant to hear a more up to date member of the bench tell how he thinks the spoils system can be made more foolproof.

SLOW EXPRESS TRAINS.

Chicago, March 30.—Day after day I ride the Westchester-Maywood express to Laramie avenue, and never once have I been fully satisfied with the time it makes. From Canal street to Laramie avenue there is not one single stop and yet the train pokes along at an even slower speed than the ordinary locals. The reason for this is well known. The express gets caught between two locals and therefore is not able to proceed at the rate it should.

Surely there ought to be some schedule devised to enable the Westchester to get past both of these slower trains. One way out of this local trap, I believe, would be to run the Westchester between the Wells street local and the Oak Park local, with the express passing the Wells street train at St. Louis and, of course, receiving no trouble from the Oak Park train which would be trailing it all the way.

THE BOY SCOUTS AND THE PARKS.

Chicago, March 28.—The officers of the Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, who have the responsibility for the Scout program throughout the entire city, have been greatly embarrassed by recent unofficial, public statements regarding the Chicago park district, made by a Scout leader in one of the north side communities.

Due to the increased leisure time activities of the parks it has been difficult in this community to receive the use of meeting facilities, which had heretofore been readily accessible. Local community Scout leaders anxious to adjust the situation should have requested the Boy Scout office and officers to adjust the matter on a friendly basis with park officials. Rather than this, they unwisely and unofficially proceeded to make the situation a public issue.

The Chicago Boy Scout council for many years has enjoyed extensive and constant facilities in the Chicago parks, with the coöperation of directors and officials associated with the parks districts. Our association has given us the highest respect for the efforts of the parks to provide adequate recreational activities throughout the city. Their efforts in the crowded, congested areas where these facilities are most needed have been a source of admiration.

It is decidely felt that the opinion and attitude expressed by the local north side Scout leader in recent public statements certainly are contrary to the respectful attitude and appreciation which the city officers of the Boy Scouts hold for the efforts of the Chicago parks and their officials in the field of recreation.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE.

Eldora, Ia., March 23.—Permit me to commend you on the publication of the article on "Coöperative Commonwealths," by William H. Norton. As one of his former pupils I am wondering if you really understand who this man is.

His father was a Methodist minister. His preparation was that of a classicist and he commenced his teaching as a professor in Greek, occupying a chair in Cornell college. He was such a natural scholar that through his own ability for research he switched and became an authority in geology and finally occupied that chair in Cornell college and gained great recognition in that field. It is this combination of the three backgrounds, of religion, the classical, and the scientific, that finds expression in these articles.

However, there is one phase of Dr. Norton's career that is not generally known. With all of his idealistic background he still keeps his feet on the ground and has been a very successful manager of his own finances. Were all the facts known, he would be considered a successful financier. He is one of the most generous of men and he has already dedicated a very substantial fortune to the education of worthy Americans.

DOG VS. LAWN.

Chicago, March 29.—Spring is with us again and it's time we homeowners got busy and fixed up our front lawns so people with dogs would have a nice stopping place for them.

May I suggest a remedy that would be of great benefit to homeowners? Charge $25 for a dog license, use the added revenue to reduce taxes on homes, and judging by the number of dogs in Chicago our taxes would be a mere nothing.

BUS TRAVELER ENDS JOURNEY TO CALIFORNIA

Passengers Are Routed Out at State Border.

Following is the final article of a series by Philip Kinsley describing the experience met on a cross-country bus trip from Chicago to the Pacific coast.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—"You are now at the California border," the bus driver announced. "Everybody please step out."

It still was almost dark, the chill hour of dawn. The passengers, all except a baby asleep, were routed out of their uncomfortable but warm naps and herded upon an open platform where they shivered for 15 minutes while two officers went through their baggage. They were hunting for contraband plants and fruit, not for poor people.

When one has a bus ticket there is no police examination at the border. This is reserved for road travelers and hoboes, the "holy men" of our civilization. For a time some of these wanderers beat the Los Angeles police blockade by buying a 10 cent bus ticket across the border at Yuma, but police soon stopped this.

One Worried About Entry.

"So this is God's country," said a red nosed man in a thin coat, who had been imbibing cheerfulness from a bottle. "Well, folks, get your passports ready."

"I haven't much money—will they let me in?" quavered an old man.

"If I get pneumonia, who's going to pay for that?" asked a shivering little woman.

The officers searched diligently behind seats with flashlights. It was reported they had found one orange. A man in ragged clothes and a bundle was allowed to go through.

Seventy years ago, according to the report of an itinerant journalist, California welcomed everybody with open arms. Food was to be had for the asking at any house. The traveler complained because everybody wanted to hire him or sell him some land.

Simplicity Gone Forever.

This Eden-like simplicity has gone forever. The dusty little city of Los Angeles has grown into a seat of empire.

Aroused by this bath of cold air and official poking about, the passengers now found themselves watching the sunrise over the Imperial valley. They were in some sort of a land of milk and honey, wine and olives, a rich, flat, land.

The desert had blossomed during the night. Orchards, alfalfa fields, neat white houses, fine roads—it seemed a real paradise. The stars faded. The sun came into the bus like a giant headlight. A roadside sign gave the information that this was 50 feet below the level of the sea.

At El Centro, a breakfast stop, everything was bright and cheerful, clean and prosperous. The windows of the markets were filled with bargains—oranges, two dozen for 19 cents, grapefruit, three for 10 cents. Looking around the city, mountains loomed in the west, powdered with snow. There still was a barrier to cross to old California.

Beyond El Centro the green fields soon are left behind, as the irrigation district is only a patch in the valley as yet. Up through a wilderness of tumbled rocks and the now familiar desert plants. The skies darken ahead and flurries of snow are beating against the windows. A glance behind shows that all is serene and sunny below.

The pass winds up to 4,000 or 5,000 feet and then the west slope begins. There are cedars here and meadows with dairy ranches. At Alpine the world is informed that this is the "best climate in the United States, by government reports."

Sounds Like California.

This begins to sound like California. Pines and oaks appear, a cabin and resort country, and then La Mesa and broad highways, suburbs, and at last a glimpse of blue water and gray ships at anchor in San Diego bay.

The bus travelers separate here. Most of the folks go out to the exposition in Balboa park. This seems to be taking on a permanent character. Its Moorish castles are in a setting of surpassing loveliness. After the winter and the long desert stretches one walks in a semi-tropic garden, miles in extent, pine hillsides, palm grottoes, with bright blooms everywhere.

After a morning spent in looking at exhibits, Pa and Ma from Iowa decide to separate. Ma wants to go out to Ramona's home and maybe pick up something that doesn't cost too much for "Joe's folks." Pa thinks he will look around the exposition a little more. He is a little vague about it, but is definitly not interested in a sentimental journey to Ramona's place. He says he never read the book anyway.

Pa Goes to Nudist Lair.

Left alone, Pa finds himself by chance in front of a gate called the Zoro garden, where he is informed by a barker that this is the world's only nudist colony on public view and that 14 nationalities are to be seen inside "absolutely in the nude."

Pa enters the gate and finds himself walking down a wide stone stairway into a sort of sunken garden, guarded by tall, shaggy eucalyptus trees, bending in the ocean breeze. It is cool and most of the visitors have on wraps and fur coats. But there, in full view below, like visiting the bears at Brookfield zoo, are the nudists themselves.

They are seated cross-legged, or reclining on bear skins laid on the rocks. In deference to the weather they have built an open fire of wood chunks, but they do not huddle around it as if chilled. The queen, in fact, has taken a book and stretched out on a rock bench several feet from the fire. She seems much absorbed in the book, which is about all she wears. The book and her golden hair. The rest of her costume is what Sally Rand wore behind the fan. A beautiful, full-rigged venus she is, too.

Indifferent to Visitors.

There are four men and five girls on view. They appear quite unconscious of the visitors, for whom seats are provided in a small amphitheatre. It is an atmosphere of natural grace and beauty. Flowering shrubs and dark green bushes cover the hillside with a thick growth. There is something like a temple of stone, with mystic symbols, at one end of the garden. In the center is a flat space surrounded by a little lake. The lake is fed by a little stream that tumbles musically down the rocks.

One of the girls is white-skinned, but the others all are tanned a golden brown. The four men have long hair and whiskers, but they are young and lean and brown. They are playing medicine ball. Their costume consists of the gee-string, which is the national costume of the Igorrote tribesmen in Luzon. They do not represent "14 nationalities."

"All from Chicago, I guess," said one visitor, referring to the girls.

It's "A Philosophy of Life."

At intervals a little ceremony or ritual, is given. The queen gets up from her bench and disappears into the temple, to re-appear in a long white robe, followed by four handmaidens bearing flowers and an urn. The queen marches slowly to the center of the stage, is presented with the jar of water, and proceeds to scatter drops in four directions.

She explains that Zoro nudism is not a religion or a cult, "but a philosophy of life and health." Then her maidens unfasten her girdle and the robe falls away. They disappear sedately into the temple. The men seem to find nothing to do. The nudists all act somewhat bored with life, and the audience, which is a small group of men, soon gets bored, too.

At old San Diego, out by the old mission, Presidio hill, Congress hall and the Escondido ranch house where Ramona was married, California is said to begin. The early Spanish civilization is shown here, with its wooden ox carts, open-air ovens, and patio gardens open to the sun.

Where California Begins.

The black robed fathers who carried the cross along El Camino Real 200 years ago have left their mark. The sword followed, and now peace. California begins here, but it ends a thousand miles north, where white crowned Shasta reigns.

It would take years to explore its valleys and mountains. It runs from the Panamints to the Cascades.

What names here! The Twenty Nine Palm Springs, Old Dad mountain, Old Woman springs, Pinto creek, Furnace creek, Jackass meadows, Paradise valley, Mono lake, Muir pass.

Ghost towns of the Mother Lode country now coming to new life and gold. The great central valley, the fruit lands of the coast range, the Golden Gate, the redwood empire, CCC boys have just planted a redwood sapling at San Diego. Four thousand years from now it will look down upon a different scene.

English Seaport Scene.

Along El Camino Real the foot traveler comes to La Jolla, which looks like an English seaport village. Not an ugly spot in sight. It blends into the sea and the mountains, white homes perched on a flowered cliff over the dreaming waters. The long, lazy surf line is matched on the east by the snow line of the mountains.

Highway scars are quickly covered with carpets of lupin and creeping white and purple flowers. Morning glories along the roadside and meadows spotted with buttercups and daisies. The lark's song mingles with the shrill cry of the sea birds. Big cruising herons or cranes soar close to the waves. Sand runners twinkle by. Lizards come out to blink at the sun.

This landscape, especially along the Torrey pines, is melodious and fragrant with eternal spring. Towns of white plastered cottages with red roofs. Beach camps nestling under cliffs. The road winds, climbs and disappears. The sun's rays are tempered by the ocean breezes.

Quake Traces Are Gone.

Long Beach, a sprawling city of 150,000, has removed all traces of its earthquake. The only sign of it is the many new buildings downtown. The old Breakers hotel still remains closed. Beach life here is as gay as ever. The fleet is in harbor and sailors roam the streets looking for adventure.

Eastward toward Los Angeles on the open country road. A forest of oil derricks in the distance. Irrigated patches tended by Japanese. Alkali patches and some clearing of old madrone woods, along singing lanes and meadows. A dairy country with loads of fresh alfalfa going to market. This is the model T country, with many ancient vehicles ambling along. Barns with Chew Mail Pouch signs. A girl at a roadside stand says she has never been to Los Angeles but once in her life. She probably is in it now and does not know it.

Bungalows, Chicken Ranches.

Bungalow farms, with chicken ranches in back. Blue pottery, palms, orange trees, lily gardens, old cedars, and spreading pepper trees. Many from Iowa have set up nice chicken ranches, but feed is expensive and there are too many eggs. At least they have this sun to bask in and a mountain to look at.

"What is the name of this place?" a country storekeeper was asked.

"Derned if I know," he said. "Used to be called Caponhurst. Not much money in the chicken business unless you have a lot of them and have luck. Frost got the grapes last night, too."

A farmer next door is mournfully walking down his blackened grape rows.

Farms for $495.

Nevertheless, small farms are advertised here at $495, with 100 frontage on the highway. And there is the chance that oil will be struck some day. The pennants still are flying bravely over the real estate offices. Yoshioka, Campbell, Dougherty, are names on rural delivery boxes here.

A little farther on and the traveler reaches the Los Angeles rail head. The Midnite café, the Hot Spot restaurant. The only sign of pioneers here is the name on a boulevard. The inevitable blonde is dispensing beer, persiflage, and looks in the café. The inevitable jaz orchestra is coming in over the radio. This must be civilization again. There is no use in writing about Los Angeles and Hollywood. Everybody knows about them.

A Glance Backward.

This trip began on a bus out of Chicago, where a blonde talked all night on the way to St. Louis. By some strange fate it ends on the same note. The young man in sleek black hair says he is not going to work any more for a week. The fat, red faced man at a table drools away about nothing and tries to hold the blonde's hand whenever she comes near.

The conclusion is that the world is much alike, and that the only escape from blondes and atrocious music is to go out on the open road, or to sit down in a meadow with the cows and the larks. They never talk nor weep. It is very pleasant there.

'PROPHET OF GOD' INTERRUPTS U. S. HOUSE; IS OUSTED

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—House proceedings were interrupted today when H. G. Franklin, self-styled "prophet of God" from Sugar Run, Pa., stood up in the gallery to read the message which he sought last session to carry down the center aile.

Just as Chairman Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the agriculture committee finished a speech on farm credit Franklin stood in a gallery aile on the far side of the chamber and started reading from a typewritten sheet. It was headed:

"Writ, or Summons, or Warant of Law Decreed by Nature to Be Served on the Government of the United States of America."

Attendants quickly escorted him from the gallery, and a capitol policeman took him out of the building.

60 FLEE HOMES AS FLOOD WATERS RISE AT METROPOLIS, ILL.

Metropolis, Ill., April 2.—[Special.]—More than 60 residents fled their homes and sought refuge in box cars today as muddy flood waters of the Ohio river rolled over West 1st street here. With the water already two and three feet deep, Mayor Kenneth L. Jones said he expected the street would be covered to a depth of five feet by Saturday.

Elsewhere in southern Illinois the overflow from the stream continued to spread out over the bottom lands. Crests of 48 feet for Shawneetown and 47 feet for Golconda are expected by Saturday. Brookport expected a crest of 49.5 feet.

The Mississippi river continued to rise in the vicinity of its confluence with the Ohio, forcing families to move from their homes along the levees. It was expected about 1,000 persons will have moved to higher ground in the Caruthersville, Mo., area by Sunday afternoon when it was predicted the big stream will reach its crest there.

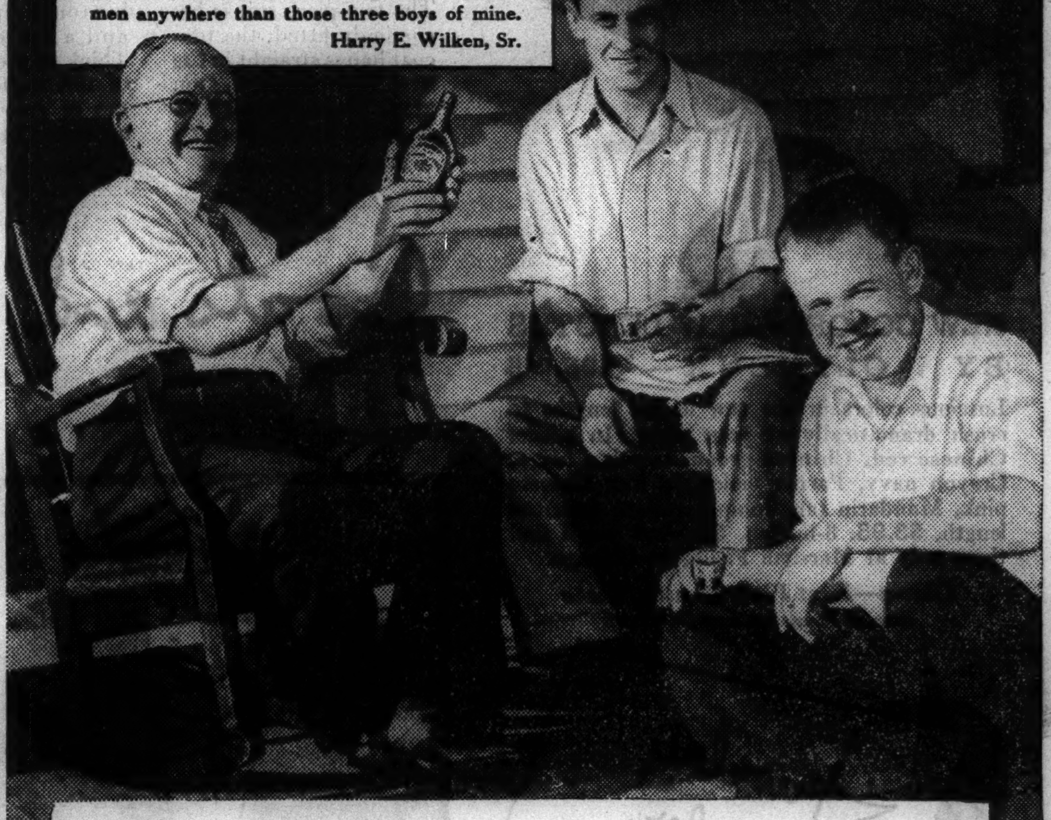
It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

Here you get a fair idea of 3 of us Wilkens

I'm sorry my son Harry Jr. didn't get into this picture, but anyhow here's myself holding up our Family's Whiskey to the camera and laughing—and my son William alongside of me. My son-in-law Tom is the boy on the piazza stairs. Maybe it's not right coming from me, but all I've got to say is I don't know of any better whiskey men anywhere than those three boys of mine.

Harry E. Wilken, Sr.



You never could have got a Family's Whiskey so tasty

—if it wasn't for my dad starting us Wilkens distilling way back in '92

I don't know as there's another family anywhere so lucky as us Wilkens—that is to say a whole family of whiskey making people that's had the chance to work out their own family's whiskey recipe like we have.

This here Family's Whiskey of ours has got everything that three whole generations of us Wilkens have learned concerning ways of making whiskey with a genuine mildness and tastiness to it! And here's one thing sure. There isn't one bottle going off my place here but what it's got every bit of the quality to it that we distillers are enjoying ourselves. I'd sooner quit making whiskey forever than to slack up on the care we all take to make our Family's Whiskey something that'll do us proud, and make you glad you bought it!

SENATORS DODGE SUPPORT OF AAA PUBLICITY PLAN

Vandenberg Will Press for Resolution.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—The senate agriculture committee probably will decline any responsibility for the resolution Senator Arthur Vandenberg introduced some time ago directing the secretary of agriculture to furnish to the senate a list of the names of persons or corporations that have collected $10,000 or more in benefits under the agricultural adjustment act, Chairman Smith indicated today.

Mr. Smith said that he favors the publication of such a list, but added that there is some difference of opinion among the members of his committee. He has summoned a meeting of the committee for Saturday, when he expects it to report the proposal back to the senate without recommendations.

Plan Suits Vandenberg.

Under those circumstances it would be placed on the table subject to call by Mr. Vandenberg. He could get it before the senate during a morning hour, for example, or he could ask unanimous consent for its consideration at almost any time.

The Michigan senator said that this procedure would suit him perfectly.

"The resolution will pass itself," Mr. Vandenberg said. "The longer they wait the more curiosity will be awakened in the country.

"I am already receiving innumerable letters about it, some of them very funny. Some of them read like this:

"'Dear Senator: Please find out what Joe Brown has been receiving for that lower forty. I have been suspicious of him for two years.'"

Opposed by Wallace.

He was asked about the objection Secretary Wallace made at his press conference yesterday, that the publication of such a list would constitute a handbook for gangsters and that some rich farmer would see his daughter kidnaped.

"If the farmer who made that $298,000 for not planting so many thousand acres in cotton has a daughter," Mr. Vandenberg replied, "she must be a girl without a soul. That farmer was a corporation."

The Republican national committee took up the fight for the Vandenberg resolution in a statement made public tonight.

"No one is questioning the right of the farmers to the checks Secretary Wallace is delivering," it said. "The money is being paid out per government contracts. But it's public money and, consequently, a matter of public concern.

"Mr. Wallace is a public servant, and yet he is treating the Vandenberg request as though his cabinet post gave him dictatorial powers."

Trained Lion Ready to Entertain Circus Crowds

Two pictures of Menelik, trained African lion named after Ethiopian chieftain, which will be one of attractions at Chicago Stadium on April 11 when the Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty circus opens three weeks' run. Menelik is said to be the only lion which rears on haunches while facing trainer. It jumps through hoop and performs other tricks.

POLICE QUESTION FOUR ON GUN IN MORRISON CASE

Ownership at Time of Crime Admitted.

Four Negroes, all under arrest at the Des Plaines street station, were questioned yesterday concerning possession of a pistol which ballistics experts said might have been used in the murder last August of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controler of the Chicago park district. Morrison was found shot to death in his automobile, which was parked in front of 628 Alaska street.

Ernest Walker Jr., one of those held, admitted that the pistol was owned by him and his father at the time of the Morrison death. He denied that he had used it in any stickups or that he knew anything about the killing. Another man held is Eugene Wallace, 4726 South Dearborn street, an ex-convict, who declared that he purchased it from the Walkers in February.

Wallace, James Hartfield, and Clarence Bradley, also prisoners, were held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of murder on recommendation of a coroner's jury.

The three have confessed killing William B. Tichenor, 45 South boulevard, Oak Park, in a holdup March 8.

Two other Negroes are also being held as members of the Wallace robbery gang, but the police were satisfied they had nothing to do with either the Morrison or the Tichenor killings.

LUKE LEA GIVEN PAROLE; STAYS TO END PRISON JOB

Raleigh, N. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Col. Luke Lea, former Tennessee senator, publisher, and banker, was released on parole from the North Carolina state prison today after serving nearly two years of a six to ten years' sentence for violation of the banking laws.

Lea, a model prisoner, delayed his departure an hour after his parole became effective in order to complete a report of last month's activities in the prison hospital, where he was an assistant.

"I am sorry to leave you," he told Warden H. H. Honeycutt as they shook hands. The warden replied: "I hate to see you go. You must come back sometime, anytime you can."

PASTOR IN COURT TO SAVE HIS JOB FROM TRUSTEES

An injunction to restrain two trustees of the Second Baptist church of Maywood, a colored congregation, from holding a meeting tonight in the church, 1309 Washington boulevard, was sought yesterday in Circuit court by the Rev. Jesse W. Coleman, pastor, and three trustees. Their petition states that $2,053 in salary and expenses is due the Rev. Mr. Coleman and that the defendants, Clyde F. Swanson and Robert Graham, voted to accept his unoffered resignation in violation of the rules in the "New Directory of the Baptist Church."

FIND N. YORKER'S BODY FLOATING IN BERMUDA SOUND

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 2.—The body of William G. Roehrich, secretary of the Oxford University Press in New York, was found last night floating in a lagoon in Harrington sound. The feet were tied together with a fishing line.

Roehrich arrived with his wife, Josephine, aboard the Munson liner American Legion on March 30 to spend a few days here following a nervous breakdown. Last night, after dinner, Roehrich told his wife he was going for a walk and declined her offer to accompany him. When he failed to return police were notified and they started a search. Coroner S. S. Toddings will hold an inquest tomorrow morning.

Roehrich, who was 55 years old, had been with the Oxford University Press since July 20, 1896, having started as an office boy. He was keenly interested in amateur sport and was an accomplished tennis player.

PRINCESS LAYS MORO FIGHT IN PHILIPPINES TO ARMY SERVICE ROW

MANILA, April 2.—(AP)—The Moro princess, Oliama Malawani, charged today that the battle between Moros and Philippine constabulary on Mindanao Island Tuesday resulted from persistent threats by army officers to jail Moros if they refused to register for military training.

The princess said ten Moros were killed in the Lanao province battle, including her sister, Cota, and three aunts. She denied the Moros involved were cattle rustlers.

TWO CONVICTED A SECOND TIME FOR AUTO THEFT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Felix Stamm, rape, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Denis J. Normoyle.

Nathan Kodnar, 43 years old, and Samuel Rubin, 29 years old, former owners of the Blue Mound Automobile Bankers' company in Milwaukee, were found guilty by a jury in the Cook County Criminal court for a second time last evening on charges of automobile theft.

On March 23 the two were sentenced to from one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe after the state presented evidence that they paid a ring of thieves to steal an automobile. When they appealed this conviction to the Illinois Supreme court Kodnar and Rubin were placed on trial again before Judge Lewe on a second indictment, charging theft of another automobile.

The second conviction also carries a sentence of from one to twenty years in prison, but Judge Lewe deferred sentence until Monday, when he will hear arguments on a motion for a new trial.

HILDING JOHNSON PAYS $2,000 TO MEET SHORTAGE

An order for the arrest of J. Hilding Johnson, former president of the Belmont-Sheffield State bank, was vacated yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Superior court when Johnson made a surprise appearance in court and deposited $2,000 to pay shortages that may develop in his accounts as manager for the trustee of the Belmont-Sheffield building. The warant was issued by Judge Steffen on March 2 when Johnson's attorney, William B. Gemmill, told the court Johnson could not be found to explain his accounts.

Gemmill said yesterday that Johnson had gone to Sweden on Feb. 23 in an effort to raise money. An audit of the account ordered by the court indicated that Johnson may be $12,000 short. Johnson said he had no idea who got the money but that he would make good any shortages that may be developed at a hearing next Tuesday.

Johnson said his son Allen, who assisted him in managing the property and for whom a subpena was issued in March, had not been in his home at 1630 Jarvis avenue in six weeks.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

April 2, 1936.

SUNNY days during the latter part of last week and the first part of this week dried the ground so that the gardeners were able to plow and spade the high and dry spots in the vegetable and flower garden at the Tribune Wheaton experimental farm. Before the snow fell yesterday and today a few of the earliest crops were planted in the open garden.

Flowers started in the open this week included sweet peas and nicotiana affinis seeds and gladiolus bulbs.

Gladioli Go in Early.

The gardeners followed their rule of setting the gladiolus bulbs as soon as the ground was dry enough. They covered the bulbs with a six inch layer of dirt. By covering the bulbs to a depth of half a foot, experience on the farm has shown, there is no danger of the plants being injured by late freezes. Tender flowers are not safe from the last killing frost in this region until after May 20.

Another practice that has stood the test on the farm is to set out the smallest gladiolus bulbs first and hold the larger bulbs to be set out later in the season. Small bulbs set out late have failed to make a satisfactory showing, while the larger bulbs, even when set out fairly late in the season, produced good blossoms.

The head gardener finds that nicotiana affinis seeds are hardy enough to live in the open garden over winter, so that they may be safely seeded as early as the ground is dry enough to work. They find that sweet peas may be safely planted in the outdoor garden as soon as the ground is dry.

Peas, Celery Started.

Peas were planted in the open vegetable garden this week. Experience has taught gardeners at the farm that peas should be planted as early as possible in the spring. They require cool weather. Celery started early in the greenhouse was transplanted this week. The plants were transferred to flats and set one inch apart. The celery plants will be kept in the greenhouse until they can be safely transplanted outdoors.

Privet hedges severely injured by rabbits and field mice at the Wheaton farm during the winter are being cut back level with the ground this week. The plants are being promptly fertilized after pruning to encourage quick growth this season.

Asparagus Beds Worked.

Asparagus beds also are being worked this week. The beds were covered with well rotted manure to protect them during the winter, and now this rich material is being worked into the surface of the soil around the plants. In addition the beds will be given a dressing of a complete fertilizer mixture. The gardeners say that asparagus plants are heavy feeders, requiring large quantities of nitrogen, which they get from stable manure and from the complete fertilizer. Asparagus plants require a sweet soil. Lime is used to counteract the acid condition of the soil.

Patching bare spots on the greenswards at the Wheaton farm is another early spring job on the gardeners' work schedule this week. When the grass is dry and the soil is workable the lawn is patched by applying complete fertilizer first and then reseeding with the same kind of seed mixture as was used originally.

Does the end of the season find you— in a condition of lowered general resistance?

These first weeks of early spring are a bad time for common ills. So many people are affected!

One reason is that during the past months of rigorous winter, of hard work, of too little exercise and sunshine, you've probably been using up your reserve forces. At the end of winter your general resistance may be low.

That's why it's so important, during this "in-between" season, to use measures for increasing your general resistance.

Adex offers you an easy, pleasant aid. With every Adex tablet or capsule, you get the protective benefits of Vitamin A, which helps to increase your general resistance. Adex also provides Vitamin D, which you should get from a special source beside sunshine at this trying season.

Each Adex capsule will provide you with not less than 6,600 units of Vitamin A, 1,320 units of Vitamin D. In both capsules and tablets, natural sources of the vitamins are used.

Take Adex routinely every day. That's how to benefit most. You can get it at any reliable drug store. Prepared exclusively by E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists to the medical profession since 1858.

These ten States are the backbone of the New Deal. Among their twenty Senators are the key men of the New Deal in Congress, the directors of the vital legislation affecting the people of this country. They legislate on the money, the wages and the property of the people of Iowa, of the people of California, of North Carolina, of Maryland, of Wisconsin, of Missouri, of Virginia, of New York, of Texas, of Indiana, of Kentucky, of Pennsylvania, of Kansas, of Illinois, etc., etc., etc.

And yet:

The sum of $3,299,435,572 was paid in one year by the people of the United States in internal revenue and A.A.A. taxes:

The sum of $1,360,330,185 was paid out in one year in direct relief by the New Deal Administration:

$1,939,105,387 is the sum left after direct relief.

Of this $1,939,105,387, these ten New Deal States paid not one cent!

INSTEAD

They added $52,400,000 to the burdens of other States.

NEW DEAL'S TAX PLAN GETS O. K. OF COMMUNISTS

Trade Leaders Warn of Perils at Hearing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—The New Deal's proposed punitive tax on undivided surpluses of corporations received the indorsement tonight of the communist party.

Announcement that the Red group was for the new levy was made by Communist Max Bedacht of New York City before a night session of the house ways and means committee. The communist approval was the most wholehearted support for the revolutionary tax program during the last four days of the hearing.

"Of course, we are in favor of this tax," asserted Bedacht, a short, stockily built man with graying hair.

Back a New Dealer's Stand.

Bedacht also said that the communists were in harmony with the statements made by a New Dealer, Robert Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, in testifying before a senate committee in connection with loopholes in the income tax system.

Questions from Democrats on the committee, notably Representative Fred M. Vinson [Dem., Ky.], failed to shake Bedacht's testimony. His speech also bristled with attacks on such New Deal foes as Mellon, the du Ponts, Morgan, and Ford.

The communist stand on the tax bill was diametrically opposed to the position taken earlier at the hearing when Franklin W. Fort, president of the Lincoln National bank of Newark, N. J., declared that the program was "a direct attack on capitalism and thrift."

Sees Peril to Industry.

"The plan will utterly destroy the future of any growing industry," Fort charged.

Another critic of the tax program tonight was G. L. Walters, secretary and treasurer of the Adams and Westlake company of Chicago, and chairman of the tax committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

"We believe that if this proposal were enacted," asserted Walters, "it would adversely affect every one of the tens of millions of citizens of this country who are dependent upon the financial soundness of business corporations."

The plan was also attacked at the night session by David B. Cassat of Dubuque, Ia., president of the American Finance conference, representing 325 independent automobile financing companies.

The tax was characterized as a "completely unsound" plan that would "penalize group thrift and cause many bankruptcies" by Noel Sargent, secretary of the National Association of Manufacturers.

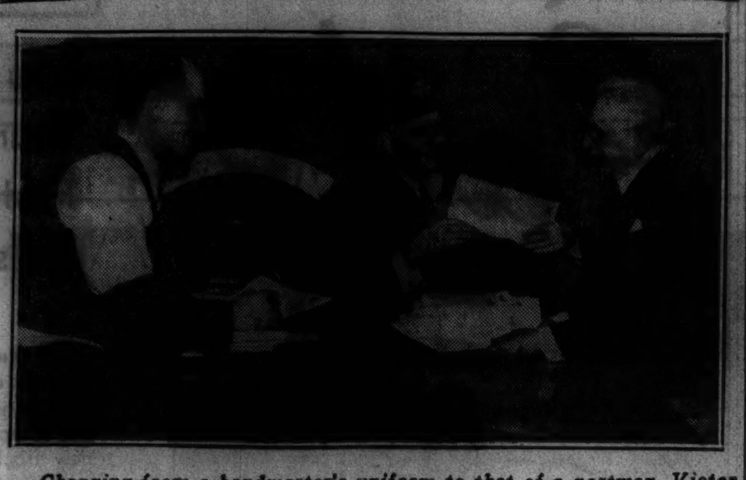
Living Standard Cited.

"The difficulty," Sargent declared, "is that it would take the wealth of those who need it to build up new enterprises of the type that have given our nation the highest wages and the highest standard of living in the world."

Pointing out the American method of plowing back earnings to build up an industry, Sargent said that in 1936, for example, 79 per cent of the tangible invested assets of eight leading automobile companies came from reinvestment out of the surpluses of the corporations themselves. The most striking instance was the Ford Motor company which started with $40,000 capital and increased the value to 694 million dollars by plowing the profits back.

"I imagine that no member of this committee believes that if these undistributed profits had been heavily taxed because of nondistribution as dividends," said Sargent, "that the automobile industry, one of our employment mainstays through the depression, would have grown to the extent it has."

Mail Last Festival Invitations



Changing from a bandmaster's uniform to that of a postman, Victor Grabel, general musical director of The Chicago Tribune's annual Chicagoland Music Festival, yesterday mailed at the new postoffice the last 100 of nearly 5,000 invitations to choruses and drum corps throughout the United States. He was assisted by Ernest J. Kruetgen, postmaster of Chicago, who is a music lover and has attended all six festivals held in Soldiers' field. Left to right: Edward Krueger, receiving clerk; Mr. Grabel, and Postmaster Kruetgen. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Includes New Events

The last hundred of nearly 5,000 invitations asking bands, choruses, and drum corps throughout America to participate in the 1936 Chicagoland Music Festival were mailed yesterday by Victor Grabel, general musical director of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's annual music show to be held the night of Aug. 15 in Soldiers' field.

A feature of the festival will be finals in several competitions which will be judged jointly by an expected audience of 100,000 and a board of prominent musicians.

The festival brochure gives details of the many contests planned, including five new events for cornet, violin, harmonica, yodeling, and composers of music. Already more than 10 large organizations have entered the 1936 festival and for the first time a band is contemplating coming here from Florida.

Twenty-five pamphlets were flown to New York yesterday for distribution to directors of the music supervisors' national conference being held there. Noble Cain, conductor of the Chicago A Cappella choir and the festival choral director, and Fred Miller, chairman of the drum corps contest and field event supervisor, are attending the New York meeting.

Additional brochures may be obtained by writing to the festival headquarters, room 1418 in Tribune Tower.

Two Held to Grand Jury for Rape of Young Girls

Harold Blasius, 37 years old, of Waukegan, and Frank E. Bates, 28 years old, 1765 North Wells street, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court yesterday on charges of rape filed by juvenile authorities in behalf of two sisters, 13 and 15 years old, of Chemung, McHenry county. Blasius lured the girls into his automobile, it was charged, introduced Bates to them, and then installed them in an apartment at 9132 South Chicago avenue.

DEATH DEFEATS DOG'S DASH TO SAVE TRAPPER

STONECLIFFE, Ont., April 2.—(AP)—Carrying out the last command of his master, a dog, tired from breaking through six miles of heavy bush, trotted into this settlement with a distress sign—a mitten—from Lawrence Larochelle, 25 year old trapper.

The faithful dog had done his best to reach the village in time to summon aid to save his master. When help arrived at the trapper's lonely cabin, Larochelle had been dead more than a day from two gunshot wounds. A rifle lay across his chest.

Somebody recognized the dog yesterday when it came to the settlement, 125 miles northwest of Ottawa, with the mitten tied around his neck. A party was formed and hurried to the cabin. It was believed the youth accidentally shot himself and tried to seek aid by sending the dog to the village. When help did not arrive in a few hours, it was believed Larochelle ended his intense pain with another shot.

King Edward of England to Be Crowned in May, 1937

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—Prime Minister Baldwin announced to the house of commons today that King Edward will be crowned in May, 1937. He said the exact date for the coronation ceremonies would be announced later.

APRIL 16 DATE SET FOR ARRAIGNMENT OF MRS. COOPER HEWITT

San Francisco, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Superior Judge George J. Steiger today set April 16 for arraignment of Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, charged with mayhem in connection with the sterilization of her 21 year old daughter, Ann Hewitt.

Assistant District Attorney August L. Fourtner told Judge Steiger that if Mrs. Hewitt, reported seriously ill at a Jersey City, N. J., hospital, is not represented by counsel at the arraignment he may go to Jersey City to arrange personally for her extradition.

Mrs. Hewitt faces two counts of mayhem and one of conspiracy to commit mayhem. Two physicians who allegedly performed the sterilization, Drs. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd, face similar charges.

Indictments were voted after Miss Hewitt filed suit for $500,000 damages against her mother and the two physicians, alleging Mrs. Hewitt had the operation performed so she could benefit from the estate of her former husband, Peter Cooper Hewitt, electrical inventor.

COLLECTOR ROBBED OF $156.

Two colored youths robbed Louis Weiss, 1231 Greenleaf avenue, an insurance collector, of $156 as he was leaving the building at 4124 Vincennes avenue last night.

LAWYER QUIZZED IN PROBE OF FAKE ACCIDENT CLAIMS

The grand jury subjected Lou Nathanson, attorney at 105 West Madison street, to a forty minute questioning yesterday in its investigation of an attempted plot to collect damages from a taxicab company by the staging of faked accidents. Three men and a woman have been indicted on conspiracy and confidence game charges in the case.

Nathanson is a brother-in-law of Julian Lewis, 3638 Douglas boulevard, called by prosecutors the leader in the fraud and one of those indicted. Nathanson filed with the cab company an attorney's lien as representative of Lewis and the others in the accidents the grand jury found to be faked.

When Nathanson left the grand jury room after appearing at the jury's request, he held a handkerchief to reddened eyes.

Easter

Launches You and Your Wardrobe on a Festive Round That Calls for New Frocks

Is your wardrobe beginning to droop a bit after this long winter? There's nothing quite so effective in perking it up as a new frock—unless it's two new frocks. The styles featured here are important fashions that will make a smart showing in the Easter parade, and at the festivities that follow.

Coat in small sketch (shown below)—an unlined swagger to wear over any frock to complete an ensemble. Navy, black, brown, violet, green, gray, raspberry. 12 to 20. At $7.95.

Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

Adapted from French Originals

After Molyneux—this frock with the new longer bolero and the lively polka dot sash. The collar, too, is gay with polka dots. The peaked shoulders are a typical Molyneux feature. It comes in navy or black sheer. In misses' sizes. $39.75.

After Chanel — the frock with the long reefer coat, which relies on perfection of line for its stunning effect. The white pique accents are an added note of chic. The frock is short-sleeved. In navy or black sheer. Misses' sizes. $29.75.

Better Frocks, Fourth Floor.

Fitted Jackets on Misses' Suit Frocks

Sheer crepe and lace combine for a dressy effect in this young suit frock. It shows "Gay 90's" influence in the full shoulders. And the chic little upstanding collar. In gray, navy, violet, toast. Sizes from 12 to 20. $16.95.

A dressy dress under a rather tailored jacket. The dress has cap sleeves and a round neck, scalloped and hand-fagoted. The jacket is pique trimmed and has padded shoulders. Stahli's "Always" sheer crepe in navy, gray, aqua, rose, violet. 12 to 20. $16.95.

Misses' Moderately Priced Frocks, Fourth Floor.

Hard Winter Delays New Home Plans

Suburban Structures Not Ready for Occupancy.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE unwonted severity of the last winter, and the continued inclement weather, have spoiled the plans of several families who had hoped to move into new homes early this summer. In Lake Forest, Winnetka, Wayne, and in a new territory due west of Winnetka, at Sunset Ridge and Willow roads, where several young married people have purchased property, there is heard the same tale of postponement and delay.

Not every one is as unhappy over the retarding of construction plans as are Mr. and Mrs. Willett N. Gorham, whose lease on their present home in Glenview expires May 1, and whose own new home now being built in the Sunset Ridge district will not be completed until June or later. Mr. and Mrs. Gorham will be forced to find temporary lodging during those intervening weeks because their present house has been rented by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn A. Williams Jr. and the Horton Conrads have property near that of the Gorhams on which they intend to build in the future. Mr. and Mrs. Gorham's new house is of the New England farmhouse type, white and shuttered and unpretentious, but charming and comfortable. Mr. and Mrs. Williams are hoping to start construction on their property in June. Like the Gorham property, that of Mr. and Mrs. Williams is partly rolling fields and partly wooded. The Conrads have not made definite plans for building, but within the next few weeks they may decide what to do. Young Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. English [Harriet Tilden] are others who have property in this district, but they have no plans at all for building now, nor will they have for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Fetzer Jr. [Florence Otis] have taken a house near the Gorhams, into which they are moving the third week of this month.

Ashcraft Home Ready in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr. are looking forward to the end of June when a house they are having built in Wayne will be completed. The house is quite small, and will be used more as a week-end cottage by the large Ashcraft family. Their daughter and son-in-law, the Raymond Otis Mitchells [Ann Ashcraft] spent last summer in Wayne, and on the many occasions that the Ashcrafts went out to see them they fell quite in love with this little western community.

Mr. and Mrs. Talcott Griswold hope to start building this month on some property adjoining that of his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, on Hill road in Winnetka. The Griswolds want a house of Georgian whitewashed brick, but they are not certain whether this is the type of house they will be able to have. Mr. and Mrs. Griswold are going out to Winnetka in June to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, and they hope to be able to move into the new house in November.

By summer the R. Hampton Ripleys hope to be able to occupy their new house, which is being built on his mother's property in Indian Hill. The junior John Nash Otts, who have a house under construction, also in Indian Hill, are looking forward to moving in at about the same time.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat Jr. recently moved from Glencoe to a house in Highland Park, near Ravinia, which they have remodeled. The building that they selected was rather barnlike at first, but with a little imagination, and a good deal of hard work, they have made it over into a charming home.

The Conway H. Olmsteds hope that this will be the last summer they will spend in a rented house, for they are starting to build in June on some property overlooking the lake in Lake Bluff. The Olmsteds want a house of whitewashed brick, of no particular type, and they will move out to Lake Forest this summer to keep an eye on their future home while it is under construction. Undoubtedly the architects' plans include space for kennels since Mr. Olmsted is one of Chicago's keenest dog fanciers.

Chicago Kennel Club Show Opens Today.

Mr. Olmsted is more interested just now in the Chicago Kennel club's 25th annual all-breed show than he is in house building. The show is being held at the Coliseum today, tomorrow, and Sunday. He will show eight bulldogs and one dachshund, which is, however, entered in Mrs. Olmsted's name. Mrs. Olmsted's brother, Hulburd Johnston, will show two dachshunds.

The kennel club show promises to be even more interesting than usual.

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

From a Chicago collection. Natural colored peasant linen makes a smart long coat showing the newest in short full sleeves ending at the elbow. Under it, a printed dark blue silk dress patterned in beige that accents the color of the coat. Dark blue accessories, and a veiled blue straw hat trimmed with rose color ostrich curls, and a rose coral flowered clip in the coat lapel complete the costume. The complete ensemble is available in a Chicago shop.

Color Photos Include Noted Beach Outfit

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

If you want to see what the smart mermaid of 1936 will wear at the fashionable resorts and watering places, turn to the rotogravure section of next Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE. There, in stunning natural colors, will be reproduced one of the most exciting beach costumes modeled at the recent showings in the famous Paris salons.

It's a creation by the much discussed Alix, whose fashion house is visited by the most discriminating women of Europe and also of this continent. Turquoise blue and Chinese vermilion Shantung are used for the dress. The Watteau back gives a windblown line from the shoulder blades.

The costume is only one of a half dozen new modes to be portrayed Sunday. Two pages conclude a series of exclusive photographs made by Scaloni at the spring and summer openings of Paris' celebrated couturiers.

For years Paris has been a world capital for fashion and beauty, but few Americans have been privileged to sit in at the autumn and spring revues when glamorous mannequins parade the most entrancing there is in style. Through this series of color fashion plates and those of past months THE TRIBUNE has brought the best of the Paris fashion showings to the homes of thousands of American women. The pictures have elicited the enthusiastic praise of the country's finest photographers.

Schiaparelli designed another of the costumes to be presented on Sunday. He has applied the blue of the summer sky to sheer linen to make a delectable two piece sports frock. The basque blouse buttons up on flower encrusted buttons and the cuffs on the puffed sleeves are patterned with the same flowers. As accessories for this dress Schiaparelli shows pink antelope gloves and a wide brimmed pink hat.

Another daytime outfit to be presented to TRIBUNE readers on Sunday indicates that quaint sprigged challis, beloved of the belles of 1860, is doing a star turn in Paris spring styles. Mainbocher, the Paris designer who was born in Chicago, makes the dashing coat and basque blouse of the challis in real turkey red sprigged with brilliant flowers. The black wool skirt is straight line. A dashing black sailor of shiny straw and black antelope gloves complete the ensemble.

Formal gowns are portrayed on the second Sunday page. One from the salon of Jean Patou bears testimony to the fact that Paris is keeping the lilacs in bloom this spring. It's a glamorous creation with the skirt fashioned of lilac organdy petals. The slender lilac organdy blouse has loop and petal caps over the shoulder and two deep red roses nestle close at the waist.

Don't miss these photographs. They will be presented on Sunday in the rotogravure section of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Shades of Red Make Bid for Fashion Fame

Old Blues Win Place as Attention Getters.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Color enthusiasts are having a wild time . . . raspberry shades are hastily grabbed by large and small. The color rates high in flattery and feminine allure with coppertops, with brunettes, and it's marvelous on golden blondes.

Long coats of this crushed raspberry tint are unexpectedly slick contrasts for printed silk crêpe dresses, especially if the print has a black background with plenty of black showing and the wee piquant patterns are spots of raspberry. And this delectable color in two piece suits is going to make the gray collectors falter in their allegiance.

By the time summer slides into place the town and countryside will have a rosy glow because of the many costumes and ensembles of this luscious red. With dull white accessories, with pale green accessories, and with a clear yellow or violet color as a pickup you'll get some of the best eye turners of your career.

But a color combine slightly less eye filling but just as smoothly smart is the duet of old blue with beige or natural linen color . . . a deep blue dress either of sheer wool or silk crêpe worn under a beige colored coat, the coat of heavy silk with the wool, and of rough peasant looking linen when you combine with a silk dress.

Or you'll like the small patterned silk dress of blue with designs of beige or linen color, then the short sleeved long coat of linen. We photographed such a combine in the fashion photograph today, and if this doesn't take the eye and fancy of discriminating shoppers we've missed a snooping trick this time.

For color contrast there is the coral rose flower clip that accents the left lapel and the soft, very French looking small hat with a half dozen soft curls of ostrich in the same rose coral against the deep blue straw of the demurely brimmed hat. These become twice as exciting because of the long, very wide meshed veil hanging like a curtain over the face. Blue gloves and woven lether blue bag complete the costume. Those wide, loose short sleeves of the coat are the newest things in town. The dress is of printed soft silk in deep blue and linen color. All accessories and dress as well as coat are available in a Chicago shop.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

WHEN Helen Hughes Dulany, in San Francisco last week to talk on industrial designing at the San Francisco Art museum, saw the $72,000,000 bridge being built across San Francisco bay to the island she commented to some friends that, handsome as it was, she would have preferred a tunnel of aquamarine glass. Then she forgot about the new bridge and her statement until, just before she caught a plane for Chicago, a San Francisco friend handed her a copy of a San Francisco paper dated March 31, 1936. There she read, in staring black headlines, "HALT BAY BRIDGE," cries Helen Hughes Dulany, "BUILD TUBE INSTEAD." Startled, Mrs. Dulany saw a two column cut of herself and read a four column interview, which outlined her plan for an aquamarine glass tunnel, and went on to other subjects.

"As the commuters whirled by they would be seeing the fish and the fish would be seeing them," said the gentle spoofing article. "A few minutes spent by a hundred thousand commuters a day studying the animal life in their gay fantastic colors would be a source of mutual diversion and relaxation."

Just as she stepped into the plane Mrs. Dulany learned that a friend, Leon Leibes, had bought an edition of the paper, and had the fake interview inserted and run off.

FIVE youngsters, none more than 5 years old, taxied onto the field at the Chicago airport last Sunday afternoon in a beautiful little ship with the father, probably, of one of them piloting. The small sophisticates were reading the funnies as they waited for the ship to take off. Probably thrilled over the adventures of Orphan Annie, who never has traveled in an airplane in her life [Right, Mr. Gray?] The children never looked up from the paper, according to a girl named Margaret Noble, who was in the next plane to circle the field.

Stock Concert Adds Converts to Hindemith

Opinions About Composer Need Revision.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last night's concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, unexciting enough in prospect because of its lack of the extra color that a soloist always gives, turned out to be one of the most stimulating of the season. Frederick Stock worked the trick by means of his own gift for program building and the dazzling virtuosity of his forces. The feature of the evening was an important work by Paul Hindemith never before heard in this city.

The three finely wrought episodes united under the title "Matthias the Painter," and classifying as a symphony in a loose sense of the term, displayed the genius of this much publicized contemporary in a fashion calculated to bring about a wholesale revision of current opinions of him.

The widespread belief that Hindemith is cold and mathematical, and that his thematic material, as well as the whole structure of his music, is based on abstruse computations that have more to do with the quantum theory and the square root of minus one than the any universally recognized esthetic ideas, received a reproof last night in the shape of three imaginative movements which obeyed at least one of the major canons of art—that of suitability of medium to subject.

The most vivid example in "Matthias the Painter" is the deft use of polytonality to depict struggle. The idea is so obvious and so pat that it should have been thought of fifteen minutes after the art of music was invented, or as soon as the modern idea of key became fixed, at least.

In the last section of the symphony, "The Temptation of Saint Anthony," the conflict between the will to good and the outward pull or pleasure is so perfectly embodied in Hindemith's raging cauldron of tonalities that one recalls with something akin to pity the countless attempts in music's past to express similar ideas within the

SOUTHERN CROPS HERALD SPRING IN MARKETS HERE

Influx Expected to Trim Prices Soon.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Despite the heavy snowstorm that left the city with all the marks of winter, a note of spring dominated the central fruit and vegetable markets yesterday. From melon patches and gardens of the south the first of the season's cantaloupes, yellow Bermuda and wax onions, and other early crops arrived in Chicago this week.

The first shipments of Georgia asparagus also arrived. Receipts of asparagus from other sections are increasing. Texas growers have been sending in the first of their freshly dug potatoes. The quality is good. Arkansas and southern Illinois spinach producers were here this week with the first of this season's crop. Spinach continues to roll in from Texas.

Prices Expected to Drop.

The arrival of increasing amounts of products from the late winter and early spring trucking areas farther south is expected to start prices downward soon, although retailers made few changes in their food prices this week. Many merchants are featuring canned goods, one of their practices to make way for newly grown products.

There are a few items scheduled for the bargain counters today and tomorrow, but most of the foods will remain on their regular shelves and carry last week's price tags. Eggs and butter, two old standbys, are among foods that have been reduced. Eggs are from 1 to 2 cents a dozen lower this week than last; they are 16 cents a dozen less than they were about six weeks ago. Several stores cut their prices on butter from 1 to 2 cents a pound. Butter is about 8 cents a pound lower than it was six weeks ago.

Pork and Veal Lower.

Practically all fresh pork cuts have been lowered in price in most butcher shops for the week-end. Veal will be lower in several shops. Fresh haddock and herring and frozen whitefish have been reduced several cents a pound since this time last week.

Some stores have made slight cuts in prices of bananas, green onions, cooking apples, carrots, radishes, and celery.

Fresh strawberries also are lower and the quality is good for this time of year. Heavy shipments are coming from Louisiana. The Florida strawberry crop is about gone.

Few goods have gone up in price in the retail stores and shops. Cured ham is one. Several shops advanced the price of ham about 2 cents a pound. Cabbage is slightly higher. Green beans are somewhat higher than a week ago and the quality is generally unsatisfactory. Prices of green beans have been kept at last week's level in many stores because of the lower quality.

Florida Potatoes Go Up.

New Florida potatoes have been increased as much as 1½ cents a pound by some retailers.

Federal market reporters at Union stockyards quote fresh beef carcasses from steers and hefers at last week's level of prices. Cow beef prices are strong to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher and fresh veal mostly $1 higher. Dressed lamb is fully $1 a hundredweight higher, but dressed mutton is about the same. Wholesale pork prices are barely holding their own.

Live hogs weighing less than 180 pounds were reported steady to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower than last week. The local packer demand for the medium and heavier hogs helped to push the prices higher on hogs weighing above 180 pounds. The week's top reached $10.80.

Easter Lambs Held Back.

The fat lamb market was uneven to 15 cents a hundred higher. Farmers are holding their Easter lambs until next week. None were offered for sale in Chicago this week. The week's top price on fat "wool" lambs was $10.65, closing at $10.50 yesterday.

Fed steers and yearlings were quoted lower, some as much as 25 cents a hundredweight off. The number of steers reaching the Chicago market was about the same as last week, but the animals were heavier, which means more tons of beef. The extreme top of heavy steers was $11. The top on the best yearlings was $10.35, while the bulk of the steers sold at prices ranging from $7.60 to $9.50. Only a comparatively few went at above $10.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

HARVARD CARROTS.

2 cups cooked carrots.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons white vinegar.
1 tablespoon granulated sugar.
1 pinch salt.
Pepper.
1 cup carrot liquid.

Melt butter, blend in flour, sugar, salt, and pepper. Add liquid drained from carrots to make a sauce. Then add vinegar. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Heat carrots thoroughly in this sauce and serve.

FRUITED MARSHMALLOW DESSERT.

16 marshmallows.
2 cups diced oranges.
1 cup orange juice.
½ cup diced pineapple.
½ cup diced bananas.

Cut marshmallows into eighths and mix fruit and orange juice. Chill, serve in sherbet glasses and decorate with grated orange peel.

SOUR CREAM RAISIN PIE.

1 cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ teaspoon cloves.
2 eggs, well beaten.
1 cup seedless raisins.
1 cup sour cream.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons vinegar.

Mix sugar with spices, add to the beaten eggs with the raisins, cream, salt and vinegar and beat well. Pour the mixture into a deep pastry lined pie pan. Add top pastry crust and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. until crust is golden brown.

FISH FILLET IN CASSEROLE.

2 lb. haddock or sole.
3 lb. spinach.
½ lb. grated cheese.
4 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
1½ cups milk.
Salt and pepper.

Clean and cook spinach. When barely tender, drain and chop coarsely. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, and milk. Season with salt and pepper. Place spinach in a greased baking dish, cover with fish fillets, add white sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese, top with dabs of butter, and bake in a 375 degree oven for thirty minutes or until brown. Serve 6 to 8.

BEEF TONGUE WITH GRAPE JELLY.

1 fresh beef tongue.
20 cloves.
1 cup grape jelly.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Cover tongue with boiling water and add 1 small bay leaf, ¼ cup celery and ½ teaspoon each whole cloves, peppercorns. Cook 3 hours or until tender. Drain and remove skin. Stick cloves in tongue and spread with mixture of jelly, broken finely with a fork, and lemon juice. Bake, uncovered, in hot oven [450 degrees F.] 20 minutes, or until well glazed, basting frequently. Serve with grape jelly mixture which remains at bottom of baking dish.

STRAWBERRY ROLY-POLY PUDDING.

2 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
5 tablespoons shortening.
2-3 cup milk.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
2 cups strawberry jam.

Sift the dry ingredients and cut in the shortening. Add the milk and stir lightly until all the flour is moistened. Toss on a slightly floured board and roll about ¼ inch thick. Brush the dough with melted butter and cover with the strawberry jam. Roll like a jelly roll and bake in one piece for about 25 minutes in a 450 degree F. oven. Serve hot with a hard sauce.

CARROT MARMALADE.

2 cups ground carrots.
2 oranges, grated rind and sliced pulp.
2 lemons, grated rind and juice.
2 pounds sugar.

Cook the carrots with a small amount of water until tender, and then combine with the other ingredients. Simmer from 20 to 30 minutes, turn into sterile glasses and seal immediately.

SOY FLOUR BISCUITS.

1 cup soy bean flour.
1 cup wheat flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
6 tablespoons fat.
2-3 cup milk.

Sift the dry ingredients together and cut in the fat. Stir in the milk quickly and roll lightly on a floured board. Cut and bake for 10 minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees F.

PINEAPPLE TARTS.

⅝ cup sugar.
2½ tablespoons flour.
⅝ cup hot water.
1 cup crushed pineapple.
2 eggs.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Mix the sugar with the flour. Add the water gradually and when thickened add the pineapple. Cook for three minutes. Add carefully to the beaten egg yolks, pouring a little of the hot mixture into the yolks and then pouring back into saucepan. Mix well, add salt and cook for one minute. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. When cool pour into baked pastry shells. If desired, make a meringue of egg whites and brown in oven before serving.

OYSTERS WITH SHERRY.

2 tablespoons butter.
½ cup chopped celery.
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.
1 pint drained oysters.
¼ cup sherry.

Melt butter and add finely chopped celery and green pepper. Then add the oysters. Cook until edges of oysters curl. Add salt and paprika to season, then sherry wine and heat well. Serve in patty shells.

WELSH RAREBIT.

2 tablespoons butter
Dash of paprika
½ teaspoon peppery sauce
¼ teaspoon mustard
1 pound grated American cheese
1 cup beer
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup cold water
Salt to taste
Toast or crackers

Blend the melted butter with the paprika, sauce, and the mustard. Add the cheese and simmer gently over hot water until the cheese is melted. Then stir in the beer, a tablespoon at a time, and finally thicken with the cornstarch which has been blended with the cold water. Cook gently about three minutes, stirring constantly. Season and serve over fresh toast or crisped crackers.

DANISH CUSTARD.

[Baked with a caramel sauce.]

½ cup brown sugar
5 eggs
½ cup white sugar
Pinch of salt
2 cups scalded milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift the brown sugar and place it in the bottom of a baking dish. Then beat the eggs and add the white sugar, salt, milk, and vanilla. Pour the custard mixture into the baking dish and place it in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the custard is firm. Chill. To serve, invert the custard onto a platter. The brown sugar will form a caramel sauce.

COOKIE RECIPE IS COMMENDED AS TIME SAVER

Put this in your list of time savers —one cookie recipe which can be divided into four parts to turn out four teatime dainties that are delicious and individual in flavor and appearance:

BASIC COOKIE RECIPE.

½ cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2½ cups sifted all purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter until fluffy, add sugar gradually and beat until light. Add egg and beat well. Sift the flour once before measuring, add baking powder and salt, and sift three times. Add flour and milk alternately to the butter, sugar, egg mixture, small amounts at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and divide the mixture into four parts to make the variations.

CHOCOLATE NUT SQUARES.

Add one square unsweetened chocolate, melted, to one-fourth of the mixture, and blend well. Spread in greased rectangular pan. Cover with topping made as follows: Mix two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon grated orange rind, and two tablespoons fine chopped walnut meats. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes, or until it is done. Cool in the pan. Cut in squares.

NUT CRUMB STRIPS.

Spread another fourth of the mixture in a greased rectangular pan. Cover with a topping made by mixing two tablespoons melted butter with two tablespoons of brown sugar and one-third cup of fine bread crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 15 to 20 minutes. Cut into strips.

NUT DROPS.

Drop last fourth of the cookie mixture by teaspoons on an ungreased baking sheet. Smooth with spatula dipped in cold water, and sprinkle each with sugar. Place a half walnut in the center of each. Bake as above.

PICKLES LEND NOVEL TOUCH TO FISH RECIPES

Tangy Dressings Enhance Lenten Dishes.

"Filling the Cookie Jar," a booklet containing 25 recipes for unusually tasty cookies, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamp or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Simple enhancements for the last few Lenten fish dinners that will be recalled with enthusiasm all through the spring and summer—what homemaker isn't alert for suggestions of the sort? And what family doesn't relish the zip and spice of pickles, be they tart or sweet? Answer [1] plus answer [2] equals the fact that we're about to launch a fish-and-pickle discussion.

These recipes are our contribution to said discussion, and such good ones they are that they speak for themselves.

First, the recipe for the sauce shown in today's photograph, as an accompaniment to the tempting perch. It's made like this:

Pimolo Dressing.

- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1½ tablespoons flour
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup milk
- 4 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 hard cooked egg
- 1 chopped pimiento
- 2 tablespoons chopped sour gherkins

Combine sugar, salt, mustard, and flour. Blend with milk and cook slowly until thickened, stirring constantly. Add vinegar, and then pour mixture into the slightly beaten egg. Return to heat for 2 minutes, and add butter and other ingredients. Serve chilled with any fish.

STUFFED BAKED HADDOCK OR BABY WHITEFISH.

Wash and dry medium sized fish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Stuff with 2 cups dry bread crums, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon onion juice, and ½ cup chopped sweet gherkins. Sew, dredge fish with flour, and dot with butter or margarine. Place in baking pan and bake in hot oven for 45 minutes, adding a little water to the bottom of the pan and basting occasionally. Serve with hot, highly seasoned, tomato sauce.

A second, and more unusual stuffing, is this next, which uses fresh cucumbers and dill pickles.

PICKLE AND CUCUMBER STUFFING.

[Enough for a 2-pound fish.]

Combine ½ cup chopped dill pickles, ½ cup chopped fresh cucumber, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup soft bread crums, 1 slightly beaten egg, and salt and pepper according to taste. Stuff and sew or skewer fish, and bake in a hot oven for 30 to 45 minutes.

Leftover flaked fish, or flaked canned salmon or tuna fish make a festive supper appearance in a pickle-dressed cream sauce. Well flavored with lemon juice, Worcestershire, salt, and paprika the sauce is combined with chopped sweet or sour pickles, and poured over the heated flaked fish, which has been spread over hot toast triangles.

HERE IS FANCY SANDWICH FOR SPRING PARTY

Here is a fancy sandwich combination for the spring party which will walk off with honors:

TOWER PARTY SANDWICHES.

For each sandwich, cut four thin slices of graham bread in circular form. The largest should be the size of the loaf, each of the others should be just a little smaller than the one preceding it. Now spread all but the smallest with cream cheese blended with mayonnaise. Place the largest circle on a crisp lettuce leaf on a luncheon plate. On it lay a well drained slice of fresh or canned pineapple. Cover this with the next slice spread with chicken salad. Add the next slice spread with finely chopped cucumber and sweet pickle, blended with sour cream dressing. Add the last circle of bread and on it center a circle of the white of a hard cooked egg cut about a quarter inch thick crosswise of the egg. Fill this circle with caviar sprinkled with a few drops of lemon juice.

Beside the salad on the plate you may wish to serve a small red tomato cut almost through into fourths, tulip fashion, and garnished with a rosette heart of mayonnaise. Also as an accompaniment there may be two or three little dressed up pecan delicacies made by blending grated Swiss cheese with a very little whipped cream, holding bits of this into oblong and then pressing whole crisp pecan meats onto each side of each cheese oblong.

These small garnishes may then be rolled in more grated Swiss cheese and tucked down beside the sandwich and tomato to add crunchy nippiness to a pleasant little luncheon. Serve chilled punch or iced tea and follow with a parfait or other frozen dessert.

CHAIN STORES PLAN NATION-WIDE CANNED PEACH SALE IN MAY

Chain store organizations in the east and middle west have arranged a "National California canned peach sale," which will start on May 13, as a means of relieving western orchardists of a large surplus.

The campaign was announced yesterday by the Food and Grocery Chain Stores of America.

The stores, it was announced, will inaugurate an extensive advertising campaign on the food value of peaches in cans. It has been estimated that Pacific coast peach growers had six million cases of the fruit on their hands Jan. 1, with a new crop of large proportions in prospect.

6,000 TEACHERS TO SPREAD FARM LAW PROPAGANDA

More than six thousand vocational high school teachers throughout the United States will be used by the federal government in propagandizing farm youth on the principles of the new $500,000,000 soil conservation and domestic allotment law passed recently by congress, according to Washington officials who were here yesterday.

Seventy-five vocational supervisors from the twelve north central states met at the Morrison hotel during the day to work out their 1936 policies and programs, which will include activities dealing with the soil conservation act. Leaders emphasized to vocational workers the importance of their part in aiding the government in its effort to familiarize farm people with the soil conservation law.

The vocational teachers will have nothing to do with the administration of the law, but will limit their activities to educational work.

BAKING POWDER TENDS TO MAKE CRUST FLAKIER

Why is baking powder called for in some pastry recipes and not in others? The addition of baking powder tends to separate the layers of fat and flour in the crust and thereby helps make it flakier. It is not necessary to use baking powder, however, as excellent pastry is made without it.

CREOLE SAUCE ADDS FLAVOR TO CHEAP MEAT CUT

Rump Roast a la Creole is an interesting way of preparing a cheap cut of meat. The highly seasoned creole sauce offsets any lack of flavor in the meat. The acid in the sauce helps to tenderize the meat.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Rub with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, and then brown well. Place in the roaster, add half a cup of boiling water, cover, and roast in a 300 degree F. oven for 1½ hours.

Make sauce, using a large mild onion and a large green pepper. Finely chop these and saute in two tablespoons of fat for one minute. Add 2 cups canned tomatoes and simmer for five minutes. Pour over the meat and roast at same oven temperature for another half hour.

"Until I quit harsh soaps I never knew clothes could wash snow white ...without that washworn look..."

says MRS. THOMAS F. KEHOE

"I got to believe that you had to sacrifice wear to get clothes snowy white. You see, I used a brand of cheap soap and had to scrub so hard I wore them out. Then I changed to another brand and still things soon became wash-worn and frayed, and colors faded just as fast.

"One day I complained to my grocer and he said, 'Try American Family.' Now—I can't tell you how much difference there is. With American Family I always get thick, rich suds that just soak and float the dirt out. Things come out fresh and bright. And seem to last at least twice as long."

It's Cheaper to buy Good Soap than New Clothes

TUNE IN:

YES, American Family Soap makes washing easier, safer, quicker . . . because the formula is created especially for the water of this region. You get more real suds-making material . . . purer, creamier DOUBLE-SUDS. That's economy for you! And these double-suds, you know, work double-fast yet gently. Out floats even the grimiest dirt—rinses completely—without rubbing. Colors stay true. All washables keep life, newness, months longer. Next washday, just try American Family Soap. See what a "find" it is in cutting washing time and labor, in saving money on clothes needs. Here's added proof—Chicago women buy more American Family brand than any other.

IT'S FAR CHEAPER TO USE

DEEP SEA FISH ARE BITING WELL, SAYS PRESIDENT

Naval Planes Hop Today with Roosevelt Mail.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., April 2.—[Special.]—A thousand fathoms above the floor of the sea in the gently rolling "tongue of the ocean," President Roosevelt today reported excellent luck with lines baited for the largest of deep sea fish.

A radio message to Assistant White House Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre in the temporary White House at the Miami Biltmore hotel said:

"Excellent fishing at Green Cay, where many varieties were caught. Moved today to Middle Bight, Andros Island, where we will await mail tomorrow and try bone fishing."

Planes Ready to Hop.

Mr. Roosevelt left Green Cay, which is at the north of the peculiar ocean formation that gets its name from its resemblance to the human tongue, at 10 o'clock this morning. He arrived at Middle Bight, Andros Island, at 1:15 in the afternoon.

At noon tomorrow two navy planes will leave the Miami coast guard station carrying pouches of presidential mail. A rendezvous has been arranged for the planes in the vicinity of the present anchorage of the presidential yacht Potomac and the destroyers Dale and Monaghan.

Bill to Be Signed.

In the pouches will be the bill extending section 2 of article 1 of the federal housing act. The section, which expired yesterday and is to be continued until April 1, 1937, guarantees loans for home repairs and alterations. The continuing bill, signed by Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrns, reached here today.

The pouches will contain among other papers the commission of Thomas H. Parrin as surgeon general of the United States.

STUDENT LOSES LIFE IN FALL ON MT. WASHINGTON

North Conway, N. H., April 2.—[Special.]—John Winthrop Fowler, 21, prominent in New York society, a Princeton university undergraduate, plunged 300 feet to his death down the icy slopes of Mount Washington yesterday while on a skiing expedition with a fellow student.

His companion, McKim Daingerfield, wealthy Princeton student of Baltimore, Md., was seriously injured and is in the Memorial hospital here.

The fatal accident, which added another victim to the long list of the New Hampshire mountain, occurred late yesterday afternoon, but details were lacking until a rescue party reached the body and brought it to North Conway late this afternoon.

Dr. W. D. MacKenzie Dies; Former Seminary President

Word of the death in South Africa on March 29 of the Rev. Dr. William Douglas MacKenzie, 74 years old, president emeritus of the Hartford Seminary Foundation at Hartford, Conn., was received here yesterday. The Rev. Dr. MacKenzie was a resident of Chicago from 1895 to 1903 while he was a professor of theology at the Chicago Theological seminary. In 1904 he became president of the Hartford seminary and remained there until his retirement in 1930. He was the author of numerous books on theology.

William P. Kelly's Will Leaves Widow $125,000

The will of William P. Kelly, 52 years old, controler of the International Harvester company, leaving an estate estimated at $125,000 to his widow, Mrs. Christina Kelly, 366 Hazel avenue, Highland Park, was filed for probate yesterday before Judge Martin C. Decker at Waukegan. Mr. Kelly died March 23. Besides his wife, he is survived by four children.

PETER HERMAN WISTRAND, 3309 Monroe street, for many years manager and buyer for the L. G. Kunze food store at 18 East Randolph street, died yesterday in the Garfield Park hospital of pneumonia. He was 70 years old. Surviving Mr. Wistrand are his widow and three sisters.

SEWARD FRENCH, 73 years old, 4809 Champlain avenue, colored, for 35 years a city health department inspector, died Wednesday of pneumonia. He came to Chicago from Kentucky when he was 2 years of age. His family was among the first colored pioneers of the city.

Republican Candidate for GOVERNOR OF ILLINOIS

DR. CLEMENTS, NOTED RELIGIOUS EDUCATOR, DIES

Former President of Church Federation.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Clements, noted Chicago church leader and professor of pastoral theology at the Presbyterian Theological seminary, died on Wednesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Chester W. Hamblin, in Oklahoma City. Dr. Clements was 66 years old.

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow afternoon in the Fullerton Covenant Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Well known as a leader of his church, Dr. Clements was president of the Chicago Church federation in 1931, 1932, and 1933. He was graduated from Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1891, and from Auburn Theological seminary in 1894.

He was pastor of churches in Cuba and Cortland, N. Y., and Erie, Pa., until 1916, when he was appointed to the Austin Presbyterian church here. He left this pastorate in 1928 to join the staf of the theological seminary.

Besides his daughter, Dr. Clements is survived by a son, John, of 549 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Dr. John Timothy Stone will preside at the funeral service.

KARL JYRCH SR., RETIRED CHICAGO ARCHITECT, DIES

Karl E. Jyrch Sr., 74 years old, retired Chicago architect and building contractor, died Tuesday at Melbourne, Fla., of pneumonia, according to word received here yesterday. Mr. Jyrch, who retired from business 15 years ago, was in Florida for the winter with his wife, Bertha, and daughter, Miss Grace Jyrch. The family home is at Petite lake, Antioch. Besides his widow and daughter, Mr. Jyrch is survived by a son, Karl E. Jr.; three daughters, Mrs. Ella Pogose, Mrs. Olga Erickson and Mrs. Charles Erickson, and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Ellen Amos Bates Rites Will Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Amos Bates, 73 years old, who died Wednesday at St. Petersburg, Fla., will be held tomorrow afternoon at the chapel at 2700 East 75th street. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery. Mrs. Bates was the widow of Albert J. Bates, Chicago inventor and head of the Bates Expanded Steel Truss company, which is now known as the Bates Expanded Steel corporation. When in Chicago Mrs. Bates resided with a daughter, Mrs. Willis P. Wood, at 1410 Bryn Mawr avenue. Four sons also survive.

Hold Services Tomorrow for Mrs. Nellie Maguire

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Maguire, 65 years old, 1622 Henry place, Waukegan, who died Wednesday in the Sacred Heart sanitarium at Milwaukee, will be held tomorrow morning in St. Anastasia church at Waukegan. Burial will be in Calvery cemetery. Mrs. Maguire was active in civic and club affairs in Lake county. She was state custodian of records of the American War Mothers and was a past president of the Little Fort chapter. She was a member of the Women's Relief corps and the American Legion auxiliary. She is survived by her husband, Thomas, and three children.

JOS. MEMMESHEIMER, NOTED CHOIR LEADER AND ORGANIST, IS DEAD

Joseph Memmesheimer, 70 years old, well known for nearly fifty years as a church musician and choir leader, died yesterday in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of a paralytic stroke. His home was at 2162 Oak road, Homewood.

Forty-five years ago Mr. Memmesheimer founded the Calumet Singing society in South Chicago. The stroke which took his life occurred after he had concluded a singing class there Wednesday night. Until ill health forced him to resign a year ago he had been organist at the Holy Cross church, 65th street and Maryland avenue, for thirty years. He was born in Guttenberg, Germany, and came to the United States when 17.

He is survived by his widow, Marie, and six children, Joseph, the Rev. Alfonso, pastor of St. Therese church; Marie, Louis, Frank, and Charles.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning in St. Joseph church, Homewood. Burial will be at St. Mary cemetery, Evergreen Park.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Marching in the Easter parade along Fifth avenue in New York City, Announcer George Hicks will give NBC's new pocket size transmitter, housed in a silk hat atop his head, its first real tryout in broadcasting. The power plant will be hidden in a wide lether belt behind his formal cutaway. The transmitter, weighing 11 ounces, and a 6½ inch antenna will be hidden in the crown of a 7⅝ size hat. Hicks will use a small hand microphone which he can bring up to his lips. His words will be relayed to a mobile transmitter and thence to Radio City and out over the air via NBC. Next year the buzz of Easter gossip may emanate from milady's bonnet.

Edward Wood Jr., W-G-N sales manager, is in the hospital recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident. . . . Doris Loraine [really Loraine Tumler], WBBM-CBS songstress, is the bride of C. Dudley Carter of Los Angeles. . . . Effie Atherton, singing comedienne with Jack Hylton, will leave the troupe after two weeks on their NBC show starting Sunday to join her husband, Lester Landau, in Hollywood. Landau is a producer for British-Fox Films. . . . Hylton was expected back last night from a flying three day trip to New York. . . . Sophie Tucker will use Jack Fulton's orchestra as her own when she opens at the Morrison on May 8.

Ben Gage, "Broadway Cinderella" baritone on W-G-N and MBS, will be guest entertainer at the Northwestern university senior dance at the Edgewater Beach hotel tonight. . . . Harold Turner, W-G-N staf pianist, will play at the University of Nebraska Alumni association meeting at the Union League club next Monday. Turner was graduated in 1931. . . . Lionel Barrymore has had his long beard, grown for movie purposes, shaved off. Thus technicians on the Barrymore-Romberg program are now able to tell whether the actor is the right distance from the microphone.

Kentucky Derby, on May 2, again will be heard exclusively over CBS under the sponsorship of the cigaret concern that aired it last year. . . . Herbert Hoover's address before the Fourth Congressional District Republican organization at Fort Wayne, Ind., on Saturday is to be broadcast over W-G-N-Mutual from 10:25 to 11:15 p. m. . . . Dick Powell, who returned to Hollywood Hotel last Friday, has been ordered to rest for four weeks longer by his physician. George Burns and Gracie Allen will pinch hit for him. . . . Frank Fay will pause in Chicago tomorrow en route to Hollywood to launch his new show April 18. . . . And Marion Talley makes her bid for a radio career on a new series starting at 10:30 tonight on WMAQ-NBC.

WBBM-CBS is to build two new studios this summer, bringing its total to ten. At least one of them will have facilities for an audience, of perhaps 300. There are no audience studios at CBS now. The Civic theater, however, is used for the Hylton and Horace Heidt shows. . . . Joan Blaine, star of the Mary Marlin series, will make application to take the Illinois bar examination before Judge Edward B. Casey next week. . . . Kay Chase, author of Painted Dreams, in which she plays the part of Joyce Foster, and of Helen Trent, will return from a West Indies vacation this week-end and will be back on the air Monday.

Edward Dorman, 80, Dies; Former Tribune Veteran

Edward G. Dorman, 80 years old, an employé in the composing room of THE TRIBUNE for 59 years until his retirement two years ago, died yesterday in the home of Harry E. Eldridge, 815 Foxdale avenue, Winnetka. Mr. Dorman joined THE TRIBUNE in 1875. He is survived by a sister and a son, Charles, whose wife is the sister of Mrs. Eldridge. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the chapel at 1118 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette, with burial in Memorial Park cemetery.

Hold Funeral Services Today for S. P. Shields, 88

Funeral services for Samuel P. Shields, a civil war veteran, will be held this morning in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel church, 690 Belmont avenue. Mr. Shields died Tuesday at the age of 88 in his home at 722 Cornelia avenue. He had been a resident of Chicago since 1871 and engaged in the insurance business here for many years. Six daughters and one son survive.

MRS. BOYLAN'S ESTATE PUT IN SISTER'S HANDS

Letters of administration for the $75,000 estate of Mrs. Harriet Boylan, 80 years old, who died in her home at 4515 Greenwood avenue on April 1, were issued yesterday to Mrs. Sarah Shelhamer, 8217 Rhodes avenue, by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. Mrs. Boylan was the widow of Peter R. Boylan, an attorney who died five years ago. Mrs. Shelhamer, a sister; P. S. Baker of Waukegan, a brother; three grandnieces, and three grandnephews were named as heirs.

The will of Mrs. Laura Dean Sobey, 58 years old, disposing of an estate of $50,000, was filed for probate. Mrs. Sobey, who died March 28 in the Mercy hospital, left the bulk of her estate to her husband, Joseph, 5342 Cornell avenue, a pensioned baggage master of the Illinois Central railroad. A sister, Mrs. Nettie Matters of Arcola, Douglas county, and a niece received small bequests.

SAMUEL KLEIMAN DIES; LEADER IN JEWISH CHARITY

Samuel Kleiman, president of a store fixtures company at 1031 Madison street for the last thirty years, died last evening in Michael Reese hospital following an operation. He was 52 years old.

Mr. Kleiman was for many years a leader in Jewish charities. In 1922-'24 he went to Russia and brought 100 refugees to Chicago. He was a past president of the Albany Park B'nai B'rith, a director of the Marks Nathan Orphans' home, and a former president of the Chicago Store Equipment association.

Surviving are his widow, Jennie, 417 East 60th street; two sons and three daughters. The funeral will be held at 1 p. m. today in the chapel at 3606 Roosevelt road.

David Johnstone, Northern Trust Official, Is Dead

David Johnstone, assistant cashier of the Northern Trust company, died yesterday at his home, 42 North Waller avenue, of pneumonia. Mr. Johnstone was a member of several Masonic groups and was treasurer of the Oriental consistory. He was a former president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Banking. His association with the Northern Trust company extended over more than 20 years. Mr. Johnstone is survived by his wife. Funeral services will be held at the Oriental consistory at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

Movie Stars Build Walls Around Homes

Force Is Required to Keep Out Curious.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—So great a scourge have the "crashers" and curious become that movie stars are placing stucco stockades, moats of brambles and fences with electric gadgets about their Hollywood homes. One of those resorting to forcible means to attain privacy is Fred Astaire, who has erected a high but dignified fence around his place in Beverly Hills. Admission is gained only through an electrically controled gate.

Victor McLaglen installed an "electric eye" contrivance on the fence he put up at his place with the wolfhounds, swimming pool, tennis court, and acres of English gardens at La Canada.

Katharine Hepburn chose an estate so far from the center of the colony and so little recognized that she hasn't been bothered since the time, 18 months ago, that some rambler took a shot in the direction of Katy and the girl friend who was out hiking with her.

The three recent incursions into his grounds by smitten maidens have caused Dick Powell to put up a fence and keep a servant on guard at his home at Toluca Lake. Richard Dix is selling out his ranch in the hills not far from Hollywood and buying another whose protection from the curious will be its sixty miles distance from the city. Charlie Chaplin has a little sentry place at the driveway that ascends to his house.

Bing Crosby has retired to the vast acreage of Rancho Santa Fe for the joys of baronial existence and freedom from chiselers and annoyers. Only when his presence is needed in the colony for a current picture or broadcast does he live at his smaller Toluca Lake place of fifteen rooms.

The real estate men are looking for something remote, unpretentious and with a very high wall to solace the soul of Greta Garbo when she gets back from Sweden toward the end of the month.

Lily Pons is due Aug. 1 for her second starring movie, which will be the screen play "Street Girl," rewritten by Jane Murfin. When first made in 1927 as one of the more pleasing of early sound movies it presented Betty Compson as a violinist. Lily will change the violin rôle for that of singer, but like Betty she will be the young girl who stumbles into a group of five struggling young male musicians and becomes the organizer and manager, leading them to fame.

Applique Quilt Founded on Four Moons of Jupiter

Planet Jupiter.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The four moons of Jupiter furnished the inspiration for this lovely and unusual applique block. Gold, silver gray, and light blue form the color scheme, with the blue serving as a background. The pattern is a simple one to applique, since only 12 applique and 13 plain blocks are required for the entire quilt. The applique blocks are set together to surround the single center plain block, and also are used in each of the four corners.

Good Morning!

This is one of those pictures whose story doesn't amount to much and whose title doesn't mean anything. What the film does have, however, is plenty of competent acting. There is always, said Pollyana, something to be thankful for.

The frail screen yarn, adapted from a Faith Baldwin novel called "Spinster Dinner," is about a beauteous society girl who loves a boy and is, in turn, the heart's desire of a big business man.

The b. b. m., gives the youth a job in Japan to get him out of the way and proceeds to lay siege to the lady's heart, which in due time becomes his, all his.

Miss Lombard wears plenty of striking clothes and conducts herself like a spoiled brat—with a sense of humor. Preston Fosters as the Irresistible Force is—just that. His rôle is in much lighter vein than are the parts he usually draws—but nothing ever feazes Foster. What a comfort he must be to casting directors!

Janet Beecher as the heroine's snappy mother is clever and some nice, even performances are turned out by Richard Carle, Joy Compton, Betty Lawford, Cesar Romero, and Mia Ichioka. The last is a remarkably pretty Japanese girl with personality and a charming voice.

The picture has a number of amusing situations and some entertaining dialog. Direction was adequate. All in all, you'll find, I think, that "Love Before Breakfast" isn't at all hard to take.

Abyssinia!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Gentlemen wooing fair ladies please note:

Gifts that subtly infer both ownership and appreciation of beauty fly like arrows right to the feminine heart. If Easter brings a present problem with it when it rolls around shortly remember that imagination in gift giving is far more important than money. Get an inkling of your dove's loves in the way of perfumes, colognes, glamorous bath glorifiers or even beauty aids, and you're all set.

Here are a few things to look at if you want to do your Easter shopping early:

1. The superlatively elegant looking white velvet calla lily with a bottle of delightful perfume nestling in its heart. The perfume is a cool, light, fresh one that will charm her.

2. A smart bottle of carnation cologne. The spicy scent of carnation is fashionable at the moment, and its choice will stamp you as one of those satisfactory men who knows a chic woman when he sees one. This cologne is new, but already a success in select circles. It's gay as the new spring hats—and so is its partner in smartness, a perfume that matches it exactly.

3. The clever new "looking glass" lipstick, with a mirror that pops up when the stick is pulled out. The mirror forms one side of the outer case when the stick is in and flips up handily, large enough to reflect just the mouth. There are three of these from which to choose—one in a plain gold case, one dolled up a bit with jewel trim, and the third a de luxe edition, with two lipsticks, one for day and one for evening. Very tosh, this last. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Edmund Lowe Weds West Coast Divorcee in New York State

Armonk, N. Y., April 2.—[Special.]—The kisses with which Mrs. Rita Kaufman met Edmund Lowe when he returned from Europe on Tuesday were translated into nuptials today in this marrying village.

Mrs. Kaufman, a Beverly Hills, Cal., divorcée, and Lowe, who has just finished a new picture in London, were married here at 5 p. m. by a justice of the peace.

The 46 year old Lowe said in his license application he had two previous wives, one living and one dead. The latter was Lilyan Tashman, also a movie star, who died in March, 1934. Mrs. Kaufman said she was 37.

Nail Polish Is Best Adapted to Hand Type

Tint of Skin, Shape of Finger Important.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Remember away back when all you had to do with rouge was to put it on, trusting to heaven that it wouldn't shout too loudly? Well, that's what you're going to be remembering shortly about nail polish. You'll be remembering away back when you used to fill up the nail area, your only concern that of keeping it from spilling over the edges and half moon. That is just as inadequate a system for modern needs as the rouge tinting without thought to shape of face, cheekbone height, etc. Yes, girls, you now are adjured to study your nail shape for better'n worse, and to stick to your study until you get a smartly shaped nail with polish aid.

There are tricks to applying nail polish, as we shall show.

First is the most important trick of getting the color that best flatters the skin color of the hand. Hand skin tones vary enormously from pallid white to an uncomfortable blush red, and it isn't always consolable to the last named victims to know that their flushed hand coloring denotes a warm heart. The other day I sat in at a demonstration on how certain nail colors actually whiten the hand appearance. I can't give rules for guidance, but you can experiment with the 5 and 10 bottles and maybe strike the right shade or one so near it you'll know what to ask for in other nail products.

Studio Fire Reveals Margaret Sullavan Romance with Fonda

Hollywood, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—Fire in the projection room at General Service studios in which Margaret Sullavan, ex-wife of Henry Fonda, and Fonda were sitting in the dark watching "rushes" on his latest movie story, today resulted in a narrow escape for the couple, and threw attention to their rekindled romance.

The film burst into flame as they were watching five reels of "Fatal Lady." Miss Sullavan, who recently broke her arm in an accident on a set, and Fonda were both drenched by the instantaneous overhead sprinkler system before he could grope a way to safety for her.

essential unity of a single key. Discord is a puny device compared to this.

Hindemith's brave use of polytonality is his most arresting feature, but can have little bearing on his genuine importance as a musician. A flood of additional light was thrown on this latter subject—a highly controversial one—by other characteristics of "Matthias the Painter."

Most interesting of these was the free use of esthetic conceptions which verge on the mystical. The shrill ecstasy of "Angelic Concert," the first of the three pictures which the composer essays to interpret in music, found in Hindemith a gentle and understanding compound of sensibilities.

It is a truism to say that an interpreter must make an idea spiritually his before he can project it effectively, and in this case Hindemith is interpreter as well as creator. If you admit the validity of this reasoning, and admit also that Matthias' idea has been splendidly and imaginatively transferred from one medium to another, the conclusion follows inevitably that Hindemith is no mere wizard with notes but a responsive and highly gifted musician.

The flaw, of course, lies in the undeniable fact that you cannot tell for sure, on a single hearing, whether the thematic material itself is a product of genuine creative forces or immense cleverness. Ten experiences with the "Matthias" symphony should do much to settle in some definite manner the troublesome question of Hindemith's exact place in music.

Preceding the work of the iconoclastic German was a Bach choral prelude. Its exalted beauty fitted it admirably for its purpose, for the program bore the note, "In memory of William O. Goodman." This valued trustee of the Orchestral association died late in March, aged 87, after fifteen years of service on the board.

The first half of the program closed with Samuel A. Lieberson's "In a Winter Garden," a skilful bit of music making which unites cleverness of a high order with freshness of idea. In its apt suggestion of the joys of de luxe vaudeville it classifies as excellent descriptive music.

Glière's "Ilia Mourometz" performed his prodigies of valor through all the second session of the evening. The orchestra managed to sustain its heroic mood despite the natural tendency to relax after the intermission. "Ilia" was a more sensational display of the musicians' virtuosity than anything else on the program, although it is far less difficult, actually, than the Hindemith.

Fay Templeton, Living at Home for Actors, Protests Benefit

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Fay Templeton, 70 years old, former musical comedy and operetta star, now a guest at the Actors' Fund home at Englewood, N. J., protested today against a benefit planned for her.

The American Gilbert and Sullivan association recently announced a "character costume ball" for Miss Templeton's benefit on April 18.

"I don't want this benefit," said Miss Templeton. "I have not been consulted about it, and I will not permit it to be given in my name. I do not need it. I am very comfortable where I am, and I have everything required for my needs."

Miss Templeton was especially incensed about the words "poverty stricken" used by the association in its announcements and invitations to describe her present condition.

"I am by no means poverty stricken," said the former star.

Slenderizing Summer Frock

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Summer days are not as far away as you might think while balmy spring weather is around. The wise woman will do her summer sewing now, while she and the temperature are in the mood!

If you are overweight, you will appreciate the slender lines of this dress. The bib jabot detracts from bodice breadth, and the gores in the skirt give an illusion of slimness through the hips, while lending graceful width to the hemline.

In sheer cottons, printed or plain, in linens and tubbable silks, this frock will be delightfully cool, since it has full and short cape sleeves and a V neckline.

Style No. 2880 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 1½ inch ribbon for the bow which accents the neckline.

SYNOPSIS.

Inspector Sandy Ross and Buck Wacey of the department of Justice travel from Reno to Vinton City in search of information on Sociable Joe Willis, suspected of implication in armored car robberies. A collision of two cars on a mountain road brings Jane Bronson into Sandy's life. But when she learns his identity she vanishes. A letter from Sociable Joe brought Jane to Vinton City to plead with her brother, Lee, known there as Ray Hammer, to give up his gang connections. Lee makes a hurried getaway with Jane, driving a cream colored car. Meanwhile in San Francisco the Lurch-McKeever mob await the arrival of Lee Bronson, needed for his female impersonating ability. The cream colored car is located in Gunnison, Colo., where Sandy and Buck speed by plane. They find Jane alone. She confesses her brother carried a machine gun and left in anger at her pleas to go straight. An outfit of Jane's clothes is missing. Sandy leaves Jane under surveillance and he and Buck fly to San Francisco, where another armored car holdup has been attempted. Lee Bronson, disguised as a woman, escapes with the gang. At the hideout from which they fled Sandy takes bed sheets which he has chemically treated for finger prints, and thereby learns their identity. Jane has returned to her home in Kansas City. Sandy longs to trust her, but a wire sent her by Sociable Joe makes him doubtful. The man hunt brings Sandy and Buck to Kansas City. Sociable Joe has gone there. Jane calls on Sandy.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

A CONVERSATION RECORDED.

"Is Sociable Joe here?" asked Sandy.

Jane nodded.

"Yes. He's here. I think he came to see Lee."

"Your brother? And he——?"

"I don't know that he's in town. But I've guessed it. That's why I came to see you, Sandy. I——" she smiled wearily. "This sounds silly. But I want advice."

The man motioned to the chair.

"Why don't you sit down and tell me about it—the whole thing? We try to be in the business of helping persons who are honestly in trouble."

She caught the one word upon which the sentence depended.

"I give you my word, Sandy. For what it may be worth."

"Suppose you just tell me what's happened. From the time you got back here."

The girl had seated herself now, and was giving evidence of returning calm.

"Nothing happened at first. I went back to my job—my employer said he didn't believe in holding me responsible for what my brother has done. Of course he knows that Lee is mixed up in this gang."

"That's one of the misfortunes of relationship," Sandy said bitterly. "The ones near the criminal do the paying. The fellow himself is usually too selfish to care about anything except keeping his freedom."

"Yes, I know." There was no protest in her tone, only acceptance of the hurt which had come to her. "They've tried to be nice to me at the office. But of course, I can't help wondering when something is going to happen. I'm not complaining. I'm just trying to tell you what you want to know."

"Sociable Joe came to the house the other night. He tried to be just like he's always been—you know how he talks, I suppose."

"Extravagantly," supplied Sandy.

"Yes, dramatizing everything. He made out that he had just come to visit me. I knew it wasn't true and told him so. Then he said he wanted to apologize for stirring up all this trouble. He said that the government might not be chasing Lee if it had not been for him."

"I don't understand that."

"It was about that money in Reno. Sociable Joe says he was the one who wrote me that letter to come out and get Lee. He says he blames himself for not taking things into his own hands—that maybe he could have made my brother go straight. But right in the next sentence, he gave some other wild reason that made me think he was lying about everything."

Sandy cataloged swiftly the several leads which the girl had revealed. He felt a certain confidence in her which never before had existed. Certainly there was no evidence of a shrewd play to learn the movements of the F. B. I.; Jane Bronson had asked no questions and evidently planned on none.

Suddenly the inspector found himself faced with a new duty, a responsibility which, in the rush of man hunting, he had not truly considered before. After all, this girl, now that he felt he could really believe in her, was deserving of every protection, every safeguard, every courtesy he could extend her. Nevertheless, he could not be judge and jury. He must bow to a final departmental reservation, inexorable in the necessity of protecting human lives against human frailties.

"Jane, before we talk any more, I must warn you of one or two things. You know a job like mine is rather dangerous. Every man in it must think of the safety of his fellow investigators. You see—" it was hard for him to say—" if every one isn't extravigilant, he may make a mistake in judgment that could cause another special agent——"

"I know. You just can't believe everything a person says—simply because you—you——"

"Because we have sympathy or like them or—well, that's the idea, Jane."

"That's as it should be," she said quietly.

"So, everything is witnessed. No one is present here, it is true. But my job forced me to throw a switch when you came in, and all you say is taken down for the record."

The girl glanced about her; there was only the furniture of an ordinary office. Her eyes widened.

"All that's weird to me. But—I'm not afraid, Sandy. Only—only for you and Buck. That's why I came here." Tensity had returned. "I couldn't sleep last night wondering why Sociable Joe had come here and if Lee was in town and other members of that gang. You see, things have happened—things that makes me believe that Sociable Joe has seen Lee or sent him a message. I worry about all sorts of terrible things. What would happen if there was a big robbery—and how I'd feel if I hadn't warned you. And—and——" The girl colored.

Sandy Ross rose and went to her. For a moment he stood with a hand on her shoulder.

"Jane," came slowly. "If you blame yourself, you're wrong and time will prove it. I just want you to know that I—" he hesitated—"that Buck and I think you're pretty grand. And that you mustn't worry. It's our job to work as hard for your protection as it is for our own."

Quickly impulsive, she raised a hand and for an instant rested it on his. Then, embarrassed, she drew away.

"I'm not afraid—for myself," came at last.

"But you must be careful. Your brother is accused of desperate crimes, Jane. And——"

"Yes, I know," she supplied quickly. "He probably blames me for having done what he would call getting him in trouble." She smiled wryly. "Queer isn't it? No one ever seems to think of other persons when the law is after him. He doesn't stop to consider that he has done a wrong deed, disgraced every one connected with him, and deserves to be punished for it."

"No," agreed the inspector with some bitterness, "all that ever enters a criminal's mind is that he 'has gotten into trouble' and that every one in the world should help him out of it. If persons do help him, he merely takes it for granted. If they refuse, he hates them for it." Suddenly a motivated query shot into his brain. "Tell me, Jane," he asked, "is there any good reason why Lee should have fallen into criminal channels?"

She eyed him, pondering.

"Nothing but what I've told you—he always wanted his own way."

"Selfish, you mean."

"Yes, I'm afraid you'd call it that. Mother watched him constantly while she was alive. She begged me, you know, when she was dying, to——"

"I remember that." This was not what Sandy meant. "There wasn't anything hereditary——"

"Insanity? O, no."

"Or perhaps some disgrace for your father, we'll say, that could have influenced the boy? Or selfish traits or——"

But Jane had shaken her head.

"Nothing. O, I know that. Father and mother couldn't have been on the happy basis they were if there had been anything like that. You see, the only real shadow they ever had was father's injury and illness. Of course, it happened before I was born, but there was so much talk about it that I always felt I was right there when it occurred."

"An injury, you said?"

with a long list of entries. For the first time, pure white poodles will be shown here. They are the property of Mrs. Sherman Hoyt of New York, who has sent out four. Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge has sent out six dogs, of different varieties, from her famous kennels, Giralda farms, in Madison, N. J. Two of these dogs are valued at $15,000 each.

Among well known Chicagoans who will be exhibiting are Mrs. A. Phelps Dunham, who has entered an English setter; C. Groverman Ellis, who has entered two Springer spaniels, "Friar Tuck" and "Flash"; Albert W. Harris, who hopes that one or more of his four Chesapeake Bays will carry off a ribbon; the Orrin H. Bakers, who will show their Kerry blue terriers; the Paul C. Loebers, whose wire haired terriers have been groomed steadily for the last few weeks in preparation for the show, and Harold M. Florsheim, who has entered seven Airedales including Champion Authority's Coletta of Harham.

Others who will be showing their dogs include Orville S. Caesar of Barrington; Irving Florsheim of Red Top farm, Libertyville; Livingstone E. Osborne of Ravinia; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice V. Reynolds of Lake Villa; Dr. Noel S. Young of Lake Forest; James E. Heyworth, Alexander E. Stewart, president of the club, and Mrs. Homer H. Cooper of Evanston.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour Will Return Today.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, whose beautiful new Lake Forest home has suffered delay as well as all of the smaller ones, is arriving today after a winter in California to see what progress has been made on its construction during the winter. Mrs. Armour is but one of dozens of Chicagoans who are returning or who are about to return after a vacation in California, which proved unusually popular as a vacation ground this year.

Mrs. William W. Darrow and her son, Jack, are expected in Winnetka today or tomorrow after two months in Pasadena and a stopover at La Jolla, where Miss Jane Darrow, a student at the Bishop's school, joined them. The threesome then went on to the Soda Springs ranch at Rimrock, Ariz. Billy Darrow flew out from Yale to join his mother and sister and brother at the ranch for his Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Wakeley and their daughter, Barbara, are at the Casa de Mañana in La Jolla, and will return at Easter time. Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Trumbull are other La Jolla visitors.

The Michael J. O'Briens and their daughter, Miss Anne O'Brien, who arrived recently in San Francisco after a cruise through the Panama canal, are expected in Highland Park tomorrow after a week in California. Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and Prof. and Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed arrived yesterday from California. Prof. and Mrs. Goodspeed have been visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Rhodes, in Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes recently gave a large at home at the Valley Hunt club for the Goodspeeds, to which 350 guests were invited.

Among others who have returned from California are Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, who was at La Quinta, and the Arch W. Shaws of Winnetka, who also spent some time in Chandler, Ariz.

Mrs. Edward L. Hersey, who visited her uncle and aunt, the John Holbrook Hardins, in Pasadena for several weeks and was widely entertained, has returned home. Other California visitors are Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Osgood, Mr. and Mrs. George Frazer, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Harper of Barrington, who spent about a month on the west coast, including two weeks on Catalina Island. While in Catalina the Ashton Stanleys of Del Monte gave a dinner party for Mr. Osgood on his birthday to which several former Chicagoans were invited, including George Dickson, who now is living on the island. Mr. and Mrs. Osgood returned to their Kenilworth home last week to be here while their son, Alfred M. Osgood, is at home from Princeton. The Leslie Wheelers are at home in Lake Forest after several weeks in California. Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, who have been at home all winter, left a week or two ago for their ranch near Santa Barbara.

Rummage Sale Today at Lake Forest.

Everything from a lamp or a baby bed to a washing machine or an evening wrap will be among the articles to be sold at a rummage sale at the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. from 9 o'clock this morning until 9 o'clock tonight. According to Mrs. Elliott Donnelley, chairman, and the members of her committee, this year's sale will offer the largest amount of stock that ever has been put on sale.

The Junior league's annual spring second hand clothes sale, held yesterday morning at 1006 South Michigan avenue, also offered a larger stock of sale goods than usual, probably because no sale was held last fall.

Oxford-Cambridge Dinner Tonight.

The annual Oxford-Cambridge dinner, which is being held tonight at the Harvey restaurant, is expected to draw an attendance of fifty alumni of these two British universities. The yearly gathering always is held on the eve of the Oxford-Cambridge boat race on the Thames, one of the oldest university sporting events in the world.

John McDonough and Sheldon Tefft of Oxford and Gaylord Donnelley, William C. Parke, and Durand Smith, alumni of Oxford, are chairmen of tonight's dinner, at which Lewis Bernays, British consul general, will propose a toast to the king. Alec Templeton, the blind British pianist, and Pat O'Malley of Jack Hylton's orchestra will be guests at the dinner.

Relations Council to Hear Douglas.

Paul H. Douglas, who has just returned from six months in Italy, will speak on "Impressions of Italy at War" at a luncheon meeting this noon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house. Dr. Douglas is a professor of economics at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, former president of the council, will preside at today's meeting in the absence of Adlai E. Stevenson, who with Mrs. Stevenson is vacationing in Mexico.

Mrs. Carter H. Harrison will be hostess for the Cliff Dwellers at tea this afternoon.

South Shore Follies Will Open Tonight

Dress Rehersal Promises Big Success.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Judging from the spirited dress rehersal of the "South Shore Follies" last evening, the biggest and best show in years awaits audiences tonight and tomorrow evening at the South Shore Country club.

This literally will be the biggest show ever presented by the club members. The cast of 130 is almost a third again as large as the largest in previous years, and the stage has been extended twenty feet in either direction to give the actors plenty of room for their merry antics.

As for this being the best show, most of the stars of other Follies appear again to repeat their earlier successes and there is the word of the show committee that never before have so many youngsters cropped up in one production to lend it their verve and beauty.

Taking a hint from the travel folders, the Follies this year takes actors and audience on a cruise. This means, of course, a number of amusing ship board episodes, with shore excursions to such alluring spots as Paris, London, and Heidelberg.

The opening scene on the pier, in which Capt. Jack O'Connor and his dancing crew of sailors greet the tourists about to embark is a rousing introduction to most of the players in the show.

Especially original is the Paris scene, in which models in a shop window come to life. Patricia Hellweg, Mrs. Robert O. Hereford [Thelma Jensen], Charles Thomas, and Paul Flagg are principals in this scene, in which a bridal party figures, complete even to the minister.

In another effective scene, entitled "Symphony in Blue," Jack O'Connor sings while an octet of the prettiest dancers waltzes. Jean and Lois Maehle, the twin sisters who were the hit of several previous "Follies," are given two scenes for their exceptional tap dancing.

Gene Dodge exceeds most of her previous comic characterizations as a short skirted flapper, ironically called the Belle of the Twenties. She appears again in the London episode and in the thirteenth scene.

Morrison C. Wood, without whom no "Follies" would be complete, is responsible for one of the funniest skits, "In the Crow's Nest," in which he and Herbert Beidler and Gertrude Beidler appear. From their lofty vantage point Mr. Wood sights a girl on the beach, and Mr. Beidler spies a ship at sea, and both proceed to discuss their finds. Mr. Beidler again heads the "Follies" committee.

Bonny Ballantine's singing and Marian Gilbert's dancing should come in for their customary share of applause in the scene "Back to Pumpkinville," wherein the tourists are welcomed home. Miss Gilbert also does a solo, "The Drum on Deck." Laurie Donoghue pops in and out of the action alternately as Schnozzle Durante, W. C. Fields, and Groucho Marx. John Goehst, another long standing favorite, makes two stellar appearances.

Overeating Held Sole Cause of Nearly All Cases of Obesity

Ninety-five per cent of the cases of obesity is due solely to overeating, Dr. Leo K. Campbell yesterday told 300 nurses attending a Nurses' institute held at the Illinois Research hospital by the First District State Nurses' association.

Similarly, the reduction of obesity may be effected, he said, by reducing not the quantity, but the quality, of the food eaten. To illustrate, he told of the quantitative diet, high in protein but low in calory value, which he administered during the last three years to 400 fat individuals.

Play of CCC Camps.

The Chicago Repertory group will present the play "The Young Go First" tomorrow evening, Sunday evening, and the following Saturday and Sunday at the Foresters theater, 1016 North Dearborn street. The play, dealing with life in the CCC camps, has an all-male cast.

According to CULBERTSON

[Mr. Culbertson is acting as referee in a set game between two married couples. He fines the players according to the degree of error. Today's hand is the fourth one of the match.]

Mr. White apparently was quite chastened by the many fines imposed on him, but Mr. Black rushed to the defense of his sex.

"It seems to me," he said, "that the women are refusing to abide by the rules of this contract. Jim and I have paid our legal fines without a single squawk, and now Helen talks about a fur coat as a special assessment. I, for one, protest!"

That was enough for his wife. "O, you protest, do you? You'd better save your protests until I decide what special fine I may impose. It may not be legal, but you will pay just as quickly! You men should be ashamed of yourselves for playing such rotten bridge!"

"Deal the cards!" said Mr. Black hastily.

The bidding:

Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	4 diam'ds	Pass	4 no trump
Pass	7 spades [final bid]

The moment the dummy went down I saw that Mrs. White's fur coat probably would vanish like the tents of the Arabs. There was simply no way to avoid the loss of a club trick.

Her husband followed the play of every card with an intentness that left no doubt that he was out for blood. And when the one trick defeat was duly entered he became once more the lord and master.

"So!" he thundered. "A mere matter of a grand slam in the wrong suit! Hearts weren't good enough for you. You had to cash in your honors in spades. Or perhaps you simply wanted to play the hand yourself to guard against my stupidity? Well, let me tell you, young woman, that, regardless of what Mr. Culbertson fines you, you'll not only go without a new fur coat, but you'll be lucky if I don't tear up your old one!"

His wife turned a pair of appealing blue eyes in my direction.

"None of that!" I said hastily. [I'm not susceptible, but why take chances?] "You'll have to pay a $10 fine. You're experienced enough at bridge to realize that there was a much better play for seven hearts than for seven spades. In case there was a club loser you certainly should have known that your spade suit would afford a splendid opportunity for discards, with an eventual ruff of your losing club by your partner. You made a good bid as far as quantity was concerned, but your selection of spades as the trump suit was inexcusable. Ten dollars, please."

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Is a bid of eight legal under the new laws?

Answer: A bid of eight is permissible only in order to correct an insufficient bid. It is neither legal nor ethical under any other circumstances.

Baby Should Acquire His Tan Gradually

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Sun baths for children should be given gradually, no matter when begun, no matter what the age of the child. I'd like to print this in red ink to stress its importance.

A tan and not a burn is the objective, for burning defeats the purpose.

Sun baths may be started in the early or late spring. They should be gradual as to time of exposure and the amount of the body that is exposed. The increase should be only a few minutes a day—faster for brunettes than for blonde babies.

Begin exposing only the baby's face and hands. If the weather permits the hat can be taken off or pushed back. After the face and hands have gotten used to exposure the arms can next be uncovered, then the feet, and later the legs.

The next stage is taking off the dress, then the shirt, then the band, so that by summer time the baby has reached the diaper stage for his sun bath. Of course this gradual elimination of clothing depends upon increasingly warmer weather. If spring is delayed, then, though the time of the baths lengthens, the area of his body should not be increasingly exposed.

The baby should face away from the sun. Sunlight shining directly in his eyes is bad for him.

President of Monmouth to Be Guest of Alumni

Dr. Thomas Hanna McMichael, who is retiring in June after serving 33 years as president of Monmouth college, will be the guest of Chicago alumni of the college at a dinner tonight at the Electric club in the Civic Opera building. The group will also celebrate the college's 80th year.

'Good People' Built Cross, Bishop Avers

Declares Christ Was Hated for His Mercy.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"The cross of Christ was not made by Jews, as such, or by Roman soldiers. It was made by 'good people' who came to hate Christ because he was merciful.

"If one of Christ's disciples today loves and lifts up the fallen; if he brings the outcast into respectable society, 'good people' are outraged."

Such was contended yesterday by Bishop Robert Nelson Spencer of Kansas City, Mo., as he explained how Christ dealt with human sin. He spoke at the noonday Lenten service at the Harris theater under auspices of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago.

"Society," Bishop Spencer continued, "does not want the Sermon on the Mount in industry, in commerce, or the social register. As it was on that other day when Pilate asked the crowd whether he should release Jesus or the 'notable criminal,' the response today, as then, is 'not this man, but the robber.' The church today must gain more of the mind that was in Christ Jesus if it is to help and not hinder the Redeemer in taking away the sins of the world."

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Elmer Brown, pastor of First Congregational church, Evanston, told the noonday Lenten congregation at Chicago temple that "Christianity is full of sanctified sagacity, that where Christianity is practiced people prosper." The Chicago temple services are held under auspices of the Chicago Church federation, coöperative agent of 1,049 churches.

Andrew Gih, evangelist from Shanghai, China, appealed to his noonday congregation at the Grand Opera house for increased missions interest in the orient.

THE GUMPS—MEOW!

WARNEKE GOES FULL ROUTE TO DEFEAT GROVE

Hartnett Gets First Hit Off Lefty.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sarasota, Fla., April 2.—Lon Warneke this afternoon pitched all the way against the Boston Red Sox to give the National league champs their third straight victory over American league pennant contenders. Lefty Grove was the losing pitcher in the Florida farewell which the Cubs won, 4 to 1.

Mel Almada, first man to face Warneke, walked and got home on singles by Heinie Manush and Jimmy Foxx. That was all the run manufacture for the expensive Bostons, though the Cubs had to work like everything to keep them from scoring on a double and two singles in the eighth. The eighth ended when McNair was out at the plate trying to score from second on Melillo's single.

The Cubs made enough runs in the second inning to win, on Hartnett's double to left center, singles by Demaree and Grimm, and a fly by Hack. Two more runs were driven in by double plays.

Grove Tough at Start.

Grove in the first inning showed the same malicious spirit that he displayed in the 1929 world series. After Galan had bounced to McNair, Grove fanned Herman and Klein. And then, in the Red Sox half of the inning, the Bostons made a run off Warneke. Almada walked, paused while Cramer flied to Demaree, and stopped at second on Manush's single to right. Foxx followed with a single to left, Almada scoring. Warneke then called a halt. Cronin and McNair were easy outs.

There was a smile on Hartnett's face as he went to the plate to start the Cub second inning. You remember Gabby pinch batted against Grove in the 1929 series and played against him in two all-star games. Up till today the Cub catcher hadn't registered as much as a foul ball off Grove. He looked bad on the first strike, but when Lefty came in with another good one, Gabby socked a double to left center, went to third on Demaree's single to left, and scored on Grimm's single to center. Demaree took third on the hit and scored on Hack's fly to Almada. Jurges fouled to Ferrell and Warneke lined to Cramer.

Cubs Score Again.

The Cubs added their third run in the third inning. Galan walked and went to third on Herman's single to center. Klein hit into a double play, launched by Melillo, Galan scoring. Hartnett ended the inning with a pop to Melillo. Warneke was tough in the second, third, fourth, and fifth innings, though he allowed a single in each of the sessions. He struck out Melillo in the second, Manush in the third, and Ferrell in the fourth.

Warneke added Foxx to his strikeout victims to start the Boston sixth, but Cronin followed with a double to right center. McNair flied to Galan and Ferrell walked. Melillo grounded to Cavarretta.

The Cubs' fourth run, like the third, was driven in by a double play. In the seventh inning Hack was safe on an error by Cronin and reached third on a fielder's choice and throwing error by McNair after English's bouncer. Warneke hit into a double play, Hack scoring.

Foxx Leads Off with Double.

Foxx led off the eighth with a double and held second while Hack made a swell play to throw out Cronin. McNair grounded to English and Foxx was trapped between third and second, English to Vitter. Ferrell singled, McNair stopping at second. Melillo singled to center and McNair was out at the plate, Galan to O'Dea.

The Red Sox threatened again in the ninth. After Miller had fanned Alamada singled to right and stopped at second while Cooke was beating out an infield scratch to Cavarretta. Manush forced Cooke. Almada and Foxx popped to Vitter.

LEAFS DEFEAT AMERICANS, 3-1; ENTER CUP FINAL

Thoms, Clancy Score in Last Period Rush.

TORONTO, April 2.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs gained a final berth in the Stanley cup playoffs of the National Hocky league tonight when they defeated the New York Americans 3 to 1 in the third and deciding game of their series. The Leafs engage the Detroit Red Wings, league champions, in the final.

The Leafs turned on one of their customary third period surges to score two goals which broke a 1 to 1 tie. With less than seven minutes of the final period remaining, an attack that the Americans had bottled up for more than two periods, broke loose with Bill Thoms and King Clancy scoring the winning goals.

Worters Drawn Out of Net.

The Americans had momentarily cast aside their defense play to rush into the Leaf defense area when Buzz Boll broke away and passed to Thoms, the latter drawing Roy Worters from the net to sink the winning goal. Six minutes later Thoms maneuvered Worters out of position again and passed to Clancy, who scored.

Harvey Jackson sent the Leafs into the lead in the first period when he teamed up with Davidson and Kelly to open the scoring, but Jerwa and Oiver figured in a passing play with Stewart a minute later, the big forward tying up the score.

Worters Makes 30 Stops.

The Americans' defensive play kept the Leafs in check, but the persistency of the latter finally told when Thoms netted the winning goal. Worters, hero of the Americans' victory in New York Tuesday, made 30 stops, twice as many as George Hainsworth in the Toronto nets.

Lineup:

CHANDLER EGAN LOSING IN FIGHT AGAINST ILLNESS

Everett, Wash., April 2.—(AP)—Chandler Egan, former national amateur golf champion, who is ill with lobar pneumonia, took a sudden change for the worse today, physicians reported. Egan contracted the illness Saturday while here as supervising architect of the American Legion Memorial park golf links.

Helen Hicks Undergoes Appendicitis Operation

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Helen Hicks, former national women's golf champion and now a business woman golfer, was recovering today in the Nassau hospital, Mineola, L. I., from an operation for appendicitis. She expects to make a world exhibition tour with Gene Sarazen, former British and United States open champion, after she recovers.

Lady Rolli's Finalist Wins Newbury Spring Cup Race

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEWBURY, England, April 2.—Finalist, owned by Lady Ralli, today won the Newbury spring cup race. Lady Nuttall's Guinea Gap finished second, two lengths behind the winner in the one mile feature. Pepino, owned by Lord Queensborough, was third. Canteneer, the only American-owned horse in the field of 23, was far behind the leaders.

STADIUM A BLAZE OF COLOR AS SKATERS HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Supporting cast for Sonja Henie's opening appearance in ice carnival at Chicago Stadium goes through wooden soldier routine. This performance is billed as the Stadiumettes Drill. The show will be repeated tonight, twice tomorrow, and once Sunday evening.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.
[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WHEN told of Clark Griffith's remark at the Yankee training camp that Gabby Hartnett was the greatest catcher he ever had seen, Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs said: "I'm glad to hear there is at least one wise American leaguer who has discovered that there is another great catcher in baseball besides Mickey Cochrane." . . . Pat Malone lost 12 pounds in the Yankees' spring training camp. . . . He was told he would have to reduce or else. . . . G. A. Richards, owner of the Detroit Lions, world's professional champions, who play the College All-Americans at Soldiers' field Sept. 1, is quarantined in his winter home at Beverly Hills, Cal., because of an attack of scarlet fever suffered by his 11 year old daughter, Rozene, mascot of the football club. . . . Eddie Gillette Jr., son of the former Wisconsin quarter back and one of Stanford's half backs last fall, probably will do the rest of his football playing for the Naval academy. . . . He recently received a congressional appointment to Annapolis. . . . Coach Lynn Waldorf uses a stop watch at Northwestern's spring football practices to check the speed with which plays are run off. . . .

The Giants carry a huge safety deposit box when on the road with separate drawers and keys for each player. . . . Paramount studio, Hollywood, has renewed the contract of Actor Nick Lukats, who was a half back at Notre Dame in Hunk Anderson's régime. . . . The annual department championship baseball games for the Policemen's Benevolent association of Chicago will be played in July at Wrigley field and at Comiskey park. . . . Umpire Bill Klem never has been hit by a batted ball in 30 years of officiating. . . . The national A. A. U. boxing tournament, scheduled for Cleveland April 15, 16, and 17, has drawn a record entry. . . . The leading four fighters in each weight will qualify for the Olympic finals to be held in Chicago in May. . . . Promoter Mike Jacobs has $52,000 in the bank for the Louis-Schmeling fight and hasn't sold a ticket. . . . He accepted $25,000 for picture rights and $27,000 for radio. . . .

Sonja Henie received $1,000 a minute for her professional debut in the east last week, getting $12,000 for three acts which took 12 minutes. . . . Outfielder Steve Kuk and Catcher Clarence Anderson, New York Giant rookies, were football teammates at Colgate in 1933. . . . After Clem Loughlin, manager of the Blackhawks, finishes his barnstorming trip in western Canada he will give the club's new training camp at Hibbing, Minn., an inspection and then will return to his Alberta ranch to raise a wheat crop. . . . Mike Karakas, Hawks' goalie, has gone back to his home in Eveleth, Minn., where Mrs. Karakas is awaiting the arrival of the stork. . . . Marvin Huffman, center and captain of the Newcastle, Ind., High school basketball team, which reached the semi-finals of the state tournament, has scored 708 points in 108 games during his four years of play. . . . He is a brother of Vernon Huffman, guard and co-captain of the Indiana university team. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—A run in the eleventh inning gave the Cubs a 2 to 1 victory over Hollywood at Los Angeles. . . . Johnny Mostil and Bib Falk hit home runs as the Sox defeated Shreveport, 9 to 3. . . . Johnny Risko and Young Stribling were signed to meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, on May 14. . . . Pueblo, Colo.; Fargo, N. D.; Salem, S. D., and Fitchburg, Mass., advanced to the semi-finals of the national interscholastic basketball tournament. . . . Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, was willing to meet Shuffle Callahan in Chicago if the boxing referendum passed on April 13.

'SIGN OR RETIRE,' IS REDS' EDICT TO BABE HERMAN

Cincinnati, O., April 2.—[Special.]—"Babe Herman will accept Cincinnati's terms or he won't play." This was General Manager Larry MacPhail's statement today following an exchange of telegrams between Manager Charley Dressen of the Reds and the holdout outfielder.

"If [illegible] serious about quitting he [illegible] on the voluntary retired list within 24 hours," MacPhail said "All he has to do is to make the request."

Herman yesterday declared he would stay out of baseball if the Reds did not accept his terms.

ALLISON HAS TROUBLE TO WIN FROM HENDRIX

Houston, Tex. April 2.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison had to call forth all his court cunning today to vanquish Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla.

Allison, the nation's No. 1 star and captain of the United States Davis cup team in the approaching match with Mexico, won the deciding set 6-4 to gain the quarter-finals of the River Oaks tournament. Their third round match had been halted by darkness yesterday after Hendrix captured the first set, 8-6, and Allison took the second, 7-5.

Hal Surface of Kansas City conquered Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., in another close match, 6-1, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Sonja Henie Skillful as Ever, Opening Performance Proves

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Sonja Henie, Norway's queen of the ice, thrice an Olympic champion and undefeated in figure skating for a decade, again proved to Chicago last night at the Stadium why she reigns supreme. In the first of five performances she will present here, Miss Henie went smoothly through her intricate routine with an effortless ease.

Eight thousand attended last night's show. They came to see Sonja Henie. They also saw a cast of exceptional skaters support the Norwegian lass in a series of fast moving, interesting events. Among these performers were Eddie Shipstead and Oscar Johnson, a comedy team always appreciated by Chicagoans; Everett McGowan and Ruth Mack, skating couple, and Jack Dunn, British figure skating champion, a competitor in the recent Olympic games, who was chosen by Miss Henie for her professional tour of the United States.

Makes Three Appearances.

Miss Henie's first of three appearances during the evening was a signal for spontaneous applause. She raced through a shortened program of her Olympic routine and three times she was called back for encores. For this first number Miss Henie, long famous for her costumes which frequently she designs, was clad in white chiffon velvet with painted orchids decorating the abbreviated skirt, flesh colored tights, an orchid on her shoulder, and her blonde hair tightly held by a ribboned white chiffon hat.

Miss Henie's interpretation of "The Dying Swan," familiar to Chicago because of her performance here two years ago, was her second number. This exquisite act, in which Miss Henie literally dances on skates, might have been the climax of her performance had she chosen any other routine than a mazurka for her finale. As it was, Miss Henie's swirling pirouettes, her fluttering movements were so pleasing that the crowd demanded

KIEFER BREAKS WORLD RECORD IN A. A. U. SWIM

Fick Ties International Free Style Mark.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Records—world and American—were like so many brittle sticks in the hands of a Hercules at the National A. A. U. swimming meet in the Lake Shore Athletic club pool last night.

Six championships were decided. One world record was broken, another was tied. Three American records were shattered. The other event was a low board diving class for women decided on points. Records are not established on points, otherwise that one might have fallen.

The new champions to come to the front during the most spectacular session of swimming in Amateur Athletic union annals were:

Men's 150 yard back stroke—Adolph Kiefer, Lake Shore A. C., Chicago.

Men's 100 yard free style—Peter Fick, New York Athletic club.

Women's 400 yard team relay—Washington Athletic club, Seattle.

Women's low board diving—Marian Mansfield, Lake Shore A. C., Chicago.

Men's 300 yard individual medley—John Higgins, Providence.

Women's 100 yard breast stroke—Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach Swimming club.

Kiefer Breaks Back Stroke Mark.

Kiefer broke the world's record when he won the 150 yard back stroke title. Fick tied the world's mark while winning the 100 yard free style crown. He did it in a qualifying heat.

John Higgins, Miss Rawls, and the Washington A. C. relay team smashed American records while racing along toward the championships they carried away.

Never in the history of a national meet, nor in any other indoor meet for that matter, has there been such a spectacular exhibition of backstroke speed swimming as the one Kiefer shook out of his system.

He churned his way into the lead ten seconds after the race was under way and drew away steadily from his rivals during the final stages. At no time did he slow up for a breathing spell. His margin of victory was three-quarters of the length of the pool. Taylor Drysdale of the Detroit Athletic club finished second and Taylor's team mate, Sandy Sinkiewicz, was third. They seldom were within even speaking distance of the swiftly moving Kiefer.

Kiefer's world's record time was 1:32.7. He held the old record which was 1:35.6.

W. A. C. Timed in 4:13.4.

To break the American record the Washington Athletic club's women's 400 yard relay team had to skim the distance in 4 minutes 13 4-10 seconds. The same team had hung up the old mark of 4:13.6. It was the fourth year in a row in which the Seattle team has captured this title.

The team included Betty Lou Petty, Olive McKean, Betty Lea, and Doris Buckley. The Seattle swimmers led from start to finish.

Peter Fick of the New York Athletic club had to defeat his teammate, Walter Spence from the N. Y. A. C., successfully to defend his championship in the 100 yard free style class. Art Highland of the Lake Shore Athletic club was driving desperately near the end, but could land only third place. Fick missed the world's record held by Johnny Weissmuller by seven-tenths of a second. His time was :51.5.

Miss Mansfield Wins Diving Title.

The Lake Shore Athletic colors went up again when Marian Mansfield carried away the women's national low board diving championship. Marian is a freshman at Northwestern. She defeated her Lake Shore A. C. teammate, Arlite Smith, by two points. Dorothy Poynton Hill, the defending champion, was third.

John Higgins of Providence put on a spectacular finish to win the men's 300 yard individual medley as did Katherine Rawls of Miami when she successfully defended her 100 yard women's breast stroke title. Miss Rawls just managed to defeat Crystal Diete of the Lake Shore A. C. Two

PIRATES MAKE 4 HOME RUNS, 5 DOUBLE PLAYS

Rookie Outfielders Drop Easy Flies.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tyler, Tex., April 2.—The presence of a couple of rookie fly chasers in today's White Sox ensemble proved of vast help to the Pittsburgh Pirates, but it was embarrassing to the Chicagoans. The rookies, George Stumpf and Malin McCulloch, blundered and thereby gave away enough runs to enable the National leaguers to capture the sixth battle of the citrus circuit tour by 12 to 8. It made the fifth defeat for the Sox since hooking up with Pie Traynor's athletes.

The situation from the Sox standpoint also was complicated somewhat by feebleness of the three pitchers sent into action. Monty Stratton, justly termed a prize rookie, was lashed for five hits and five runs, three of them homers, in the first four innings. Then Les Tietje surrendered three runs in four innings, but his worst session was started by Stumpf dropping a fly ball. Lastly came Ira Hutchinson in the ninth and he was dusted off with four runs, part of which were due to McCulloch duplicating Stumpf's sand lot offense.

Stratton Pitches Homers.

To offset their three errors, the Pirates turned in five double plays, a fairly commendable performance.

Stratton's difficulties in the first inning were so extensive that nine Pirates took a hand and four scored. Jensen lined to Piet, but Waner sailed a homer over the fence in right center. Schulte was thrown out, after which Vaughan walked and Suhr was hit. Both romped home when Lavagetto spanked a homer over the left field signboards.

Stratton got himself tangled up with the home run ball again in the third when Suhr hit one over the short right field barrier. This provided the National leaguers with a 5 to 0 lead, and the Sox still were searching for their first hit off Blanton. They found it in their half of the third, a scratch single by Grube.

Birkofer's arrival on the mound in the fourth was marked by three runs for the Chicagoans. Stumpf walked and went to third on a single by Kreevich. Haas doubled to left center, Stumpf scoring. Kreevich hiked home on McCulloch's fly to Jensen. A fly to Waner finished Appling. Piet lifted a tall popup over the infield and Lavagetto dropped it, Haas scoring from second.

Two more went across for the Pirates when Tietje took up the Sox pitching in the fifth. Stumpf made a two base error on Schulte's fly. Vaughan walked. The next two men were retired, but Young and Padden singled to score Schulte and Vaughan. The Pirates registered again in the sixth on Jensen's homer.

Patience Rewards Sox.

All the Sox had to do to gather three runs in their half of the sixth was to be patient. Birkofer did the rest. The portly southpaw passed McCulloch and then threw wild to first on Appling's roller. Next came free tickets for Piet, Morrissey, and Ruel, forcing McCulloch and Appling to score. M. Brown then replaced Birkofer and Tietje hit into a double play on which Piet counted.

The Sox pulled up to one shy of a tie in the eighth. With Ruel on first as the result of a pass Radcliff batted for Tietje and double, Ruel scoring.

The Pirates fixed themselves comfortably for the day by ringing up four runs off Hutchinson in the ninth.

The Sox picked up one in their half of the ninth on doubles by Dykes, who went to first base late in the game, and Piet, but they needed more.

MASTERS OPEN TOURNEY TODAY; SUN ROUTS RAIN

Georgia Makes Bobby Jones 6-1 Favorite.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., April 2. — A game Georgia sun, throwing punches from every side, late this afternoon scored a technical knockout victory over the rain clouds which have hung over these parts for a day and a half. The impatient field of 54 professionals and amateur golfers in third annual Masters' tournament at the Augusta National club thus was ready to go to the post in the first eighteen holes tomorrow morning.

Until that sun was awarded the decision this afternoon, the guests in this all-star party were beginning to wonder whether they ever were going to play. A day long rainstorm yesterday had forced postponement of the first round, originally scheduled for today, and thus forced the final 36 holes into one day, Sunday. The rain continued through the night, and in the early morning hours reached its height. Players awoke to learn that Cordele, Ga., 150 miles from here, had been nearly wiped out by the fury of the storm and found it still pouring here.

Rain Doesn't Stop Sarazen.

The sun then began its stubborn battle to chase the clouds into a corner, and before noon had them on the run. When it finally did break through, however, at least one of the guests had a morning's work done.

It was fitting that this one should be up betimes and at his chores, for he was Squire Gene Sarazen, the gentleman farmer of Brookfield Center, Conn. Last year in this same Masters' event, Farmer Sarazen reaped the largest harvest of them all—first prize of $1,500—with a shot for the books.

That shot was the 230 yard spoon smash for a double eagle on the 485 yard 15th with which he tied Craig Wood in the regular 72 holes and then came on to beat him in the extra innings.

Gene Likes Heavy Course.

This morning while many of his rivals were still abed Gene was out on the well drenched practice tee tuning up his irons. The little Italian who has won almost every major title at least once and some of them twice feels that the day's rest favors his chances, not to mention the effect of the rain, for he is partial to a heavy course.

Nobody in the field, however, is better qualified than Gene to know that this is no ordinary competition he is facing in defense of his title. There is always, and more so this year, the hidden terror of the Jones-against-the-field theme, for Robert Tyre Jones Jr., around whom this world series of golf is built, appears to have gone serious. He is not the skeet-shooting tennis-playing Jones who played almost no golf prior to the first two Masters' shows, but a young man who is turning in at the present moment the best golf since his retirement six years ago.

It may be just a sentimental old Georgia custom to make a native son a 6 to 1 favorite in his third competitive effort since he put his clubs away officially, but that is the price against Jones tonight. He is rated above Johnny Revolta, Chicago's national pro and western open champion, and Johnny's pal, lean Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., whose golfing tools have been so hot these last three weeks that he himself can hardly handle them. Revolta and Picard are quoted at 8 to 1, while Sarazen and Lawson Little, late boss of the amateurs, who will make his debut in the cash league tomorrow, are set at 10 to 1.

CINCINNATI REDS SEND 14 PLAYERS TO MINOR TEAMS

Cincinnati, O., April 2.—[Special.]—Officials of the Cincinnati National league baseball club today announced that 14 players have been sent to minor league teams. The clubs and the players they received from the Reds follow:

TORONTO—Hank Erickson, catcher; Ed Miller, shortstop; Lincoln Blakeley, outfielder; Les Scarsella, first baseman; Francis Wistert, Leroy Herrman and Earl Cook, pitchers.
NASHVILLE—Ray Davis and Junie Barnes, pitchers.
MACON, Ga.—Allen Hunt, outfielder; Joe Gantenbein, third baseman; Gene Handley, outfielder; Whitey McMullen, first baseman.

Rightmire and Belloise Head Marigold Card

The Card

Everett Rightmire vs. Mike Belloise [15], 126.
Tommy Howell vs. Joey Richards [5], 143.
George Dungey vs. Mickey McLaughlin [4], 150.
Red Sharkey vs. Tony Michaels [4], 135.
Art Brewer vs. Ben Irving [4], 135.

Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., and Mike Belloise, New York, tonight will meet in the semi-final round of a featherweight elimination boxing tournament at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. The bout is set for 15 rounds at 126 pounds, a weight which will find both contestants strong.

The winner will be in line for a contest with Alberto Arizmendi of Los Angeles, Cal., a meeting which will be recognized as a title affair by the Illinois and New York athletic commissions. It is understood that Mexico, California, Missouri, and North Dakota also will give the impending bout between Arizmendi and Belloise or Rightmire championship cognizance. Commissions representing the latter three states have a working agreement with Illinois and New York, and Mexico, birthplace of Arizmendi, already accepts Alberto as champion.

The New York commission paved the way for the tournament in December by vacating the title held by Freddy Miller when the Cincinnati, O., southpaw ignored an order to defend the crown against Arizmendi. Illinois followed suit when the eastern body agreed to have this state's leading challenger fight New York's No. 1 contender for the right to face Arizmendi.

There will be five supporting matches.

The fight card scheduled at Chicago Stadium next Wednesday was canceled yesterday. The next available date at the west side arena will be in May. Co-Matchmakers James C. Mullen and Nate Lewis expect to offer a windup involving John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, and Red Burman at that time.

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight at Bryn Mawr Community church, 70th street and Jeffery; Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street, and Howard school gymnasium in Wilmette. Eight contests between representatives of the Catholic Youth organization will be held at the Howard school. Tony Musto and Scotty Weathers, heavyweights, are matched to meet for five rounds at the Madison club. Harry Frederickson and Homer Williams are paired for five rounds in one of six other bouts. The card at Wilmette, presented under the auspices of Wilmette post of the American Legion, includes:

Andy Scrivani vs. Westerfield Million, 135.
Hiner Thomas vs. Tom Sullivan, 160.
Jake Lampkins vs. Al Urlich, 147.
Tony Motisi vs. Harry Sparrow, 130.
Mario Christopher vs. Walter Balasa, 126.
Pat Berns vs. Joe Du Pont, 130.

CHURCH LEAGUE TO MEET.

The Church A. A. of Chicago baseball league will meet at 7 South Dearborn street Monday evening.

South District Golfing League Re-Elects Martin

Russell W. Martin of the Flossmoor Country club was reëlected chairman of the South District Golf league at its annual spring meeting and luncheon yesterday at the Hamilton club. Dr. R. E. Umbenhaur of Lincolnshire was reappointed secretary-treasurer. The first matches will be held at Flossmoor on May 21. The other dates set by officials follow:

Olympia Fields, June 11; Idlewild, June 25; Ravisloe, July 9; South Shore, July 30; Lincolnshire, Aug. 13; Calumet, Aug. 27.

The finals will be held at Midlothian on Sept. 13.

The Chicago District Golf association yesterday announced the dates and sites of two junior events. The junior open tournament will be held at Westward Ho June 22 to 27 and the closed championship meet at Medinah, starting on July 20.

One hundred and twenty-eight will qualify for the junior open. The age limit is 18 years. The closed tournament is restricted to juniors affiliated with district association clubs.

Invite Bobby Jones to Play Goodman in Exhibitions

Omaha, Neb., April 2.—(AP)—The Omaha junior chamber of commerce mailed an invitation tonight to Bobby Jones and Charley Yates to compete against Omaha's Johnny Goodman and Rodney Bliss in two charity exhibition matches here July 12 as a prelude to the western amateur golf tournament to be played at the Omaha Happy Hollow club during the same week.

Final Olympic Basket Tests Open Tonight

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Eight of the country's outstanding basketball teams were ready tonight for their three day battle to earn places on the American Olympic team.

Five college, two A. A. U., and one Y. M. C. A. team comprise the field. Dr. James Naismith, 73 year old founder of basketball, will start the firing at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow when he sends the University of Washington on the court at Madison Square Garden against De Paul of Chicago.

The field covers every section. Besides Washington and De Paul, college teams are entered from Arkansas university, Utah state, and Temple. The A. A. U. sent the champion McPherson [Kas.] Oilers and the Universal Pictures team from Hollywood, runnerup to the Oilers in the A. A. U. tournament. Wilmerding, Pa., carries the Y. M. C. A. banner.

Other first round games follow:

7 P. M.—Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. vs. Utah state.
8:30 P. M.—Universal Pictures vs. Arkansaw
10 P. M.—McPherson Oilers vs. Temple.

Wilmerding, national Y. M. C. A. champion in 1935 and runner up to Denver this year, replaced the latter team yesterday when Denver was ruled ineligible.

The Oilers, who raced through to the A. A. U. title, are early favorites, with Arkansas and Universal Pictures the next best liked teams. The Oilers are known as the tallest team in the country.

CLEVELAND POLO TEAM NAMES HAMMOND NO. 2

Steve Hammond was named yesterday to start at No. 2 position in the lineup of the Cleveland Riding club team tomorrow night against the New York Athletic club trio in the second game of the senior championship polo series at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street. Cleveland was defeated in its first encounter Wednesday night, 13 to 5½.

Another factor that will aid the Cleveland trio will be improvement in its ponies, several new ones having been added to its string.

In the event that New York wins tomorrow night, an east-west open championship game will be played Tuesday at the Washington Park armory.

Tomorrow night's double-header in the armory arena will settle the national junior title, with Squadron C of Brooklyn riding against the Cleveland entry.

Women's Mid-South Golf Meet Postponed by Rain

BEES BUY OSBORNE.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 2.—(AP)—The Boston Bees, their scheduled game with Jacksonville washed out by rain, announced the purchase today of Pitcher Wayne Osborne from the Brooklyn Dodgers. The acquisition, President Bob Quinn said, was on a cash basis, with the right to examine Osborne, a 23 year old right hander, until May 15 before closing the deal. The price was not made public. The Dodgers bought Osborne from the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league.

Pick Cards to Win Pennant; Cubs 2d in Poll

New York, April 2.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, nosed out by the Chicago Cubs' sensational stretch drive last fall, will be back at the top of the National league in September in the opinion of the majority of the ninety-eight sports editors and baseball writers participating in the Associated Press' tenth annual poll.

The battle of ballots between Frankie Frisch's rollicking crew and Charley Grimm's champions was close, with forty-three of the experts favoring the Cardinals and thirty-nine voting for the Cubs to repeat.

Backers of the Cardinals figured Frisch had added strength to the team by acquiring Leroy Parmelee, speedball pitcher, from the New York Giants. The Cubs will take the field with the same team that compiled twenty-one straight victories in the closing month of the 1935 campaign to clinch the flag.

The league champions did not receive a vote below third place, but one expert thought the Cards would finish no better than fourth.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 2.—Dear Wake: In the early '90s and many years thereafter, I belonged to the Old Illinois Cycling club, then rated the largest in the world. Our first clubhouse was on the south side of Washington boulevard just west of Rockwell. Later we moved to our spacious home at the northeast corner of Washington and Francisco, costing $50,000, then considered a large sum for a club building. One evening we were bowling on the first floor after a short run on our high wheel bikes when one of the boys came in and made us go out to see a curiosity, a homemade safety bicycle. For tires, the owner had wired on hose of the garden variety. For wheels he used wooden wheels from a baby buggy. The frame was made from one inch pipe, and other parts from an old high bike.

We decided the scheme might be feasible. Soon afterward, a chap whose name I think was Charlie Hammerly constructed the first one seen around these parts. It was only a short time until the safety displaced the high bike.

Illinois Cycling club members and its racing team made many records on the new type wheel, and the writer was one of them. Palmer square was the old testing ground. Racers were Alec Kennedy, Dutch Miller, Earl Van Sande, Tom Cooper, and the girl wonder, Annis Porter.

George Engram, another member, brought out the afterward prevalent banana bicycle saddle..

Back in my boyhood days, appearance of the little street piano after long, long, cold winter was hailed as the first real proof of spring. Generally the owner's wife pulled the load from store to store as the man turned the crank. Both wore heavy gold earrings. While she begged and solicited, he played "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-De-Ay," and often "Il Trovatore." At noontime they lunched on the street with sandwiches and light wine carried somewhere in the piano's interior.

Dad.

We took old Dad for granted
 When we were kids at play;
We never thought how things were bought,
 Nor if old Dad could pay.
We took old Dad for granted,
 But never quite so much
As years went by and we would try
 The regular weekly touch.

We took old Dad for granted,
 Dark hair had turned to white;
We didn't know he was to go
 So peacefully one night.

"I don't take Dad for granted,"
 I've heard my daughter say.
She tries to show and let me know
 I'm never in the way.

Minus Pools.

Several readers have written asking what are "minus pools," as known in Florida. They are pools, usually show, sometimes place, in which the track loses money despite its legal "take."

It occurs when big betters wager thousands of dollars on odds-on favorites to show, seemingly a sure thing. Racing law here prescribes that betters may not receive less than 10 per cent on their money on a winning ticket. One minus show pool recently cost the track $487. Both of Brevity's races showed minus show pools.

Attractive Golf Course.

Two young women and a young man returned from a drive to Palm Beach and returned by the ocean route wildly enthusiastic about Del Ray and its wonderful municipal golf course of velvety turf. None others recalled a municipal course of that description at the point mentioned. Further inquiry from the motorists as to location brought out that Gulf Stream, one of the niftiest in all Florida, where requests for membership are carefully scanned before admission, was meant. An attendant, evidently with a keen sense of humor, had told the young people it was a municipal course where any one might play.

Bonura Joins Sox and Signs His Contract

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tyler, Tex., April 2.—Zeke Bonura joined the White Sox this morning and looked fairly healthy for one who recently experienced the blasting of his $12,500 salary dream. The first thing he was called on to do was to sign a contract at the $8,500 salary he previously accepted by telegraph. Secretary Joe Barry attended to this detail, Manager Dykes preferring to remain aloof.

Dykes was in the hotel lobby when Bonura came dashing in with his customary enthusiastic greeting for everybody. Dykes was all set to put on the ice, but couldn't keep his face straight.

"How are you, Jimmy?" yelled Zeke with his hand extended.

Dykes replied, "O. K.," shook hands and smiled a bit.

"Well, that's a pretty good greeting, better than I expected," said Zeke to his boss.

Zeke then went on to explain that he was in fairly good condition. His weight is well down, but he hasn't had any batting practice and it will take him some time to get his hitting eye sharpened. Bonura's explanation that he wasn't entirely out of physical trim failed to arouse any signs of enthusiasm in the manager.

"I know just what to expect," said Bonura before Dykes could issue any instructions. "You're going to run me to death, I suppose."

"You said it," responded Dykes. "When I get through running you your mileage is going to be damn high and your weight pretty low."

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—Tommy Farr, recent conqueror of Tommy Loughran, tonight was awarded a ten round decision over Bob Olin of New York, former light heavyweight champion. Olin scored two knockdowns.

Keep your HAIR IN BETTER HEALTH!

(1) 50 SECONDS to rub—natural oils are restored, circulation quickens, your hair takes on new life, has a chance.

(2) 10 SECONDS to comb and brush—hair looks lustrous, but with no "patent-leather" look.

USE VITALIS AND THE "60-SECOND WORKOUT"

EVERY MAN'S hair needs sensible care—like any other part of his person. So help it to new health—help it to save itself, to look better, to be better—with Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout."

Get right down into the hair-roots themselves—where health begins—with a hard massage that quickens circulation . . . loosens tight scalps . . . helps increase the flow of the natural, health-bringing oils. The pure vegetable oils of Vitalis help replenish natural, necessary oils.

Your hair will respond to Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout" with a healthier lustre—not a "patent-leather" shine. Loose dandruff disappears. Your scalp relaxes. Your hair stays where you comb it. It looks smooth, natural, well-dressed.

Use Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout" whenever you like. And here's a stunt you probably haven't thought of: Use Vitalis and a vigorous workout before your shampoo—as well as afterward. You'll have a cleaner scalp, cleaner hair—and a lot of new health and vitality for both.

ASK YOUR BARBER—He's an expert on the care of scalp and hair. When he says Vitalis—take his advice. He knows best.

VITALIS AND THE "60-SECOND WORKOUT" FOR HEALTHY, HANDSOME HAIR

Cubs to Start Kowalik Today Against Boston

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sarasota, Fla., April 2.—Mike Kowalik, currently rated the Cubs' No. 5 starting pitcher, tomorrow will seek to carry on his splendid spring program when the Cubs meet the Red Sox at Thomasville, Ga. Manager Cronin has given Mike a pretty big ticket. He's going to pit Wes Ferrell against the Cubs.

The Cubs returned to Tampa, 56 miles north of here, after today's game to pick up their satchels and catch a train that will haul the Red Sox direct from Sarasota to Thomasville, Ga. Intricate trafic business.

The Cubs have quarreled with Red Ormsby in the two games he's worked, that with the Yanks and today's, which isn't nice, Red being one of the really swell guys of his craft.

After the engagement in Thomasville tomorrow the Cubs will go to Montgomery, Ala., for week-end engagements with the Phillies. They spent the night of March 23 in Montgomery, but just to snooze. The Cubs are more in the middle than ever on their ballots anent the weather of California vs. the weather in Florida. They had perfect weather every day they were in California and every day in Florida.

At Height of Her Art.

The mazurka revealed Miss Henie at the height of her art in a remarkable interpretation of the romantic dance. It gave opportunity for her delicate skill as a ballet dancer, her stroke certain and powerful, yet suggesting the lightness of a feather as she twisted, poised, then raced away.

Jack Dunn, exceptionally lithe and possessing an unusual willowy figure for one so large, appeared to best advantage in his second number in which he wore a red coat, with gold epaulets, a gold stripe down the side of his black tights. Dunn's best effort was a slow pirouette with slowly diminishing momentum. Miss Henie gave evidence of her interest in the young Englishman by watching his first act from the dressing room entrance and offering a hand clasp as he left the ice to a thunder of appreciation by the audience.

The Stadium carnival will be repeated tonight, tomorrow night, and Sunday night. There also will be a matinée tomorrow afternoon.

VANDERBILT WINS BOTH FEATURES AT BOWIE TRACK

Dreel Is Handy Victor in Sprint at 1 to 2.

Baltimore, Md., April 2.—[Special.]—The power of the Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt string, largest in the country, made itself felt at Bowie today when bearers of the cerise and white blocks won the two features and finished second and third in other races. It was at this meeting last year that the campaign was launched which made Vanderbilt the largest money winning owner. Dreel, Pocket Piece, Parva Stella, and Slump all did their part this afternoon toward attaining the same goal for 1936.

Dreel was first by a length and a half in the main event, taking the lead in the stretch from his stablemate, Bachelor Dinner, when that fellow faltered outside the sixteenth pole. The entry was at 1 to 2. Leo [Skinny] Fallon had the leg up on Dreel, and waited behind his stablemate's pace until it was clear that Bachelor Dinner was through.

Fallon then came on with Dreel and made safe the victory despite whip and heel which were used by Eddie Arcaro aboard Warren Wright Jr., which took the place by half a length from Bacon, one that ran for Mose Lowenstein. Bachelor Dinner stopped so fast he was beaten a length for third, but nevertheless went past the judges in front of Headin Home and Red John which completed the field as named.

Over a track that was sloppy from the night's rain, the winner was clocked in 1:14 4-5. He shouldered 116 pounds and was making his first start since the Jamaica meeting last September.

His Pocket Piece took the secondary feature, just before the Dreel race, when he refused to stop in a stretch drive where Detonator was the challenger.

DUNLAP SETS COURSE RECORD IN GOLF TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2.—(AP)—George T. Dunlap Jr., defending his north and south amateur golf title, set a new amateur record of 69 over the par 71 No. 2 Pinehurst course today in advancing to the semi-final round. Dunlap's round was at the expense of Richard Tufts of Pinehurst, whom he defeated, 7 and 6.

Tomorrow he meets Arthur Lynch of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who won his third round match from Charles Clare, New Haven, Conn., 1 up. Meeting in the lower bracket will be W. E. Stockhausen, New York, who eliminated J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., at the twentieth hole, and A. C. Giles, New York, who defeated Pat Mucci, Newark, N. J., 5 and 4.

STATE Y. M. C. A. VOLLEY BALL TO START TODAY

The annual state Y. M. C. A. volley ball tournament will be held at the west side professional schools of the Y. M. C. A., 1804 Congress street, today and tomorrow. The tournament will be conducted in class A and class B divisions.

Play in the B division will begin tonight. The winners and runners up will then compete in the A division tomorrow afternoon and evening. Wheaton, Oak Park, Evanston, Larrabee, Lawson, Central, Peoria, Freeport and west side professional schools are entered in the B division. Division Street and Duncan are entered in the A division.

2 CHICAGO OWNED YACHTS FINISH RACE TO HAVANA

†Dead heat for third place.

Time, 1:07 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Old Ironsides, $5.20 straight, $3.20 place, $2.30 show; Zowie, $3.70 place, $3.00 show; Tramway, $3.10 show; Balaath, $2.70 show. Winner, ch. g., 3, by Jean Valjean-Kuflya. Owner, Bomar stable. Trainer, J. T. Kermath. Start good. Won driving, place same.

OLD IRONSIDES pressed the early pace into the front stretch, overhauled the leader at the sixteenth pole and outgamed Zowie at the end. The latter worked up on the inside all the way and finished resolutely in close quarters. TRAMWAY closed with a powerful rush to dead heat BALATH for the third place. PRINCE DANNY was burnt out setting a fast pace for five furlongs.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs, 2 year old. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :48. Two dollar mutuels paid: Cathy P., $8.10 straight, $2.70 place, $2.20 show; Legion, $2.30 place, $2.20 show; Ubald G., $2.20 show. Winner, b. f., 2, by Whiskalong-Intense. Owner, Mrs. Clyde Phillips. Trainer, Clyde Phillips. Start good. Won driving, place same.

CATHY P. sprinted out into a commanding lead from the barrier, was eased around the turn but had to be hard urged to stave off LEGION at the end. The latter was in closest pursuit of the leader throughout and finished under whip urging. UBALD G. raced evenly throughout. HILDUR QUEEN was best of the others.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs, 4 year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

CHANCE FAVOUR	107	6	7	7	7	7	7	F.Maschek	70.00-1

Time, 1:12 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dean Swift, $8.50 straight, $4.00 place, $2.40 show; Shepherd Boy, $5.20 place, $2.80 show; Air Line, $2.20 show. Winner, b. g., 4, by Haste-Diamond. Owner, Miss L. C. White. Trainer, W. E. Charles Jr. Start good. Won driving, place same.

DEAN SWIFT, away alertly on the outside, was taken off the early pace, came to the outside of the leader entering the front stretch and wore down the latter in the final sixteenth. SHEPHERD BOY set all of the early pace and hung in the final strides. AIR LINE was always a contender. QUEEN VIC was burnt out racing with the early pace and quit in the final furlong.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs, 4 year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50, fourth, $25.

LADY PAL	107	1	4	$3^{½}$	4^{1}	4^{2}	8	F.Maschek	12.45-1

Time, 1:12. Two dollar mutuels paid: Regula Baddon, $6.50 straight, $3.20 place, $2.90 show; Scotch Queen, $2.80 place, $2.80 show; Close Call, $4.30 show. Winner, blk. g., 7, by High Time-Chateaubriand. Owner, Mrs. W. Rosen. Trainer, W. Rosen. Start good. Won driving, place same.

REGULA BADDUN took command from the barrier, opened a daylight lead and held SCOTCH QUEEN at bay in final stretch drive. The latter moved up sharply entering the stretch turn, but Hanford's sloppy finish tossed away her chances. CLOSE CALL lacked his usual stretch speed. BALMACAN raced evenly all the way.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs, 3 year olds. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

LUM JOY	112	6	6	6^{h}	$6^{½}$	6^{h}	7	C.Watters	12.00-1

Time, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Over Yonder, $5.90 straight, $4.60 place, $4.30 show; Good Omen, $10.20 place, $6.60 show; Inflame, $4.10 show. Winner, b. c., 3, by High Cloud-Idleness. Owner, Miss Mary Hirsch. Trainer, Miss Mary Hirsch.

OVER YONDER much the best. Outfooted his field to move out into a safe lead in the first three furlongs and just coasted the remainder of the way. GOOD OMEN, close up throughout, held on resolutely at the end. INFLAME raced evenly. CRATAEGUS turned in a promising effort, finishing strongly. MISS SUBWAY can do better.

SIXTH RACE—One mile, 3 year olds. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, 1:40 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Johnny Tight, $32.60 straight, $12.60 place, $7.40 show; Jerry H., $5.90 place, $4.00 show; Sun Camp, $9.30 show. Winner, ch. g., 3, by Morvich-Mary Belle. Owner, J. W. Parrish. Trainer, J. M. Goode.

JOHNNY TIGHT was placed in closest pursuit of the early leader, took command at the quarter pole and just lasted under a vigorous handride. JERRY H. well back for a quarter mile, moved up on the outside with a rush to engage JOHNNY TIGHT at the stretch corner. SUN CAMP ran an improved race.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and a sixteenth, 4 year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

MOTLEY snugged off the pace for five furlongs, moved up with a rush to take command at the quarter pole, pulling out into a safe lead to win with plenty to spare. RED ROAMER, always close up, ran in spots. NIGHT SERGE set the early pace and tired. DRUSUS closed some ground but was never dangerous.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and a sixteenth, 4 year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

POLISHER, away alertly and saving ground on the rail all the way, set his own pace and won under a hard handride. MATHIAS closed strongly in the quarter mile to outgame TOLIMATA. The latter was always a forward factor. PROHIBITION turned in a good effort. NOURRICE had a rough trip. THE AENEAD quit.

NATIONAL A. A. U. WRESTLING MEET TO BEGIN TODAY

Grapplers Clash at De Paul Gymnasium.

The National A. A. U. wrestling tournament will open this afternoon at De Paul university gymnasium, 2219 Sheffield avenue. Semi-finals will be held tomorow afternoon and the finals tomorrow night.

Championships will be decided in the nine weight classes—112 pound, 118 pound, 123 pound, 134 pound, 145 pound, 158 pound, 174 pound, 191 pound, and heavyweight. The first four place winners in each class from 123 pounds up will qualify for the final Olympic tryouts to be held at Lehigh university at Bethlehem, Pa., April 17 and 18.

As is usual, the meet will be dominated by boys from Oklahoma, the national wrestling capital. Wrestlers from the New York Athletic club, the Baltimore Y. M. C. A., New Orleans Athletic club, and the University of California are expected to make a strong bid for the team championship.

Individual Big Ten titleholders, Chicago, Northwestern, Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana, as well as Cornell's strong team, are among the other entries that also include Pennsylvania and Temple university.

The Oklahoma squad includes two national A. A. U. title defenders, Ross Flood, 122 pound champion, and Lloyd Hicks, 191 pound titleholder.

MILLS DEFERS HIS DECISION ON COACHING POST

Champaign, Ill., April 2.—[Special.]—Doug Mills, University of Illinois freshman football and assistant basketball coach, who was offered the position of head basketball coach yesterday, did not accept today.

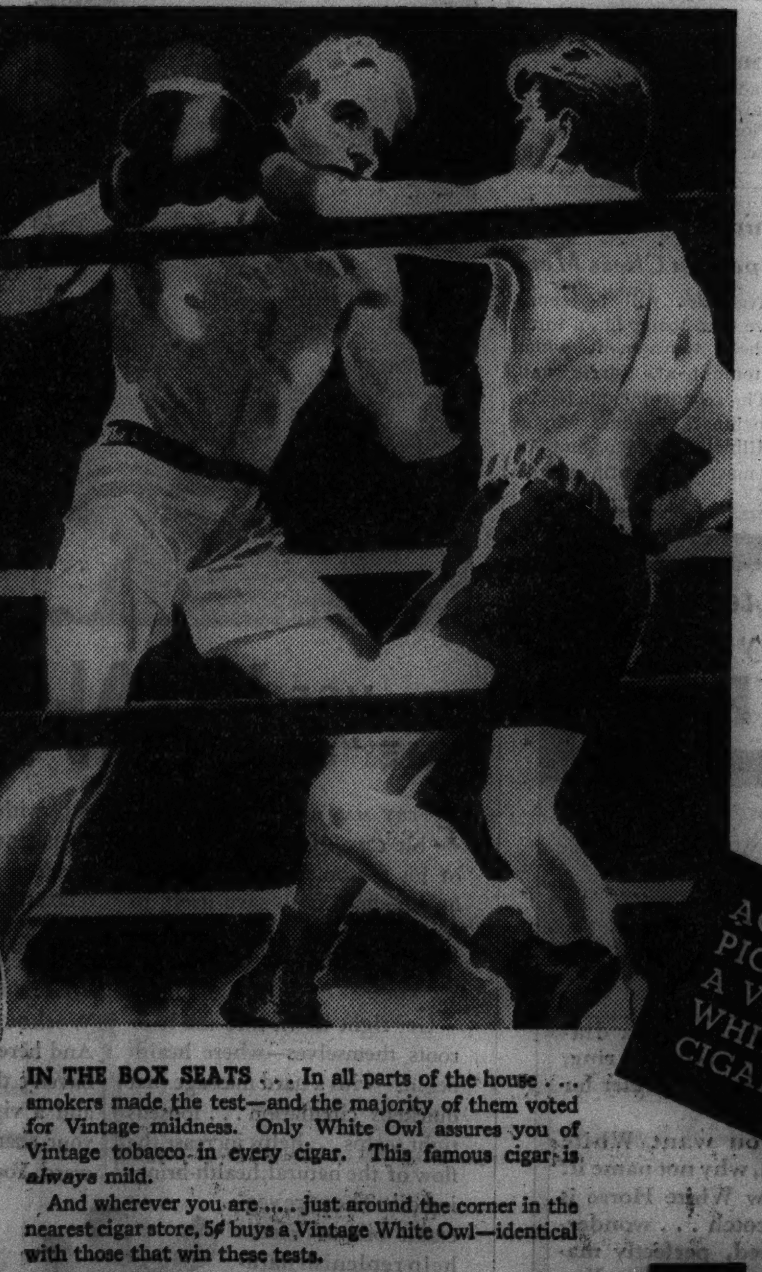
Mills conferred with Athletic Director George Huff, then left the city to fill a speaking engagement. Director Huff said that the question of Mills' acceptance was still unsettled and that further consideration, including the matter of salary adjustment, would be necessary before there was a final decision.

Taste Test No. 1—GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS

74% pick Vintage White Owl as best-tasting

IN THE GALLERY . . . many of the fight fans made the taste test. By a vote of almost 3 to 1, they chose Vintage White Owl as the milder, better tasting cigar. Tasting is believing—try a Vintage White Owl yourself and discover the best smoke.

You'll find more enjoyment . . . greater smoking pleasure in a Vintage cigar. You can taste the mildness that nature bestows on this tobacco.

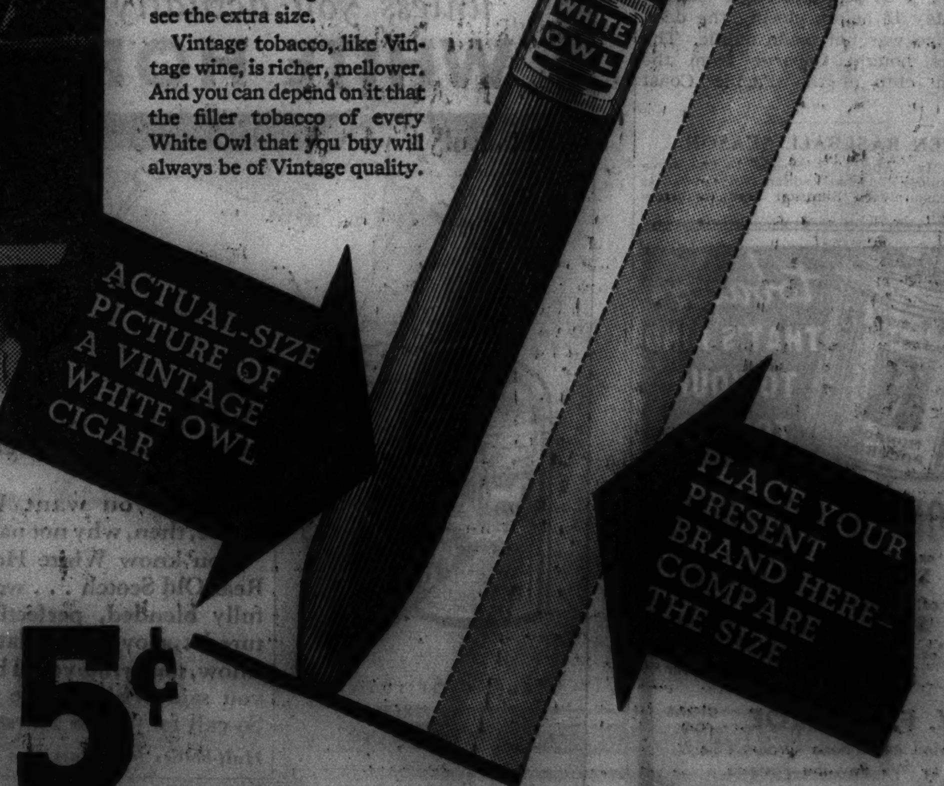


MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK—It's easy to be prejudiced about cigars when you can see the name on the band—but what happens when there are no familiar names, when they're chosen by taste alone?

Two hundred and sixty-eight men at the Daily News Golden Gloves Finals made a taste test. We gave each man two unidentified cigars—a Vintage White Owl and another—representing the leading nationally advertised brands. Each man smoked both cigars—then indicated the one he liked best. 74% preferred White Owl with its Vintage-tobacco taste. White Owl won hands down by its taste alone.

MORE SMOKING PLEASURE . . . Today's White Owl is a double "best buy." It's a Vintage cigar—and it's larger, too. Look at this actual-size picture. Compare White Owl with your present brand. Taste the Vintage tobacco—see the extra size.

Vintage tobacco, like Vintage wine, is richer, mellower. And you can depend on it that the filler tobacco of every White Owl that you buy will always be of Vintage quality.



IN THE BOX SEATS . . . In all parts of the house . . . smokers made the test—and the majority of them voted for Vintage mildness. Only White Owl assures you of Vintage tobacco in every cigar. This famous cigar is always mild.

And wherever you are . . . just around the corner in the nearest cigar store, 5¢ buys a Vintage White Owl—identical with those that win these tests.

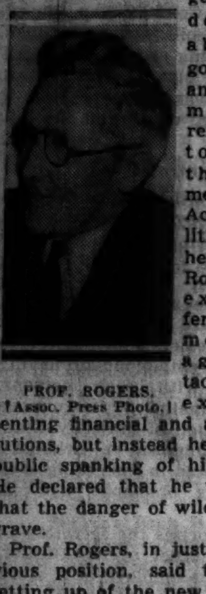
ROOSEVELT AID REBELS AGAINST MONEY POLICY

Declares Inflation Peril 'Very Great.'

BY REUBEN CAHN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—James Harvey Rogers, Yale professor, under whose guidance President Roosevelt abandoned the gold standard and adopted a managed currency, caused astonishment in the semi-annual meeting of the Academy of Political Science here today. Prof. Rogers had been expected to defend the government policy against the attacks of technical experts representing financial and academic institutions, but instead he joined in the public spanking of his brain child. He declared that he was convinced that the danger of wild inflation was grave.



PROF. ROGERS.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Prof. Rogers, in justifying his previous position, said that with the setting up of the new monetary system controls had been provided. Great care was taken, he said, not to permit the devaluation of the dollar to increase member bank reserves. Largely to assure this result the two billion dollar stabilization fund was created.

Acted to Avoid Inflation.

"In the new banking legislation still further care was taken to provide additional and entirely ample power to curb any undesirable inflation which might make its appearance," he said. "The authority of the new board of governors of our federal reserve system to raise the legal reserve requirements of the member banks by 100 per cent if necessary would seem to be a sufficiently powerful check for any probable emergency.

"With such safeguards provided in the monetary legislation and with such powerful checks in the hands of our central banking authorities, what then can be the danger from even large and long continued budget deficits?

"The answer is clear: Continued budget deficits require continued treasury financing. Treasury financing at reasonable rates requires easy and plentiful money conditions. But all the checks to inflation provided in our money and banking system are based upon reversing our easy money policy and turning it into a tight money policy.

Clash Is Inevitable.

"Hence, continued budget deficits and the resulting heavy government financing will lead to an inevitable clash between the policies of our treasury and those of our central banking authorities. Which policy will win? In all the post-war European inflations it was those of the treasuries. The inflation peril here is very great."

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, declared that he had repeatedly urged upon the government the necessity of applying the controls of which Prof. Rogers spoke, but that no action to thwart the inflation had been taken.

Prof. Ralph Robey of Columbia university was one of a number of speakers who saw inevitable inflation resulting from the rise in bank deposits and banking reserves.

"Between June, 1916, and June, 1920," said Prof. Robey, "demand deposits increased by 4 billion dollars, or at the rate of 19 million dollars a week.

"Prospect Is Frightening."

"As a result commodity prices doubled between June, 1921, and June, 1929; bank deposits increased by 8 billion dollars, and as a result stock prices quintupled. Between November, 1933, and October, 1935, demand deposits increased by 12 billion dollars, or at the rate of 115 million dollars per week. This is 6 times the rate of expansion which produced a doubling of commodity prices at one time and a quintupling of stock prices at another. The prospect is one to frighten the most courageous.

"There would be some possibility of saving us from our fate if control of credit was seized and interest rates tightened by a federal reserve system completely independent of the treasury. But the 1935 banking act removed the last vestige of independence."

Urges Balanced Budget.

The need, the professor said, was to bring the budget into balance. But so much harm has already been done, he said, that that would only be a step in the right direction.

"The debt of the government is in bad shape," he said. "There is a vast burden of floating debt, held by the banks, which must be funded before we are safe, and at much higher rates than are now current. Even with a balanced budget, that means lower prices for the long term bonds held by the banks. What effect a drastic reduction of government bond prices would have upon the banks I won't undertake to say."

Leon Fraser, former president of the World Bank for International Settlements, said that world recovery depended upon a return to a "reformed" or "directed" gold standard. He said, however, that Great Britain was holding back from any attempt to invite the United States into "partnership in such an attempt, awaiting a demonstration by our monetary authorities that they can and will control any inflationary credit expansion."

Stocks Climb Again; Public Back in Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—Wall street was in a decidedly bullish mood today as the speculative fraternity, encouraged by the demonstration of technical strength displayed earlier in the week, pushed the stock market into new high ground. Industrial averages reached their best figures in five years.

Brokers reported that the public, which has been content for the last two weeks to let the professional interests dominate the trading, was returning to the market, carrying volume for the day well over the 2,000,000 share mark and pushing many industrials through their old high marks. Gains in the list ranged from fractions to 2 and 3 points. Profit taking that appeared from time to time was readily absorbed and volume diminished when offerings appeared.

Rail Shares Lead Upturn.

One of the most encouraging developments was the action of the carrier shares. Assuming leadership in late trading many railroad issues established gains of a point or more and virtually monopolized the tape, as long inactive issues were trotted out. Santa Fe was a standout with a gain of 3 points.

Equipment shares also were buoyant. American Locomotive, Baldwin Lima Locomotive, and Pullman showed gains ranging from fractions to more than 2 points.

Any apprehensions that might have been felt over the foreign situation were forgotten in contemplation of the rosy hue of the domestic situation. Optimistic forecasts of first quarter earnings, expanded operations in heavy industries and other bullish indices of trade were reported to have done much to stimulate buying.

General Motors at New High.

General Motors was again an outstanding performer, spinning up to another new high on a gain of over a point. Chrysler crossed 100, but fell back to 99⅞, a gain of almost 2 points. Other automobile shares were fractionally higher.

Demand for steel shares was encouraged by predictions of better second quarter earnings. Bethlehem rose over a point to within a fraction of its highest level and United States Steel set a new peak of 68¾.

Old line industrials like Westinghouse, Western Union, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, and Air Reduction were up fractions to more than 3 points. A few special issues attracted attention. Minneapolis Honeywell, which is to be split three for one, jumped more than 9 points on a single sale.

Parmelee Company Reports First Profit Since 1929

The Parmelee Transportation company, taxi transfer and bus operators in principal cities, reported 1935 consolidated net income of $151,488, equal to 21 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $308,514 in 1934. Last year's profit was the first since 1929.

VOTING RIGHTS BLOCK REORGANIZATION FOR CONSUMERS COMPANY

Efforts to bring about a reorganization of the Consumers company, Chicago coal, ice, and building material concern, are threatening to break down because of the failure of security holders to agree on the division of future voting rights, trustees of the company reported yesterday to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Affairs of the company have been in litigation since June, 1934, when proceedings were brought for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy law. Attempts to organize a new company have been marked by internal dissension between factions.

"The trustees," says the report filed with the court, "have suggested several compromises, but none has been acceptable to all the parties representing the securities. The greatest difficulty encountered in bringing about an agreement between the stockholders involved is the question of voting power."

A hearing on the proposed reorganization is scheduled for April 7 before Judge Wilkerson.

CITY WARANTS SOLD AT NEW LOW INTEREST RATE OF 1½ PER CENT

City Controler Robert B. Upham yesterday reported a new record low interest rate on warants. He sold $435,000 of 1936 Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium corporate warants bearing 1½ per cent to Hickey Doyle & Co.

Before the recent depression years interest rates ranged between 4 and 5 per cent. Recently the city, because of its improved financial condition, has been selling corporate warants at 2 per cent.

Last week the county board sold forest preserve warants with an interest rate of 1¾.

Upham said that the city has redeemed all publicly held tax warants of 1934 and prior years.

ALBERTA BILL CONVERTS BOND DEBT INTO 'STOCK'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., April 2.—Power to convert every dollar of Alberta's present $160,000,000 provincial debt into perpetual provincial stock on which the principal need never be paid is contained in the Aberhart government's compulsory refunding legislation, it was revealed today when the bill was printed. The province defaulted yesterday on $3,200,000 of bonds.

The measure gives the government the authority to call in any present security it desires and to pay whatever interest it desires on the perpetual stock issued in its stead, as long as that interest is at least 2½ percent. No maximum is specified.

The perpetual stock maye be called or liquidated after 35 years, but only if the government so desires. The bill specifies payment in "lawful money of Canada."

Any court action by holders of present provincial securities to force the province to live up to its promises is outlawed by the legislation.

Premier Aberhart said the law would save $7,000 a day in interest.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE SHARPLY TO 6½ BILLIONS

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Bank clearings in 22 leading cities last week were $6,455,717,000, against $5,710,133,000 in the same week last year, a gain of 13.1 per cent, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

New York clearings totaled $4,504,656,000, a rise of 13.9 per cent. The aggregate for centers outside New York was 11.1 percent higher. Chicago clearings amounted to $294,300,000, a gain of 13.1 per cent.

"With the exception of decreases in New Orleans and Louisville," the report said, "all cities showed gains. The most pronounced of these increases occurred at Detroit, Omaha, Dallas, and Seattle."

Chicago Motor Coach Gains Passengers During March

The Chicago Motor Coach company yesterday reported an increase of 17.71 per cent in revenue passengers carried during March, as compared with a year ago. Including transfers accepted from the "L," the gain was 22.38 per cent. These figures compare with February gains of 22.57 and 27.96 per cent, respectively, which reflected an extra day, as compared with February a year ago.

March Panama Canal Trafic Is Heaviest in Six Years

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Panama Canal Zone, April 2.—With 526 transits in March the trafic of the Panama canal was the best in the last six years. The tolls amounted to $2,293,000.

Easter Trade Will Be Best in Six Years

Chicago is getting ready to stage a good, old fashioned Easter parade, according to a survey announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Feeling more money in their pockets, people here are minding their shopping and picking the brighter hues.

Shoppers in the loop, outlying sections, and suburbs are recalling the palmy days of 1929, the association reported, and are buying better and more apparel than in the last six years. Despite the low temperature records established during February, retail sales in that month showed a spectacular gain and were only a forerunner of the spring rush to follow:

Sales Exceed Year Ago.

"February sales of Chicago department stores, for example, were 8 per cent greater than those in January and slightly over 11 per cent in excess of those for February a year ago," the association said in quoting from the federal reserve research bureau. March sales totals are expected to far surpass those for February, as unusually large crowds have invaded Chicago's stores during the last two weeks.

The association found that pay rolls in the Chicago manufacturing industries are running about 21 per cent ahead of a year ago. Families on relief rolls have declined approximately 20 per cent. Building supply producers are reported to be working at top speed to meet the requirements of a building program, which is rapidly taking on the semblance of a boom.

Easter Trade Aids Employment.

Easter trade ranks only second in importance to Christmas trade in the minds of most merchants. This year's rush should give part time employment to thousands now unemployed. The association estimated department stores and apparel shops throughout the country will provide four or more weeks of work for 70,000 to 85,000 persons.

Evidence that people are also dressing up their homes was shown in the report of first quarter buyer registrations in the furniture division of the Merchandise Mart, which yesterday reported a gain of 51.6 per cent over the first three months of 1935.

REYNOLDS NEW PRESIDENT OF COLUMBIA GAS

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Edward Reynolds Jr. today was elected president of Columbia Gas and Electric company, succeeding P. G. Gossler, who was elected chairman of the board. Reynolds has been executive vice president since 1930. Walter C. Beckjord was named chairman of the executive committee. He has been vice president and general manager since 1934.

Directors declared a dividend of 20 cents a common share payable May 15 to stock of record April 20. The previous dividend was 20 cents declared Oct. 3, 1935, for the entire year. Directors said that business uncertainties "make it impossible to determine a stable dividend policy at this time, and the directors will consider the question of declaring a semi-annual dividend on the common stock six months hence."

DEPOSITS FLEE CHICAGO BANKS TO ESCAPE TAX

Sent East or Put in Exempt Securities.

A temporary flight of capital which drained Chicago banks of nearly 24 per cent of their total demand deposits took place last week under the shadow of the approaching tax assessor. The weekly condition statement of the banks, issued last night, showed a shrinkage of 308 million dollars in demand deposits between March 25 and April 1. It is on April 1 each year that the assessor makes his round for an inventory of assets subject to the personal property tax.

The statement showed total demand deposits on April 1 in Chicago banks of 1 billion dollars, compared with 1 billion, 308 millions a week earlier. Concurrently there was a decline in bank holdings of government securities and an increase in the deposits of New York banks, indicating the means by which individuals sought to escape the assessor's scrutiny.

Tax Exempt Bonds Bought.

Part of the vanishing capital found its way into short term, tax exempt securities, to be redeposited again when the assessment day has passed. The decline of 212 millions in bank holdings of government bonds is believed to be accounted for largely by sale of such tax exempt paper to individuals. Others seeking a haven for their funds transferred deposits to New York and other cities. This was reflected in the increase of 58 millions in demand deposits reported by the New York banks.

The experience of previous years shows that this tax conscious capital finds its way back to the Chicago banks in a few weeks.

Lack of Interest Is Factor.

The mobility of demand deposits is enhanced by the fact that banks are prohibited from paying interest on such funds. The depositor losses nothing by shifting his funds. Time deposits were not affected to any considerable degree by approach of the tax date. Such deposits in Chicago banks on April 1 stood at 413 million dollars, compared with 414 millions a week before. Such funds cannot be withdrawn without sacrifice of interest.

The reserves of Chicago banks on deposit with the federal reserve bank here dropped 81 millions, compared with the March 25 total, but for the country as a whole there was little change. The reserve board estimated the nation's banks had excess reserves of 2 billion, 310 millions on April 1, the same figure that was reported a week earlier.

Commercial loans rose in both New York and Chicago. The increase here amounted to 10 millions, while the eastern banks loaned 24 millions more to commercial borrowers. An increase of 58 millions in brokers' loans was reported by the New York banks. The total of such loans now outstanding is slightly in excess of one billion dollars, compared with the year ago total of 600 millions and the all-time high of 8 billions, 500 millions in 1929.

Eight million dollars were added to the country's gold store last week through importations, bringing the total to 10 billions, 185 millions.

Santa Fe Net Best Since '31; Reveal Plans to Fight Rivals

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Operation of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway in 1935 resulted in a net income of $9,554,315, as compared with a profit of $7,001,314 in 1934, according to the annual report sent stockholders yesterday by S. T. Bledsoe, president. After appropriation of $6,208,640 for preferred dividends and payment of a minor item of $10,800, a total of $3,334,875 was available for the common stock. The 1935 profit was the largest since 1931, when it totaled $23,321,665.

Bledsoe reported that each division of the road's major activities made a better showing than in 1934. He also disclosed plans to meet competition of other railroads in high speed trains and in the invasion of the Santa Fe territory by motor bus lines.

Total Revenues Rise.

The Santa Fe's total operating revenues for 1935 were $135,686,391, compared with $128,093,947 in 1934. Freight revenues totaled $109,685,779, an increase of $4,965,149 over 1934. Passenger revenues totaled $13,447,074, an increase of $1,476,432. Mail, express, and miscellaneous totaled $11,402,675, an increase of $1,150,862.

Operating expenses were $109,423,483 last year, compared with $102,083,479 in 1934. This increase was largely due to higher labor costs, Bledsoe said.

Bledsoe said the road had been considering a program for faster passenger service and told of experiments with a 3,600 horse power Diesel electric locomotive.

"The entire performance has been of high order and this general type of locomotive promises to be used extensively in the future," he said. "This locomotive is designed to handle standard passenger train equipment.

"Appropriations aggregating $2,200,000 were made for 1935 and 1936 to continue the general policy of reducing curvature along the transcontinental main line. Under this program curvature is being eliminated or reduced to make possible more sustained high speed operation with increased safety and comfort. This will reduce transportation expense, although the retirements and equivalent replacements resulting from the reduction in curvature are chargeable to operating expenses and will exceed the immediate saving in transportation."

Buy Bus, Truck Lines.

Bledsoe said the General Improvement company, wholly owned affiliate, has acquired the controlling interest in the Southern Kansas Stage Lines company, which operates passenger buses between Chicago and California and freight truck service in a considerable part of the area which the railroad serves.

Bledsoe said that the company will save $47,000 annually through the abandonment of 74 miles of track which had been made unprofitable on account of motor competition and exhaustion of natural resources.

In 1935 freight car loadings totaled 1,222,997, or slightly less than in 1934, but the average revenue per car was $5.29 larger. The emergency rate increases were given credit in part for the improvement. An increase of 17.07 per cent in miles traveled by passengers and an increase of 12.33 per cent in passenger revenues were attributed to improved business conditions and to the convenience and comfort of air conditioning equipment.

APPROVES OFFER ON EQUIPMENT OF GRIGSBY-GRUNOW

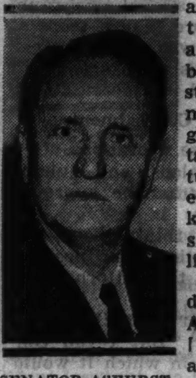
Referee Wallace Streeter yesterday recommended the acceptance of the bid of a Cincinnati group headed by Walter E. Scott for machinery and other personal property assets of the bankrupt Grigsby-Grunow company. The Cincinnati group offered $350,000 for this property.

A bid made on behalf of Commander Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of the Radio corporation, for real estate of the bankrupt company located on Dickens avenue, just west of Austin, was rejected by Streeter on the recommendation of Frank M. McKey, trustee, and members of the creditors' committee. McDonald offered $350,000 for the holding. Previously McDonald offered $855,000 for the real estate, machinery and good will of the company, but this was rejected.

SENATE PASSES DRASTIC BILL TO RULE PACKERS

Wallace to Control All Plants.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—The senate today defeated the so-called Capper amendments to the stockyards and packers' act, but adopted instead a substitute measure which gives the secretary of agriculture drastic powers over the marketing and slaughtering of live stock.



SENATOR ASHURST.

The bill, introduced by Senator Arthur Capper [Radical, Kas.] and debated desultorily for four days, would have prohibited packers from purchasing live stock directly from producers for any purpose other than immediate slaughter.

By a vote of 32 to 27, a bill drawn by Senator Louis Murphy [Dem., Ia.] and offered by Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] was substituted and later passed, 32 to 23.

"Extraordinary Legislation."

The Murphy bill, while not as broad in scope as the Capper measure, is even more drastic in some of its penalties, senators calling it one of the most extraordinary pieces of legislation within their experience.

It prohibits packers from operating any plant for the slaughtering of live stock unles sthey have registered and posted bond with the secretary of agriculture and then only under such regulations as the secretary shall prescribe. The penalty for violation of any provision of the section, which would include regulations prescribed thereunder, might be a fine of $500 to $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years or both.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], chairman of the judiciary committee, was one of those who denounced the practice of providing penal servitude for citizens who violate some rule or regulation laid down by a burocrat.

"My philosophy of life is that the champions of American freedom and

GIFFORD DEFENDS A.T.&T. POLICIES ON LEGISLATION

Expresses Hope Company Will Not Be Injured.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—A hope that the communications commission would do nothing "to unfairly injure the reputation of the America Telephone and Telegraph company," was coupled by President Walter S. Gifford today with a promise to scan the utility's lobbying practices to determine whether they should be reformed.

Gifford testified in the commission's investigation of American Telephone as Samuel Becker, special FFC counsel, introduced more than a score of exhibits detailing what he said were A. T. & T. "legislative activities" in Washington and in a dozen states.

Asked About Concealment.

He asserted these operations often had been "concealed" and quizzed Gifford as to whether he approved such a policy.

"What do you think about this practice of concealing your position on legislation?" the attorney demanded.

"That is not our general policy," Gifford answered. "But I can conceive of situations in which it would be the only way we could do anything effective to eliminate objectionable features of legislation."

"How often have you done it?" asked Becker.

"Not more than once in a hundred times," Gifford answered.

"The fact that it happens rarely doesn't mean that it's not a policy," Becker retorted sharply.

"It may be necessary only rarely."

Hopes for Good Results.

Asked if he had anything else to say, as Becker ended his examination, Gifford asserted.

"I am keenly sensitive to the reputation of our institution. I certainly hope that nothing will happen in these hearings to unfairly injure the reputation of the telephone industry. "I want to say, however, that I am hopeful that good results will come from this investigation."

Describing the "legislative practices" of A. T. & T. as "very high," Gifford said he would reëxamine them in the light of FCC disclosures to see whether they could be raised "any higher."

SENATE PASSES DRASTIC BILL TO RULE PACKERS

Sec. Wallace to Control All Plants.

liberty should yield nothing to the aggressor," he said. "I have always opposed this effort to put stripes on citizens not because they violate a law but some rule or regulation prescribed by some executive. Under this bill a man might be out on a range, riding under the cold stars, when a rule was laid down, and then come to town and find himself a felon."

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] said the whole bill was so "ridiculous" that nothing could be salvaged from it, but his plea to send it back to committee was submerged in a clamor of "vote, vote," and the bill was passed.

Even Controled Jobs.

The Murphy bill even contained a provision whereby the secretary of agriculture, upon finding that any officer, director, or employé of a packing concern had violated any provision of the act, could prohibit "all stock yard owners, market agencies and dealers and subject to this act" from employing or having any dealings with such persons. This was eliminated by unanimous consent on motion of Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, who said it related to something over which congress obviously had no control.

The bill authorizes the secretary to suspend any market agency, dealer, officer, agent, or employé of a stock yard owner from operation and provides a fine of $1,000 and a year in jail for persons operating after the cancelation of their registration. The secretary is given sweeping powers not only to examine the books of the packers but to issue rules under which they shall be kept, and violations of this provision are punishable by a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for not more than three years.

Radicals Support Bill.

The Capper bill was supported by radicals on both sides of the chamber, but was generally opposed by senators from live stock producing states, whose constituents it was supposed to benefit.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] denounced the measure as unconstitutional, in view of the Supreme court's decision in the NRA and AAA cases, and ridiculed legislative attempts to extend the power of burocracy over the sale of a single cow.

"Why pass a bill which on its face has been previously denounced by the Supreme court to have these poor farmers who are allured to the thought that there is a great benefit waiting in this bill for them, to seduce their credulity, only to have them awake to the fact that the act was invalid at the beginning, and known by the makers of it to be invalid?" Senator Lewis asked.

Descends to "Contemptibility."

"We bring the court, when it renders another opinion, into contempt on the part of these poor farmers who do not understand. We make this body a laughing stock. We do this trick apparently as legislators to be charged with having done it for political uses and for the appeal to political votes. That, sir, descends to a radius of contemptibility."

Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] who spoke long and frequently in support of the bill, argued that the packers' practice of going out to the farms and ranches and buying cattle direct from the producers tended to reduce competition and thus lowered the price at the central stockyards.

TOO DRASTIC, SAY PACKERS.

William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, said last night that the stockyards bill passed yesterday by the senate is "much too drastic" and that there has been "no real demand" for it.

Other Chicago packers expressed the opinion that it would merely put an added burden of expense and harassment on the packers. The bill, they pointed out, provides for fines and imprisonment for packers violating section 202 of the packers and stockyards act. Their complaint is that section 202 is so vague that it is difficult to ascertain just when infringements of its provisions occur.

Another objection is that the new bill would authorize "fishing expeditions" by the secretary of agriculture into the books of the packing companies.

WHEAT CRASHES TO NEW LOWS IN WORLD MARKETS

Prospect for Larger Crop Causes Selling.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A wave of selling swept over the wheat markets of the world yesterday, sending prices to the lowest figures that have been quoted this season.

On the Chicago Board of Trade the July and September future contracts, based on the 1936 crop, crashed 1¾ cents a bushel to reach a new low price level. July wheat closed at 83¾ and September at 82½ cents. In the Kansas City market the new crop contracts likewise fell to a new low price level and all futures in Minneapolis and Winnipeg experienced a similar decline.

Foreign Markets Break.

In the Canadian market the losses reached 2 cents a bushel. At the same time in Liverpool, the principal European market, wheat dropped approximately a cent a bushel.

The immediate cause of the break in the Chicago market was the execution of large selling orders by a half dozen of the leading commission houses. This selling reputedly represented liquidation of speculative market commitments that had been made over the last several weeks.

To what extent yesterday's liquidation represented short selling could not be determined but it was apparent when the first decline in prices occurred that small holders hastened to get out from under the falling market and professional operators found an opportunity for profitable short operations.

Month's Drop Is 7 Cents.

In the last four weeks the prices of the new crop futures in Chicago have declined over 7 cents a bushel. Yesterday's closing quotation of 83¾ cents on the July contract compares with the March 2 price of 91 cents a bushel. The decline has proceeded at an accelerated pace this week. The recession yesterday brought the losses so far this week to approximately 4 cents a bushel.

Underlying the market weakness is the prospect that the country may harvest the biggest winter wheat crop in several years. The prospect is by no means certain, but the large acreage sown suggests a big return if normal weather conditions prevail. Government statisticians fix the total acreage at 47 millions.

May Have Export Surplus.

A large crop would again put this country in the export market, with the necessity of placing domestic prices on a competitive basis internationally.

The last few days have brought snow and rain in some sections of the producing belt that need moisture. In the semi-arid belt of the southwest, however, the crop is in a precarious position with its ultimate outcome dependent on weather conditions in the next few weeks.

Closing prices on July grain futures yesterday, with comparative quotations, follow:

	Yesterday.	Wednes.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	.83¾	85½	87
Corn	.59⅝	60⅛	58⅞
Oats	.26	25⅞	26⅞
Rye	.51¾	51⅞	51⅜

May wheat, an old crop contract, closed yesterday at 94¾ cents a bushel, 1⅝ cents below Wednesday's final quotation. The declines that took place in corn, oats, and rye were induced by the weakness in the wheat market.

FRENCH MONEY DIPS AGAIN AS BANK LOSES GOLD

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—The franc declined today, canceling its recovery of yesterday, and carrying down with it all other important European currencies. The decline was ascribed partly to disappointment over the reception given Adolf Hitler's reply to the Locarno powers, and partly to the unfavorable weekly report of the Bank of France.

The reaction carried the franc down to 6.59¾ cents, a decline of 1¼ points. This dip caused the dollar to rise to 100.60 cents against francs from 100.41 cents yesterday.

The Bank of France's gold loss in the week ended March 27 totaled $7,497,166. Experts predicted that the total loss during the current crisis will amount to about $68,000,000.

JONES-LAUGHLIN BOND OFFERING IS WELL TAKEN

An offering yesterday by a banking group of 30 million dollars of 4½ per cent bonds, due 1961, of the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation was reported in La Salle street to have moved very well. It was reported a major part of the bonds have been taken by investors and it is expected the rest will be taken today.

The bonds were said to have been especially well received in the Pittsburgh district, where the headquarters of the company is located, and in the northwest. Offered at 97, dealers were reported to be bidding this price for the bonds yesterday. The Mellon Securities corporation headed the banking group which offered the bonds.

Biggest Winter Wheat Harvest in 5 Years Forecast by Experts

A winter wheat crop of 537,000,000 bushels for this year's harvest was suggested by the average estimate of five Chicago statisticians whose reports were given to the trade yesterday. This compares with 433,000,000 bushels secured in 1935 and is the best prospect since 1931 when the harvest was 818,000,000 bushels.

NAT C. MURRAY.

Abandoned acreage is estimated at 15.6 per cent of the 47,500,000 acres seeded last fall, suggesting a loss of around 7,500,000 acres and leaving 40,000,000 acres for harvest, providing weather conditions are normal during the balance of the season. The 10 year average abandonment is 12.6 per cent.

While there was some deterioration in the condition of the crop in the dry sections in the southwest, this was more than offset by improvement in other sections of the country. The indicated crop, its conditions and abandoned acreage as given by Chicago statisticians compare as follows:

	Crop [bu].	Condition.	Abandoned pct.
B W Snow	520,000,000	69.7	.....
Nat C Murray	545,000,000	71.5	14.0
B O Cromwell	545,000,000	71.9	17.4
R C Donovan	550,000,000	.....	15.0
E H Miller	545,000,000	75.8	16.0
Average	537,000,000	72.2	15.6
March average	528,000,000	72.6	.....
Government, Dec 1	530,000,000	78.2	.....
Do April 1 1935	435,000,000	69.8	.....
Final 1935	433,000,000	.....	.....

Cold weather during January and February resulted in heavy consumption of corn on farms, with apparent disappearance of 531,000,000 bushels between Jan. 1 and April 1, according to reports of Chicago statisticians. They estimate about 812,000,000 bushels remain in farmers' hands, compared with 438,000,000 bushels on April 1, 1935. The reduction in farm reserves during the winter, however, was not up to the average of recent years, owing to the smaller number of live stock on hand.

Farm disappearance of wheat during the last three months was 57,000,000 bushels, with 102,000,000 bushels still on hand, or 8,000,000 bushels more than a year ago. With that exception the supply was the smallest since 1928. Farm stocks of oats are placed at 440,000,000 bushels, showing 331,000,000 bushels less than on Jan. 1, the heaviest reduction during that period in over ten years.

FEDERAL TAX RECEIPTS FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Income tax collections for March amounted to $412,452,233, compared with $326,268,511 in the same month last year, according to final figures issued today by the treasury department. For the first nine months of the fiscal year receipts of income taxes amounted to $1,045,679,394, against $793,221,346 a year ago.

Collections for March and the nine months have been close to the estimates. It is expected that about $1,500,000,000 will be received in the year ending June 30.

Miscellaneous internal revenue, including the liquor, tobacco, and manufacturers' excise taxes, amounted to $291,218,692 for March, against $188,919,079 last year, and for the nine months, $1,535,813,164, compared with $1,267,022,945. Both tobacco and liquor taxes have been gaining steadily during the year.

The government's total receipts for the first nine months of the fiscal year amounted to $3,099,979,838 as against $2,862,760,231 the year before. Expenditures were $5,337,110,340, compared with $5,062,459,201 which included $2,906,809,460 in general expenditures compared with $2,457,354,290 last year, and emergency costs of $2,430,300,889, against $2,605,104,911.

At the end of March the deficit was $2,237,130,510, compared with $2,199,698,969 March 31, 1935. The public debt at the end of March was $31,459,140,278, compared with $28,817,458,097 a year earlier.

U. S. TO PURCHASE WESTERN WHEAT FOR RELIEF USE

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today approved plans for the purchase of 2,500,000 bushels of Pacific coast wheat, to be used for distribution to relief agencies. The purchase will be made before July 1.

The move is planned to reduce the surplus wheat in the far west which ordinarily cannot be shipped profitably to the eastern part of the country because of freight charges. Middle western and eastern milling concerns have found it more advantageous to import Canadian wheat, paying a duty of 42 cents a bushel, than to bring grain from the west coast.

The wheat will be ground into flour and donated to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, which will distribute the flour east of the Rocky mountains.

Government figures indicate that stocks of wheat in the northwest will amount to 14,000,000 bushels July 1.

Wallace's decision was made on the recommendation of his commodities purchase committee. The plans call for the purchase of wheat of No. 2 grade western white wheat or better and western red wheat in the states of Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

The government has granted subsidies in the past to the wheat growers of the northwest. In 1933 the government purchased 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in the area and sold it to China.

Chicago Board of Trade Starts 89th Year Today

The Chicago Board of Trade today will begin its 89th year of operation. The exchange was founded April 3, 1848. Commenting yesterday on the anniversary, Robert P. Boylan, president of the exchange, pointed out that the 1935 receipts of grain in the Chicago market brought to 15 billion, 800 million bushels the total that has been received since 1855, when the first records were started.

LARD DECLINES SHARPLY ON WEAKNESS IN GRAINS

Weakness in the grain markets had a depressing effect on lard futures yesterday and more than offset the strength in hogs. Closing trades were at net losses of 2½ to 12½ cents, September leading the decline. Lard futures in Liverpool declined about ¼ cent per pound. Stocks of lard in cold storage at seven leading western packing points were reduced 2,292,000 pounds during March, while supplies of cured meats decreased 3,763,000 pounds. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged yesterday.

Cash lard closed at $11.10, with loose $10.55, leaf $10.62, and clear bellies $15.22 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

GERMANY PERSUADES INSURANCE FIRMS TO BUY BIG BOND ISSUE

BERLIN, April 2.—(AP)—The German government, it was disclosed today, has placed a new loan of approximately 500,000,000 marks [about $200,000,000] with Germany's insurance companies.

Although no purpose was announced for the loan, foreign observers assumed it was to finance part of the military program resulting from reoccupation and the expected refortification of the western border.

The finance ministry signed agreements with representatives of German insurance companies whereby they will buy a government loan in 1936 totaling the same amount as their 1935 investments.

It was recalled that insurance caches, like savings banks and mortgage companies, were raided once for loans of 500,000,000 marks each.

The newspaper Kreutz Zeitung said the government will issue new bonds in 1936 bearing 4½ per cent interest, and will sell the loans which were issued in 1935.

GREAT WESTERN OPPOSES PLAN TO DIVIDE M. & ST. L.

The Chicago Great Western railroad has withdrawn from the application of the Associated Railways company, composed of seven western railways, for dismemberment of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad and will oppose the application before the interstate commerce commission hearing to be held in Minneapolis on April 6, P. H. Joyce, president and co-trustee, announced last night.

Joyce said the trustees believe it will be to the best interests of the Great Western, as well as to the best interests of the four states served by the Minneapolis and St. Louis, to oppose dismemberment of the road. The M. & St. L. has been in receivership since 1923.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 2.—(AP)—FLOUR—Prices were 10 cents lower today. Carload lots of family patents were quoted at $6.50@6.70 a barrel in 98 pound cotton sacks. Shipments were 19,968 brls. Standard middlings were $15.50@16.00 per ton.

TRACTION LINE'S PROPOSED LOAN RECORD FOR SEC

109 Millions Involved; for Refunding.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation filed a registration statement with the securities and exchange commission today covering $109,000,000 of securities, chiefly for refunding purposes. This was the largest amount ever included in a single registration statement filed under the securities act of 1933.

The proposed issues are $48,000,000 of rapid transit collateral trust 3½ per cent serial bonds, due May 1, 1947, to May 1, 1951, and $61,000,000 of rapid transit collateral trust bonds, 4½ per cent series, due May 1, 1966.

Tentative Date April 22.

The tentative date for the offering was given as April 22 and the redemption operation would occur on July 1.

A part of the proceeds from the proposed issues, the statement said, would be applied to the redemption of $82,669,000 of rapid transit secured 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, series A, due July 1, 1968, at 105, and $10,000,000 of fifteen years secured 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, series A, due June 1, 1949, at 103.

The balance of proceeds would be deposited with the trustee and may be withdrawn by the corporation for the purchase or redemption of outstanding rapid transit first and refunding bonds of series A, or for payment for equipment.

Credit Bank Loan Offered.

Offering was made yesterday through Charles R. Runn, fiscal agent, of an issue of $18,000,000 of the federal intermediate credit banks debentures, maturing in six to twelve months. The debentures are priced to yield 0.25 for the first maturity to 0.45 per cent for the final maturity.

It is expected that formal announcement of an offering of about $175,000,000 of new consolidated bonds of federal land banks will be made early next week.

The state of Minnesota awarded a new issue of $2,650,000 of highway bonds to a banking syndicate headed by the National City bank at 100.619 for 2½s. The bonds will be dated May 1, 1936, and mature on May 1, 1948 to 1952. They were reoffered at prices to yield 2.25 to 2.40 per cent, according to maturity.

URGES HOLDERS OF PARK BONDS JOIN REFUNDING

John O. Rees, director of the Committee on Public Expenditures, yesterday urged acceptance of the refunding plan of the Chicago park district by bondholders who have not already assented to the proposal. Halsey, Stuart & Co., refunding agents under the plan, announced on Tuesday that holders of approximately 70 per cent of the 91 million dollars of defaulted obligations had assented. Acceptance by 85 per cent of the bonds is necessary to consummation of the plan.

Rees said bondholders have nothing to gain by delay in depositing bonds and that indifference of minority holders may jeopardize the plan.

"If the plan is accepted by bondholders," Rees said, "then the collections from delinquent taxes can be used along with collections on levies for the new bonds to pay interest regularly, with no defaults in principal, and the balance of the collections can be used to retire the debt.

"It is not possible to levy 1935 taxes for both the old bonds and the new bonds, and either the old levies or the new levies will have to be abated shortly by the park district."

If the plan has to be abandoned, he added, the park district cannot be expected to make further burdensome deficiency levies on account of the bonds.

UNION STATION'S NEW 44 MILLION LOAN APPROVED

Refunding Issue of 3¾s to Be Sold at 102¼.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Chicago Union Station company to issue 44 million dollars of first mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds for redemption of outstanding bonds.

The commission also authorized the four railroads sharing the Union station to guarantee the bond issue and an additional $600,000 of promissory notes to be issued by the Union Station company under the interstate commerce act. The bonds are to be sold at 102¼ and accrued interest.

The new bonds will replace $30,850,000 of 4½ per cent and $13,150,000 of 5 per cent bonds. The saving effected will be 9 million dollars.

One Commissioner Dissents.

Commissioner Robert R. Porter dissented in part from the order.

"The capital set-up of the Chicago Union Station company," he said, "is top-heavy with interest-bearing debt. The total net saving under the refinancing here proposed will be about $9,000,000. Certainly that much should be set aside as a sinking fund before maturity of the $44,000,000 series E bonds here to be issued.

"Payments into such a fund should commence in two years, increase in four more years, and be sufficient by maturity to retire at least $9,000,000 of these bonds. Such a requirement would eventually benefit the station company, the proprietary lines, and especially the public."

Sinking Fund Unnecessary.

The majority held the requirement of a sinking fund unnecessary because of provisions for reducing the company's indebtedness.

"It is alleged," said the majority ruling, "that a sinking fund would complicate the plan of refinancing and necessitate a change in the provisions of the mortgage, would differentiate between the treatment of the holders of the several series of bonds issued thereunder, and would be burdensome, especially to the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad company, a tenant company."

UNITED PUBLIC UTILITIES MAKES INITIAL REPORT

The United Public Utilities corporation, a reorganized segment of the old Middle West Utilities system, yesterday issued a report on its first full year of operations showing net income of $130,278. The period covered by the report is the year ended Dec. 31, 1934.

Gross operating revenues of the company and its subsidiaries in 1935 were $3,332,000, an increase of 5⅛ per cent over the gross revenues of the predecessor companies in 1934. The company carried its total assets at $19,929,000. Current assets were reported at $1,690,000, compared with current liabilities of $734,688. The company and its subsidiaries had no bank loans outstanding at the year-end.

Lucius Teter, Former Banker, Forms New Firm

Lucius Teter, former banker and real estate man, yesterday announced the organization of Lucius Teter & Co., which will specialize in reorganizations, personal trusteeships, and special negotiations. Offices will be maintained in the Field building. Associated with Teter are C. H. Fox and Joseph A. Duner.

COTTON MARKET IS FIRM AGAIN; UP 5 TO 13 POINTS

Cotton futures showed a stronger undertone yesterday and the uneasiness so much in evidence Wednesday, concerning the proposed method of disposing of government holdings, vanished overnight. Washington developments, however, continue to be a dominating influence in the market. Closing trades in Chicago yesterday were at net gains of 8 to 14 points and other markets were up 5 to 13 points. [A point is equal to 1-100 cent.]

Spot cotton closed 5 to 15 points higher with New Orleans at 11.75 cents, Houston and New York 11.70 cents, and Galveston 11.60 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

STORMS CAUSE ADVANCE IN BUTTER, EGG PRICES

Stormy conditions yesterday over the leading butter and egg producing states imparted a firmer undertone to the markets on the mercantile exchange. October eggs closed ⅛ cent higher at 21⅝ cents per dozen, an advance of ¼ to ⅝ cent in the spot market, having some effect. November butter advanced ¼ cent to 25⅝ cents per pound. The top market was up ¼ to ½ cent. Sales of butter futures were 14 cars and eggs 29 cars.

The American association report showed production of butter during the last week was only 3.55 per cent above the preceding week and 2.13 per cent in excess of last year. This was in striking contrast with the Land o' Lakes report which had shown an increase of more than 21 per cent for both periods. Prices follow:

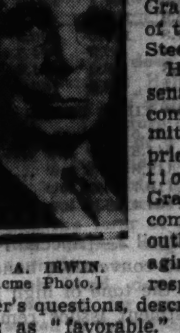
STEEL LEADERS PREDICT GAINS FOR INDUSTRY

Concerned by High Taxes, Federal Spending.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—Better times for the steel industry were predicted today by W. A. Irvin, president of United States Steel corporation, and Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation.



W. A. IRWIN. [Acme Photo.]

Here for the senate interstate commerce committee inquiry on price determination formulas, Grace told the committee "The outlook is encouraging." Irvin, in response to reporter's questions, described the prospects as "favorable." He said the industry "ought to keep going for the next couple of months at least as well as we are now."

Reports Business Better.

"Business in this quarter ought to be the highest in some time," Grace said, after Chairman Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] sought his views on the general situation.

"There is certainly a greater volume of business than there was."

"Should it be regarded as a permanent pickup?"

"I think there are too many uncertain factors to be assured that it is. It's a question as to what kind of economics we are following. The cost of government, high taxation, and that sort of thing are going to play a part. We should work for lower costs."

The steel leaders were called to testify on Wheeler's bill to eliminate the price determination method wherein transportation charges from any given base point are added to production cost to make the price.

Grace, who also is president of the American Iron and Steel institute, assailed the measure, saying "disruption and widespread dislocation for the steel industry" would result from its enactment.

Asked About Violation.

In his testimony he conceded that the Bethlehem company "may not be" following the principle of a federal trade commission order issued in 1924 which directed U. S. Steel to desist from the "Pittsburgh plus" price fixing system.

Under that system Pittsburgh was the sole base point. Wheeler read off a section in the order, issuance of which caused establishment of multiple base points, decreeing that only production points be used as basing points.

"Do you feel you are complying with the order of the federal trade commission at present?" he asked.

"We think so," said Grace.

"Do you make sheets at Sparrow's Point [Md.]?"

"Yes."

"Is that a basing point?"

"No, the production is not important enough."

Wheeler then suggested Bethlehem was not complying with the ruling.

"If that is the case, under that interpretation, we may not be complying."

FIELD SEEDS

Timothy seed was quoted at $8.00 per 100 pounds for country run and $3.40@3.45 for fancy recleaned.

Prices quoted are for irregular country run lots, unless otherwise specified, per 100 pounds. Jobbers' prices on the retail trade are higher. Red clover, country run, $14.85@20.10; fancy recleaned, $20.35@21.35; alsike, $16.25@22.75. Alfalfa, Kansas, $15.00; Idaho, $16.00; Grimm, $21.00. Sweet clover, country run, $4.10@4.60. New York, April 2.—[Special.]—The market favored convertible bonds today, although the tone of high grade straight investment issues remained strong.

Gains of one to three points or more were recorded in bonds either convertible into stock or accompanied by warrants for the purchase of stock. These included Studebaker 6s, Pure Oil 4¼s, Great Northern 4s of 1946, International Cement 4s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Auburn 4¾s, Alleghany 5s and Allis Chalmers 4s. International Hydro-Electric convertible 6s were a notable exception to the trend. On large offerings they again slumped sharply to a new low.

Secondary Issues Advance.

In addition to convertibles gains of a point or more were scored by some second grade issues, including Missouri Pacific refunding 5s of two series and the general 4s, Soo Line 5½s and Western Pacific first 5s.

Government bonds were mostly higher. Treasury 3⅛s of 1949 improved 5-32ds at 105.13, and several other direct loans got up nearly as much. Home Owners loan and Federal Farm mortgage issues did little either way. Trading activity showed little improvement over the small volume of recent sessions.

Other Issues are Higher.

Issues advancing 1 to 2 or more points included Bush Terminal 5s, Chesapeake corporation 5s at 130¾, Lehigh Valley 4s at 56⅞ and Nickel Plate 4½s at 83.

The Italian group provided the main support in the foreign department. Milan 6½s were 2¼ higher and advances of 1 to 2 were shown by the majority of the others, including the government 7s. Japanese 5½s were fractionally lower.

Transfers of $11,287,000, par value, compared with $8,802,000 the day before.

Houston Oil.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information regarding Houston Oil. —S. L. A.

Answer: Houston Oil Company of Texas was established about 35 years ago as a lumber company. Prospects appeared favorable for oil and gas development about 1918 and in a short while the company became primarily a producer of those two products. The timber on its original holdings has been largely cleared off and a subsidiary now handles the sale of the cleared land in small lots for agricultural purposes.

The company has developed its resources materially during the last few years. Reserves of oil and gas have increased substantially.

During 1935 gross revenues from the natural gas division increased and unit cost of gas sold decreased. An important contract to supply natural gas expired and was not renewed on Jan. 1, 1936, but since then a contract with another consumer of large quantities of the product has been signed.

Oil prices were firm last year and demand was good. The four year record of earnings [consolidated] follows:

	Gross operating income.	Net income.	Inc. per com. shr.
1935	$6,457,000	$838,000	$ .27
1934	5,775,000	217,000	*.29
1933	4,855,000	*487,000	*.93
1932	5,412,000	*902,000	*1.31

*Loss.

The company follows the practice of treating its land holdings on a nonconsolidated basis.

On Dec. 31, 1935, current assets, including cash of $2,097,000, were $3,514,000 and current liabilities were $731,000. Funded debt totals $8,690,000. There are outstanding 357,904 shares of $25 par cumulative preferred and 1,098,618 shares of $25 par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Feb. 1, 1932.

Muskegon Motors.

Investors' Guide: Kindly let me know what dividends have been paid on Muskegon Motors A stock since Dec. 1, 1934. Thank you.—J. C.

Answer: Total dividends paid and declared on Muskegon Motor Specialties company A stock since Dec. 1, 1934, aggregate $1.50 a share. One dividend of 50 cents will be paid on April 4, 1936. A dividend of 25 cents a share was paid on Aug. 10, 1935, and one on July 10. On May 4, 1935, a 50 cent dividend was paid.

BANKERS STRIVE TO ELIMINATE U.S. COMPETITION

Seek to Lead Way to Full Business Recovery.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

To restore prosperity business men and bankers should be given the opportunity to resume the leadership which played such an important part in the growth and development of the country, Robert V. Fleming, president of the American Bankers' association, said yesterday in opening the two day midwest conference on banking service at the Stevens hotel.

R. V. FLEMING.

In this undertaking, Fleming asserted, business and the banks should have the active support of the government. The bankers of the nation are engaged in a comprehensive undertaking to remove the federal government from competition with them, he explained.

Explains Emergency Situation.

"We must recognize that in times of emergency the government of necessity had to come to the assistance of the people where chartered institutions were unable to do so, because of the nature of the emergency, Fleming said.

"Possibly many functions which the government is performing are of a nature which cannot be handled by the chartered banking institutions under fundamental principles of sound banking. On the other hand, I believe it is our duty to survey all these emergency lending agencies of the government to ascertain methods being employed in this field.

"Government competition in such lines as can be soundly handled by commercial banks vitally affects earnings. With the presence of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation in the banking structure, it is to the interest of the federal government that banks be permitted a fair return."

Chicagoans on Program.

Harold V. Amberg, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, called for recognition of the fact that banking cannot be bound in a straitjacket of rigid regulation without ill effects. He suggested that the federal reserve board confine its exercise of powers over banks to general regulations to make for flexible development of banking and delay the "setting in of rigor mortis in respect to individual initiative and responsibility."

Harry A. Brinkman, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, advised against turning down loans because of low interest and said it was better to take a small return on a good credit than to risk investment in a second grade security or have money lying idle.

"Where loans are sound, I wouldn't be letting any government agency take business away from my bank because of the rate," declared George J. Schaller, president of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Schaller urged bankers to go out after business, said farm loans are good, and asserted bankers have more leeway now than they used to have in lending.

Gives Advertising Suggestion.

Collective advertising in newspapers for the smaller banks should be included in any well rounded public and customer relations program, Fred M. Bowman of Topeka, secretary of the Kansas Bankers' association, told the bankers.

"Several banks in a community joining together and running one common advertisement over the signatures of the respective banks would not only lessen the cost to each bank but also remove unfortunate competitive statements sometimes occurring in individual advertising," he suggested.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in active demand yesterday and ¼@⅜c per doz higher with less than carlots showing the most strength. Receipts were 25,904 cases. Butter advanced ¼@½c per lb with receipts of 10,268 tubs. Live hens were 1@1½c lower and leghorn hens, unchanged to 1½c per lb lower. Receipts were 3 cars and 15 trucks. Potatoes were in liberal supply and slow demand. The market was somewhat easier. Arrivals were 87 cars with 399 cars on team track.

DeLEE BRINGS BEAUTY CULTURE
SUCCESS
DeLEE students receive that "extra something" which makes for success. In addition to receiving the finest type of beauty culture and hairdressing instruction they are trained in the really fine points of the profession, which distinguish outstanding from "average" operators.
Visit DeLEE today. See this beautiful school for yourself. See how students are being turned into beauty experts, under the personal direction of Madame Louise. Talk with the DeLEE Dean. She will tell you how you, too, can become a beauty expert. She will also tell you about the reasonable fees and DeLEE'S easy payment plan.

AUTOMOBILE LOANS.

Auto Loans

On loans secured by automobiles this bank charges the same rate whether the car is new or used. We only require Fire and Theft, and we much prefer that this insurance be placed through your own broker, and you may of course add the premium in the loan account which is paid off monthly. Here are typical costs and terms:

Balance to Be Financed.	Total Yearly Charge.	Total Amount of Note.	12 Monthly Deposits.
$100	$12.08	$112.08	$ 9.34
200	19.00	219.00	18.25
300	23.04	323.04	26.92
400	29.00	429.00	35.75
500	35.08	535.08	44.59
600	41.04	641.04	53.42
700	47.00	747.00	62.25

We also make co-maker and collateral loans.

ALTON EVENING TELEGRAPH

ALTON, ILLINOIS

March 28, 1936

Mr. Hiram McCullough,
Office Manager,
Department of Insurance,
Springfield, Ill.

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 28th: I did not apply for appointment to your department, and thus did not return the blank. I am grateful to you for proffering me a position, since this is the first in many years of Democratic stumping, but I find I cannot accept. Since acceptance of such a position could make no difference in my connection with the newspaper, may I assure you that rejection will not change one iota my political beliefs. From the time of James M. Cox until today I have been in the ranks of the unterrified Democracy—and before that I had kid arguments for Bryan and then Wilson. I have been in the ranks as to voting, speaking, donating, etc., and served seven years as precinct committeeman. Nor does my refusal of your kind offer indicate any change in my attitude toward the candidates for Governor, for I believe in regarding honest service.

JJd:dm

Respectfully yours

Joseph J. Dromgoole

APPROVED FOR PAYMENT Director of Finance

I hereby certify that the names of employees, the position occupied, actual time of service and appropriation chargeable, as shown on this payroll sheet are correct, and that the work of all employees in the classified service, is in accordance with their civil service title and exclusively for the benefit of the State of Illinois.

Ernest Palmer

TITLE Director of Insurance Head of Division.

PAY CHECKS ORDERED BEFORE RECIPIENTS WERE OFFERED JOBS—More evidence figuring in the charge of State Treasurer Stelle that Gov. Horner padded the state pay rolls. This is a pay roll sheet of the department of insurance showing that checks were asked for two men for work done 13 days before the men were offered jobs. The men were offered jobs on March 25 and the pay roll was dated March 20, for period of March 12 to March 31. (Story on page 1.)

ELK FED IN COOK COUNTY FOREST PRESERVE AFTER FOUR INCHES OF SNOW COVER GROUND—A scene in the Elk Grove forest preserve yesterday as the elk, which are seldom photographed, were being fed after spring snowstorm. The animals are kept in a large enclosure and are a source of interest for thousands of visitors. Spring disappeared and winter returned to Chicagoland yesterday with the April storm. The forecaster predicts continued cold weather. In the city the snow made walking difficult and impeded trafic. (Story on page 1.)
